DESPERATE OUTLAWS MURDER GUARDS AND ATTEMPT ESCAPE

BATTLE IN STREETS

MILKMAN'S PERILOUS PLIGHT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., Nov. 24.—In a desperate attempt to escape from the state penitentiary this afternoon, five convicts fought for freedom with weapons and nitro-glycerine at the prison gate, killing two prison officers and wounding Deputy Warden See, and four men made a dash through the streets of Jefferson City under fire, only to be captured after two of the escaped men had been wounded. Five prisoners, taking advantage of the absence of Warden Hall and six guards, who left today with 71 federal prisoners for Fort Leavenworth, Kan., attempted to escape, but only four left the prison after wrecking the gate.

Convicts Harry Vaughn, Charles Raymond, Hiram Blake, George Ryan and Eli Zeigler, who were working close inside the prison gate, having secured pistols and a bottle of nitro-glycerine, entered Deputy Warden R. M. See's office and shot him in the arm and hip as he sat in a chair. He sank back helpless and the convicts rushed to the gate where they met Gateman John Clay, who, being alarmed by the shots fired at See, opened the gate to look inside. Before Clay could raise his weapon, he was shot dead. E. Allison, commissary officer, ran to Clay's assistance and was also shot dead.

Leave One Man Behind.

Then, as if to signal the convicts generally that an attempt to escape had been started, the convicts rang the gate bell and rushed through the gate, dragging Clay's body with them. They slammed the gate shut and fastened it, while Zeigler was ringing the bell, and he was left inside.

The four convicts were then in the wagon entrance to the penitentiary. This entrance is 40 feet long and 15 feet wide. It leads to the public street through a second double gate of steel, which was locked. The convicts placed nitro-glycerine under the outside gate and blew an opening through the steel doors. The four men crawled through this rupture and dashed through a number of "trusty" convicts who were working in the street.

Almost before the four escaped convicts had covered a block prison officers were in pursuit, shooting as they ran. Pedestrians jumped behind trees, ran into houses and crouched down behind any obstacle that presented refuge from the bullets. Several men seized weapons and joined the prison officers in the pursuit. The chase kept on for a dozen blocks, the convicts outrunning their pursuers.

Driver's Perilous Ride.

Near the Missouri Pacific railway depot the convicts came up with a wagon driven by Orville Lane. Jumping into this wagon, the desperadoes seized Lane and used him as a shield from the bullets of their pursuers. One convict lashed the horse into a run and escape seemed sure, when suddenly a squad of city policemen and armed citizens appeared in front of the fleeing men, who stopped the horse and made a desperate stand.

Lane was thrown to the bottom of the wagon, and, crouching over him, shielding themselves as well as possible behind the sides of the vehicle, the four convicts fought the policemen.

Volley after volley was fired in the street by both sides to the conflict, while residents and pedestrians fled to escape stray bullets. The policemen, sheltering themselves behind trees, splintered the wagon and ploughed up the mud, finally putting a bullet through Vaughn and Blake, the latter falling to the ground. He died of his wounds tonight.

Then the convicts surrendered, much to the relief of Lane, who said that bullets had thrown splinters all about him. Lane and his horse and Convicts Ryan and Raymond were uninjured. The convicts were immediately taken back to the penitentiary.

Convict Harry Vaughn was sentenced from St. Louis for 35 years for robbery after a street fight, in which he and a companion shot three detectives to death. Raymond and Blake are serving three years each for burglary. George Ryan of Kansas City is serving eight years for robbery, while Eli Zeigler is under sentence of three years for robbing bodies at a railroad wreck.

Useless Engines Sent to Panama.

PANAMA, Nov. 24.—It is reported that a number of the new engines which recently arrived in Panama for use on the railroad are unfit for service here.

THE GAZETTE SENDS $2,000 MORE TO SUFFERERS

Two Thousand 00/100 Dollars
On account for Russian Relief Fund.
Albert M. Hanauer Treas

J. R. Weldin & Co. Stationers, Pitts.

Second Settlement Is Made With Local Relief Society, Which Has Received $3,500 from The Gazette Fund to Date.

Two thousand dollars was yesterday paid to Treasurer Albert M. Hanauer of the Pittsburgh Society for the Relief of Russian Sufferers from the proceeds of The Gazette fund, the payment being the second made since the fund started. The first payment was made on November 21, when $1,500 was turned over to the local society and forwarded by it to Jacob H. Schiff of New York, national treasurer, who is cabling the money to Russia as fast as it is received.

All the proceeds from the classified advertisement department of the Chronicle Telegraph for today will be donated to the relief of Russian sufferers, and many are using this opportunity to serve their business as well as make contribution for the succor of suffering humanity.

Latest reports from Russia declare that hunger has followed in the path made clear by the sabre and musket of the Cossacks, who cut down men, women and children without reason and without cause, and apply the torch to the homes of the victims after looting them of all the valuables they contained. The survivors have in many instances envied the dead because their sufferings have ceased. Bereft of relatives and all their worldly goods, thousands of law-abiding and defenseless Russians are now facing hunger as an additional foe. To help this multitude funds are being raised in all civilized lands and contributions to this end can be made through The Gazette.

Receipts yesterday totaled $220.65, bringing the total contribution for eight days up to $3,928.45. That the $4,000 mark will be passed today is assured; how far it will be surpassed will depend upon the responses given by the people.

CABINET REFUSES TO QUIT POST IN A BODY

Determines to Dissolve Parliament and Appeal for Nation's Support in Crisis.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Today's cabinet council, which although not originally summoned for that purpose, had to decide the question of the resignation or temporary prolongation of the retention of office by the Balfourian ministry. It was attended by all the members with the exception of the marquis of Salisbury, president of the board of trade. Only a few score of the public gathered in the vicinity of Downing street to witness the assembling of the ministers, and there was no demonstration.

Mr. Balfour's hand, it is understood, was somewhat forced by the resignation of the marquis of Londonderry, the president of the council and president of the board of education, tendered a few days ago. The question immediately arose whether the collective resignation of the ministry would not be preferable to its gradual disintegration.

The session of the cabinet broke up soon after 2 o'clock in the afternoon after a couple of hours' deliberation. As the marquis of Londonderry was present at the cabinet council it is evident that Mr. Balfour did not accept his tendered resignation. The ministers have not yet given an intimation of the actual date of the dissolution and appeal to the constituencies.

It is understood that the proposal for the collective resignation of the cabinet was rejected and that the ministers arrived at the decision that it would be better to dissolve parliament themselves and appeal to the electorate. Should this course be followed it will be due largely to the well-grounded belief that the Liberals would decline to form a cabinet before a general election places them in possession of an adequate parliamentary majority to carry out the Liberal program.

BURKE SEES THE SPEAKER.

As a Result, Pittsburgh Congressman Will Probably Have Important Committee Recognition.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Representative James Francis Burke was in the city today to inspect the apartments in the Highlands, where he will make his home this winter. He also called upon Speaker Cannon and talked with him about committee places. Mr. Burke made no request for any special assignment, but he wished to impress the speaker with the importance of the district he represents.

In this he had no difficulty, and it is safe to predict that Mr. Burke will be treated as well in the matter of committee assignments as the speaker is able to do. Mr. Burke returned to Pittsburgh this evening.

DAIRYMAN FINDS WHOLE FAMILY MURDERED

Mother and Five Children Are Slain and Father Is Under Arrest.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDEPENDENCE, IA., Nov. 24.—Mrs. William McWilliams and her five children, ranging from 3 to 18 years of age were slain at their farm home today and the husband and father was arrested in Independence tonight, charged with killing the members of his family. He declares himself to be innocent.

A dairyman called for milk at the McWilliams farm shortly after noon today. On entering the house, he says, he found a partly cooked dinner on the stove and Mrs. McWilliams and the five children dead on the floor.

Each person had been killed by a hammer blow on the head. In the woman's rigid arms lay the corpse of the 3-year-old baby, its hood, coat and mittens on and a piece of buttered bread in one hand. The baby had been killed by one blow of a hammer on the head.

The other children lay about the house, dressed in working clothes. It is thought that the mother and baby were killed first and then the children had been called into the house one at a time and struck dead with the hammer. Only the wife and daughter, 16 years old, seemed to have resisted, each sustaining knife wounds in the hand. There was little evidence of a struggle.

NEARING MILLION MARK.

Russian Relief Fund Mounting Steadily. Philadelphia Sends a $20,000 Contribution.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—With the additions received today the total contributions collected in America for the relief of the Hebrews in Russia were raised to $978,064.29. The receipt of large amounts continues.

From Philadelphia came $20,000, one of the largest lump sums contributed to the fund. Contributions of $5,000 each were received from Boston, Savannah and Cleveland, Ohio. The Forward association sent a check for $4,000. Other contributions included: From the Hebrew R. and P. association, Carnegie, Pa., $260; Johnstown, $227; East Liverpool, Ohio, $567.

SHORT A MILLION DOLLARS.

City Superintendent of Peoria Schools Sent to Joliet for One to Fourteen Years.

PEORIA, ILL., Nov. 24.—For 25 years, Newton C. Dougherty, as city superintendent of schools, and for nearly 20 years as secretary of the board of education, had almost absolute control of school funds. He pleaded guilty today to looting the fund and was sent to Joliet for 1 to 14 years.

As president of the Peoria National bank, Dougherty was enabled to cover up his peculations so well that from June 30, 1904, to June 30, 1905, the school fund shortage amounted to $94,000. It is believed the shortage will amount to $1,000,000.

BUSY AFTER OPTIONS.

E. N. Ohl of Pittsburgh in New York Trying to Arrange Deal for LaBelle Iron Company.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—E. N. Ohl of Pittsburgh, who is soliciting options on the stock of the LaBelle Iron Company, one of the most important steel concerns in the country, is in the city. Mr. Ohl declined to make any statement bearing on the identity of the interests seeking control of the property. It is understood about 90 per cent of the stock has already been secured under option. The transaction, if put through, will involve about $14,000,000.

POWERS' WARSHIPS READY TO SAIL FOR TURKEY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The foreign office informed the Associated Press today that, the porte having refused to accede to the demands of the powers, the naval demonstration will proceed, the matter now being in the hands of the naval commanders.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—There is no warrant, in the official view, for any interference by the United States in what is now going on in Turkish waters. It is pointed out that if the lives of Americans in Turkey should be jeopardized as an incident to this demonstration it might be necessary to take some steps to protect them. But even in this our government would be at a great disadvantage, for it has only the protected cruiser Minneapolis in European waters and that vessel is in the British channel, a week's journey from Turkey.

The only other possible reason for expecting an entanglement of the United States in this trouble lies in the execution of the proposed blockade of Turkish ports, which might injuriously affect American commerce.

BLACK SEA FLEET SAILORS ENGAGE IN A NEW REVOLT

London Also Hears That the Russian Sebastopol Garrison Is in Mutiny.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON Nov. 24.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from St. Petersburg says it is persistently reported there that there has been a mutiny in the Black sea fleet and that portions of the Sebastopol garrison have mutinied, killing the chief of staff and wounding a colonel.

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—The Ruskoye Slovo today prints a dispatch from Warsaw saying that Austrian troops in Galicia are ready to take trains for the Russian frontier and prevent the Germans from crossing into Russian Poland.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—The employers of St. Petersburg have formed an association with Herr Nobel at its head and have mutually pledged themselves not only to refuse strike pay but to absolutely decline to treat with their employes on questions of wages or hours of work until the national assembly acts.

The men are already suffering from excessive privations, and unless they yield they will soon be driven to desperation by hunger. The employers do not entertain a doubt that in face of their their united front the men will surrender. The workmen are thoroughly saturated with socialism and revolutionary doctrines. A deputation of workmen actually went to an English owner proposing to take charge of his mill. The only concession they would make was to elect him manager. They marched to the Westinghouse factory with red flags and threatened to batter down the doors unless they were admitted to head a meeting.

WILL ISSUE NEW STOCK.

General Electric Company Will Increase Its Capital More Than $11,000,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—It was announced today that the amount of new stock to be authorized by the General Electric Company at the special meeting of stockholders to be held December 5 will be $11,674,500.

This will make the total amount outstanding $60,000,000. The directors have recommended that approximately $6,000,000 of this new stock be issued to stockholders at par to the amount of about 12½ per cent of their present holdings.

BIGELOW FORCED TO RENOUNCE CITY LIGHT SCHEME

OBJECTS TO LARKIN

Claims Controller Cannot Be Elected Mayor—One-Year Contract.

MONOPOLY VIOLATES LAW

"I am not going to damn myself before the city election by giving a four-year light contract at the old price of $96 per arc-light. I am against a four-year contract unless the price is reduced. If the price is not reduced the contract will be let for one year only."

In this emphatic manner Director Bigelow yesterday signified he was sitting up and taking notice of the agitation and strong public sentiment in evidence against the plan of the administration to permit the city light contract being monopolized by the Allegheny County Light Company for four years at its own price. Director Bigelow stated plainly that he realized such a move on the part of the administration was unpopular, and if carried out would condemn the administration candidate for mayor to certain defeat in February without any other issue entering into the campaign.

Bigelow Sees the Danger.

"I will know pretty soon whether we are going to get light cheaper," said Mr. Bigelow. "Every dollar of a reduction in the cost of an arc light means a saving of $3,000 to the city, for there are 3,000 lights in the city. I am not ready to say just what reduction should be made, but if there is no reduction the contract will be let for only one year."

"But, director, the ordinance as it is, permitting a contract to be made for four years, and the Allegheny Light Company does not bid less than $96, what is there to prevent you from letting the contract for four years to the company at that price?"

"I am not going to damn myself before the city election," replied the director of public works vigorously. "If the company does not reduce its price its bid will be rejected and a contract let for only one year. I could not afford to put myself in such a position before the people. We must elect a mayor and members of councils in February, you know."

"Is it true, director, that you have made a deal with Controller Larkin to elect him mayor upon the condition that he is to allow you to remain at the head of the public works department and retain control of councils?"

Says Larkin Cannot Win.

"There is absolutely nothing in that story. Larkin could not be elected mayor. He could not be elected any more than could W. H. Stevenson. Neither one will be elected mayor. I do not believe, either, that Stevenson will get the Republican nomination," said Director Bigelow.

Investigation shows that the Allegheny County Light Company is openly and flagrantly violating the ordinance under which it secured a franchise from the city councils 14 years ago.

This ordinance became a law on October 10, 1891. Although it prohibits the Allegheny County Light Company from charging the city for light more than 75 per cent of the amount charged private consumers, the company is actually charging the city $12 an arc light a year more than it charges private consumers. Many business houses have contracts with the company for arc lights at $84 a year, or $12 less than the city pays, and the private consumer has the privilege of burning the light 24 hours a day, while the city is not allowed to burn its lights over 11 hours.

City Loses $100,000 a Year.

In fact, the city lights are not burned 11 hours. The year around they are turned on long after dusk and turned off before daylight. It is estimated that in this way the city is being gouged by the light monopoly of over $100,000 a year, this amount being collected from the city in excess of what the company is entitled to under the ordinance which gave it a franchise.

The public works committee of councils did not meet yesterday to consider the light ordinance, as Director Bigelow announced early in the week. The committee will not be called until the director has reached an understanding with the Allegheny Light Company.

COMMISSION IS NOT TO HAVE FINAL RATE POWERS

AMENDS ELKINS ACT

Courts to Determine Equity of Charges and Enforce Provisions of Law.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Senator Foraker today presented to the senate committee on interstate commerce the draft of his bill to amend the interstate commerce law. The senator stated that he had tried to meet the complaints against present railroad conditions and at the same time avoid conferring upon the interstate commerce commission, or any similar body, the power over railroad rates.

The Foraker bill, however, provides for enjoining the publishing and charging of excessive rates and for enjoining any discriminations forbidden by law, whether as between shippers, places, commodities or otherwise, and whether effected by means of rates, rebates, classifications, private cars, preferentials, "or in any other manner whatever." While this does not confer upon the court the power to fix a rate, it does authorize the court to say what is an unlawful rate and how much is unlawful and to enjoin the carrier from charging more than is found to be lawful. The bill also is designed to prohibit the giving of passes; to allow free access to railroad documents, and to meet complaints as to rail rates on export and import freight.

Elkins Act Amended.

Section 3. That whenever the interstate commerce commission shall have reasonable ground for belief that any common carrier is engaged in the carriage of passengers or freight traffic between given points at less than the published rates on file, or is, either singly or in co-operation with one or more other carriers, publishing and charging unjust or unreasonable rates therefor, or is committing any discriminations forbidden by law, whether as between shippers, places, commodities or otherwise, and whether effected by means of rates, rebates, classifications, preferentials, private cars, refrigerator cars, switching or terminal charges, elevator charges, failure to supply shippers equally with cars, or in any other manner whatsoever, it shall be its duty, if such carrier or carriers will not, after due notice, desist from such violation of the law, to file with the attorney general a brief statement of its grounds for such belief and the evidence in support thereof, and thereupon, under his direction and in the name of the United States, a petition shall be presented alleging such facts to the circuit court of the United States sitting in equity having jurisdiction; and the act complained of is alleged to have been committed, or is being committed, in part, in more than one judicial district or state, it may be dealt with or inquired of, tried and determined in any one of such judicial districts or states, whereupon it shall be the duty of the court summarily to inquire into the facts and circumstances upon such notice and in such manner as the court shall direct and without the formal pleadings and proceedings applicable to ordinary suits in equity, and to make such other persons or corporations parties thereto, as the court may deem necessary.

Courts Are to Be Judges.

Upon being satisfied of the truth of the allegations of said petition, said court shall enjoin according to the ground of complaint the publishing and charging of all or any such rate or rates so complained of, in excess of what the court shall find to be reasonable and just; such injunction to continue in force during such period as the same, or substantially the same, conditions may continue, as are established by the evidence in such case; or shall enforce an observance of the published tariff, if they are found to be just and reasonable, or direct and require a discontinuance of such discriminations, by such proper orders, writs and process as will, as nearly as may be, secure equality of rights and treatment to all shippers, which said orders, writs and process may be enforceable as well against the parties interested in the traffic as against the carrier or carriers complained of, and all proceedings hereunder shall be subject to the right of appeal to the supreme court as now provided by the act of February 11, 1903, to expedite the hearings of such inquiry, but such appeal shall not operate to stay or supersede the order of the court or the execution of any writ or process thereon, unless the circuit or supreme court, on application therefore made for good cause, so orders.

It shall be the duty of the several district attorneys of the United States, whenever the attorney general shall direct, either of his own motion or upon the request of the interstate commerce commission, to institute and prosecute such proceedings and the proceedings provided for by this act shall be prosecuted at the cost of the United States or the railroad company or companies, as the court may adjudge equitable and just, and such proceedings shall not preclude the bringing of suit for the recovery of damages by any party injured or any other action provided by said act, approved February 4, 1887, entitled "An act to regulate commerce and the acts amendatory thereof."

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 24.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was one of the liveliest persons about town today despite his plastered face and hurts which still annoyed him. He will witness the big game tomorrow with his father and sister.

It is known that the President is delighted over the fine showing made by his boy, and will come to Cambridge to please him more than anything else. He was worried when he first learned how savagely the youth had been walked on by bigger men, but chuckled when cheering word was received from him.

Theodore's nose was banged with great regularity by Yale elbows and shoulders, and after the game it was discovered that a surgeon's services were necessary to straighten it. A previous injury had given it a slight crook, and the gridiron struggle did the rest. That is why the President's son will wear two big patches across his face tomorrow. He will receive a great ovation from the Harvard undergraduates, as a special demonstration is planned.

MODERN MIDASES MEET TO FORM COMMUNITY OF INTERESTS PLAN

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BABYLON, N. Y., Nov. 24.—At Idle Hour, the country villa of William Kissam Vanderbilt, last evening were representatives of larger fortunes than, it is said, ever gathered at an informal dinner at any country villa on Long Island before.

Those who made up the party were J. Pierpont Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Henry H. Hollister, the latter a personal friend of Andrew Carnegie; Schuyler L. Parsons and the host. It is current comment that the representatives of such gigantic fortunes met to discuss a proposed combine of interests. The party came in a special train and remained until 9:15 this morning, when the special took them back to the city.

Every one is keeping mum about the visit, but as neither Mr. Rockefeller nor Mr. Morgan are in the habit of visiting these parts their visit is generally believed to be significant.

the acts to regulate commerce the said courts shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, both upon the part of the carrier and any shipper or shippers who may be interested, who shall be required to answer on all subjects relating directly or indirectly to the matter in controversy and to compel the production of all books and papers both of the carrier and the shipper or shippers which relate directly or indirectly to such transaction, the claim that such testimony or evidence may tend to criminate the person giving such evidence, shall not excuse such person from testifying or such person producing its books or orders, but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on act of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence or information, documentary or otherwise in such proceedings.

Provision is made so that the laws to expedite cases in the courts will apply to the new law. No carrier is allowed to grant a special rate or in any manner collect from any person a greater or less compensation than it receives from any other person. Another section of the bill is as follows:

That nothing in the act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, or in the act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies, approved July 2, 1890, or in any act amendatory of either of said acts, shall hereafter apply to the establishment of rates or the changing or publication of the same with respect to foreign commerce if carried in ships of American registry; or shall prohibit any necessary or reasonable act, association or agreement with respect to interstate transportation that is not in unreasonable restraint of trade or commerce with foreign nations or among the several states; or shall hereafter authorize forfeiture of property as punishment for any violation of such acts.

Foraker States His Case.

During the two hours the committee was in session today Senator Foraker explained the provisions of the bill in detail. After the adjournment of the committee Senator Foraker made the following statement which is an epitome of his argument before the committee:

The results desired by the President should be accomplished but if they can be secured without conferring the rate-making power on the interstate commerce commission, or any other governmental agency, a number of very troublesome legal questions will be avoided such as the constitutional prohibition against giving preference to the ports of one state over those of another, the right to delegate legislative power and all questions as to the power of the court to review the legislative act of making rates except in cases that are confiscatory, etc.

The great evil to be reached and dealt with is discrimination. This takes the form of discrimination between localities and individuals. It is practiced under numerous guises and devices, such as terminal charges, elevator charges, refrigerator charges, private car line charges, classification, false weights, refusal to supply cars equally to shippers and in numerous other ways.

The basis of the most important feature of the bill I have presented is the third section of the Elkins act. I have sought to amend it so as to make it applicable not only to every form of discrimination that can arise, but also to excessive rates as well as rebates, and I have sought to make the law available to the humblest shipper in the land and to make it immediately responsive whenever he may see fit to invoke it.

The proposition of the bill is that, upon complaint and the showing of probable cause, the case shall be heard on its merits in the first instance of the court, where full relief can be granted.

Means Expeditious Trials.

This is not a delay to the shipper, because it will take no longer, stating it conservatively, to try the case before the court in the first instance than it would to try it before the interstate commerce commission, and the probabilities are that any judge of the circuit court of the United States, accustomed to hearing witnesses, applying the law, and disposing of litigated questions, sitting in equity, would try the case in much less time than the interstate commerce commission or any other similar body would require.

The propriety of going, in the first instance, to the court, where a remedy can be administered, is manifest when it is remembered that every case must, if the parties to it are so disposed, go to the court anyhow before it is ended, for it is the constitutional right of every one to have his day in court, and that right cannot be taken away by congress, even if there were a disposition to do so.

Another feature of the bill provides for the appointment of expert examiners who, under the direction of the interstate commerce commission, can make an examination at any time of all books, documents and papers of any railroad that relate to interstate transportation of commerce. This will enable the commission to ascertain the facts and secure evidence.

Another provision of the bill is designed to prohibit and break the giving of passes. This provision needs no comment.

Another provision prohibits the carrying of freight that is to be exported or freight that has been imported on through rates, less as to the rail portion of the charge than is exacted for the carrying of similar domestic commerce between the same points, unless the carriage be in ships of American registry. The amount of freight carried on these lower through rates is constantly increasing, and there is a constantly growing complaint from manufacturers on this account.

This provision will not be in conflict with any of our reciprocal treaties, and it is not without precedent, for practically the same kind of measures have been resorted to by both Russia and Germany and probably also by other countries.

At the conclusion of Senator Foraker's remarks the committee adjourned until tomorrow.

Returns and Is Arrested.

Edwin G. Weller, a former collector for the Ward-Mackey Company, who is alleged to have been held for court on a charge of embezzling the company's funds and to have jumped his bail last summer, was arrested yesterday morning at the St. Charles hotel by Detective McGough, soon after his arrival from the east. Weller is said to have been in Boston. He was committed to jail last night.

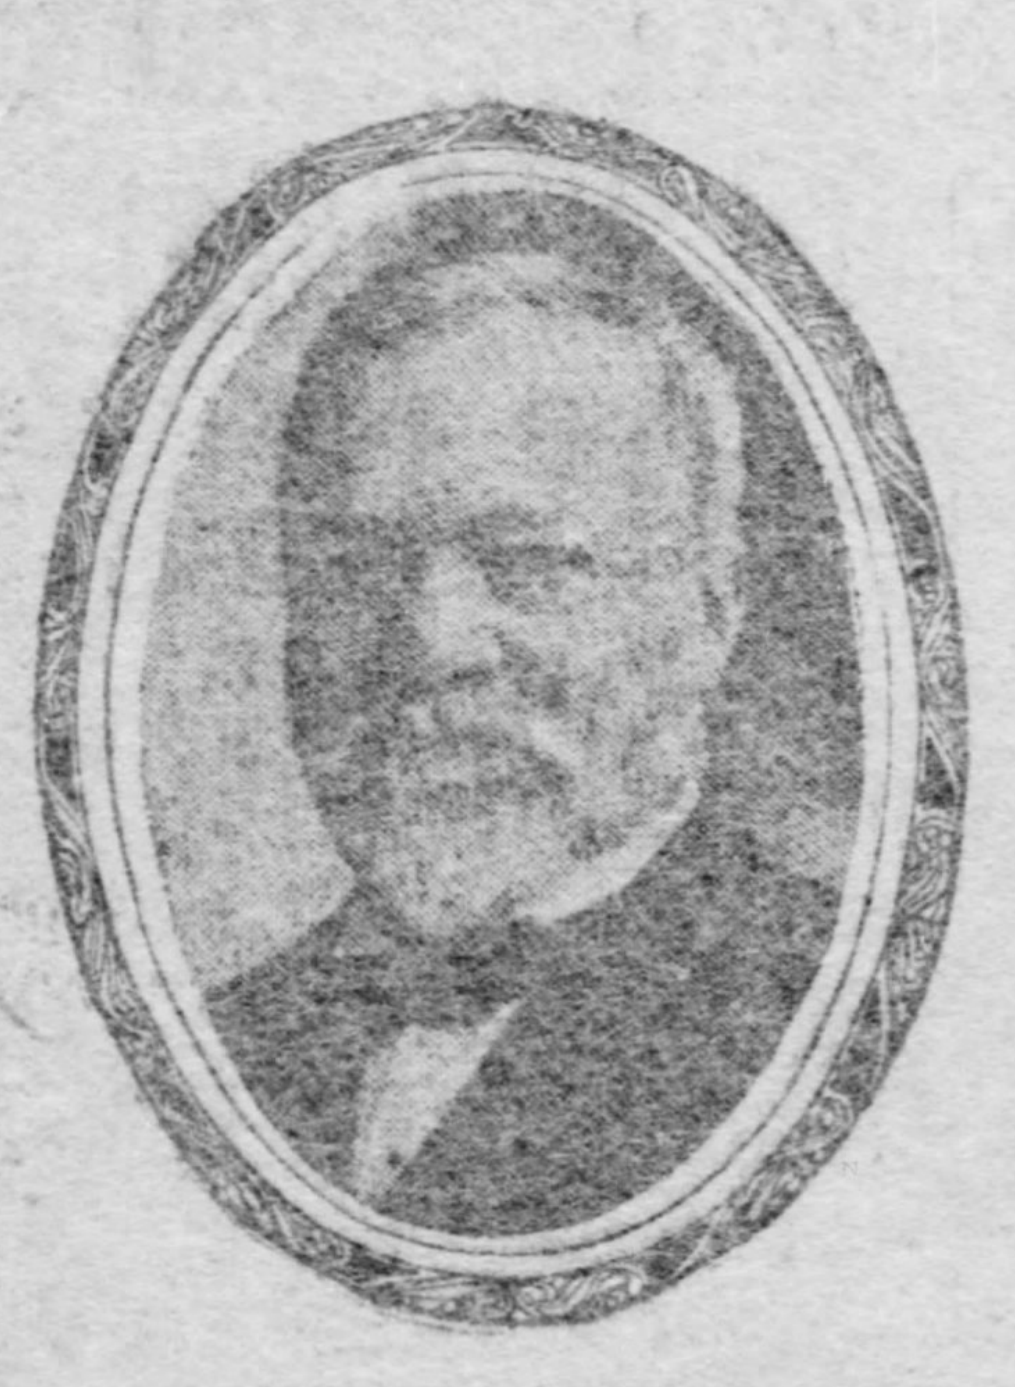
FOUR OF PITTSBURGH'S FAMED SONS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

Yesterday and today mark the birthdays of four of Pittsburgh's most prominent citizens. Today, Andrew Carnegie, Pittsburgh's most honored son and the world's greatest philanthropist and steelmaster, will commemorate his natal day. Yesterday marked another milestone in the lives of Dr. John A. Brashear, famed the world over as astronomer and scientist; the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, scholar, orator, and a world-leader of Israel, and the Hon. H. Kirke Porter, one of Pittsburgh's and America's greatest manufacturers, whose products have entered every market in the world where civilization's great leader—the locomotive—has found its way. Mr. Porter also enjoys the distinction of being an authority on practical Christianity and one of its most liberal supporters. These four citizens, when called upon by The Gazette, set at naught the Osler theory. They were found bright and active, and that they were happy is shown by the sentiments they expressed.



ANDREW CARNEGIE.

In answer to a message of congratulation sent him by The Gazette Mr. Carnegie telegraphed the following last night:

"In answer to your kind congratulations, please accept my sincere thanks. Would that I could secure the companionship of Dr. John A. Brashear, the Hon. H. Kirke Porter and the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy in the future as I have in the past, and the companionship of other men of like stamp."

DR. JOHN A. BRASHEAR.

"I have loved the stars too fondly to be fearful of the night. It is a special honor to share a birthday with Mr. Porter and Dr. Levy, and we usually spend the day congratulating one another. Mr. Porter and myself were born on the same day in the year 1840, and therefore have had an equal number of birthdays. I feel especially flattered in being able to celebrate the anniversary of my birth on the same day as such distinguished Americans and fellow-Pittsburghers."

HON. H. KIRKE PORTER.

"One of the pleasantest things about my birthday is that I share it with Dr. Brashear, who was born on the same day in the same year as I was. We call ourselves twins. I envy the three men who are enjoying their birthdays with me because they have accomplished so much more in their lives than I have. All I can say is that I have good will to all the world. How grand it is that a man like Mr. Carnegie can see his charitable plans carried out on his birthday and in his lifetime."

REV. DR. J. LEONARD LEVY.

"It is sweet to think that at the same time when I am thanking God for the mercies of the past 40 years, the grateful praise of such men as Mr. Carnegie, Dr. Brashear and Mr. Porter is being addressed to the father of all on the occasion of their natal day. My fellow-celebrants have accomplished so much in their wider fields of activity that the happy coincident of our birthdays suggests to me an added incentive to labor and to wait. I pray that they may long enjoy the choicest blessings a kind providence can bestow upon them."

HAMILTON GETS BIG SUM OF CASH

New York Life Pays Him Fifty Thousand Dollars and Keeps No Record.

ONE QUARTER OF PROFITS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Startling developments were brought out at today's session of the Armstrong committee on insurance investigation in the course of minute inquiry by Mr. Hughes, counsel to the committee, into the syndicate transactions participated in by the New York Life Insurance Company. The most important witness of the day was Milton M. Madison, a bookkeeper of the New York Life Insurance Company.

It appeared from records produced by Mr. Hughes that an account of J. P. Morgan & Co. with Hamilton showed that in December, 1901, that firm had advanced to Hamilton the sum of $56,720, that on October 1, 1902, this amount, with interest, to $59,810, and that it was then canceled by the entry of that amount to Hamilton's credit. The entry of this amount in the account of the New York Life read "as per cancelled statement and arrangement with G. W. Perkins." It was also developed that the participation in the syndicate of the New York Life was affected through the New York Security and Trust Company, by which one-fourth of the profits of the former company were retained.

The $59,000 which was noted due to the New York Life was paid to Mr. Hamilton instead of the company? remarked Mr. Hughes.

It seems so, said Mr. Madison.

Was the payment made direct to Hamilton by J. P. Morgan & Co.?

The memoranda so states.

The payment did not come from the books of the New York Life?

No.

Mr. Hughes went over the books containing the records of syndicate transactions with the witness and put in evidence the folios showing the profits in syndicate participation in 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 and 1905. He drew from the witness that at the end of 1902, the syndicate profits were transferred to reducing the cost of the bonds as they appeared on the books. This amount was $356,929. The witness said that it was an ordinary bookkeeping transaction and perfectly legitimate.

What was done with the $59,000 due the New York Life which was paid to Andrew Hamilton?

I don't know; it doesn't appear on the books of the company.

Do you know of any money payable to the New York Life that was paid to a third party similar to the $59,000 paid to Mr. Hamilton?

There probably have been cases.

What are they?

Will you tell me who your informer was? asked the witness.

Answer my question, said Mr. Hughes.

There was a profit paid on a sort of a loan to a third party.

Mr. George W. Perkins.

How much was the profit paid?

About $40,000.

What was the loan?

It was a loan to a Boston firm, Kidder, Peabody & Co., I think.

What was the amount of the loan?

Nine hundred and thirty thousand dollars.

At the close of the session Mr. Hughes announced that the sub-committee, consisting of Senator Riordan and Assemblyman Prentice, would take the further disposition of George H. Squire at his home. For that reason he asked for an adjournment. He asked also that the deposition be not released for publication until it was first read and spread upon the record.

Chairman Armstrong then announced an adjournment until Monday morning next.

George W. Perkins of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. tonight gave out the following statement in relation to the testimony brought out in the insurance investigation today:

The transactions referred to before the insurance investigating committee today were perfectly proper ones. If the natural course of the inquiry does not make this clear, I am sure the committee will give me an opportunity to offer further testimony in the matter.

NEGRO EDUCATOR HERE.

Plans to Establish Industrial and Educational Boards for Betterment of His Race.

For the purpose of investigating, and if possible, bettering, the condition of his people in the Pittsburgh district, Prof. Z. W. Mitchell of Akron, O., president and founder of the Loyal Legion Co-Operative Educational system, arrived here yesterday afternoon. The plan of the Loyal Legion is to establish local educational boards, make a business of reaching negroes and teach them to make the best of life. This purpose is to be accomplished by holding educational sessions, and through the co-operation of industrial boards to reach the worthless and idle class and provide employment for them.

Prof. Mitchell spent the greater part of yesterday conferring with ministers of the various colored churches. Prof. Mitchell is a personal friend of Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee, and has had wide experience in the handling of the race problem.

MRS. VANDERPOEL MAKES AN INDIGNANT DENIAL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The divorce suit brought by Mrs. Edward Dudley in Philadelphia, in which she makes charges of infidelity and cruelty against her husband and names Mrs. Elizabeth Batelle Vanderpoel, whose family has been prominent in the history of New York, as co-respondent, has caused a great stir in New York.

"There is no ground for such a terrible allegation," said Mrs. Vanderpoel, white faced and indignant, when seen by a reporter at the Hotel Seville.

"I am a Washingtonian," said Mrs. Vanderpoel, "and even the bellboys in that city know me. How is it I have gone with Mr. Dudley to the Raleigh and escaped observation? How could I have remained in Washington three days without anyone knowing of it, and not speaking of it?

"And how could Mr. Dudley, who is well known, have enjoyed immunity from meeting friends? The charge is absurd, impossible, and—oh, it is awful.

"I could not afford to compromise my position, the name I bear, by doing such a thing, even if it were in me. I never stopped at any hotel with a man in my life. And in addition to all this, the Raleigh is a commercial hotel. Had I gone there I would have been seen, for I have lived in Washington since I was 21, and that is 20 long years. Such a charge would be terrible enough if I were not in the position of a widow with a child.

"I have known Mr. and Mrs. Dudley well, but such a charge cannot be brought against me; it is untrue."

Mrs. Vanderpoel was the wife of John A. Vanderpoel, millionaire member of an old New York family, to whom she was married in Washington in 1888. She obtained a divorce in Washington in 1893. Mr. Vanderpoel brought a counter-suit, but it was dropped. She inherited a large sum from her uncle, Louis F. Batteile.

PITTSBURGH BISHOP RETURNS FROM ROME

Rt. Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin Talks of His Visits to Vatican and Audience With Pope.

After a six weeks' absence, the Rt. Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, bishop of Pittsburgh, returned yesterday from a visit to the pope at Rome. He brings with him the blessing of the pope for the people within the confines of the diocese, irrespective of their religion. There still linger with the bishop the pope's words, "O, glorious country," when he was told of the conditions of the foreigners, especially Italians, in America, and of the devoutness of the Catholics and the work they have done and are doing for charity and religion.

As Bishop Canevin explained yesterday, every Catholic bishop is required to visit the pope once every 10 years to report on his diocese. This journey is called the ad limina visit, from the visit which the bishops on this errand make "ad limina," that is to the tombs of the apostles. While in Rome Bishop Canevin first visited the shrine of St. Peter, under the great dome, and the next day went to the church of St. Paul outside of Rome, where the apostle of the gentiles lies buried. He filed with the prefect of the propaganda congregation written report on his diocese.

Bishop Canevin made two visits to the vatican, the first to view the great building, the second to have his audience with the pope. He was much impressed with the clear insight into American conditions of Cardinal Gotti, prefect of the propaganda, and conversed in English with Cardinal Mery del Val, the papal secretary of state, who has wonderful knowledge of everything American—religion, politics, social questions and the spirit of the press. The bishop met Cardinals Satolli and Martinelli, who, as apostolic delegates to the United States came to Pittsburgh several times.

"I have heard good things of Pittsburgh," said Pope Pius X., when Bishop Canevin appeared before him. "You are fortunate."

The pope asked all about the church statistics of the Pittsburgh diocese, viewed with interest the photographs of the churches and institutions built by the foreign Catholics, and was particularly desirous of knowing all about the charitable institutions. He admired the pictures of the new cathedral, and when told there were 220 churches in the diocese, the churches are crowded with worshipers and the parochial schools are well attended, exclaimed:

Chauffeur Gets a Stay.

Albert J. Murphy, chauffeur for Thomas B. Ritter, was to have had a hearing before Alderman Negley last night to answer the charge of aggravated assault and battery for knocking down and injuring, with an automobile, four women at North Highland and Wellesley avenues recently, but the hearing was postponed until the return to the city of Clarence Burleigh, attorney for Murphy.

Italian Woman Has No Faith in Banks

Mrs. John Bodene, the Italian woman whose house at 1820 Manhattan street, Allegheny, was robbed of $1,000 in cash and jewelry, on Thursday afternoon, had a talk yesterday with Acting Supt. John Glenn of the Allegheny police. She told of how two strange men, evidently Italians, were hanging about her store. Immediately after they disappeared she discovered her loss.

"Why did you not put as much money as that in a bank?" asked Glenn.

"Well, I was just about to put it in the Enterprise bank when it closed, and since then my husband and I decided it was just as safe to take chances with thieves as with banks," she replied.

No trace of the burglars has been found.

EAST END'S GREEN ROW IS BADLY SCORCHED

Eight Families Rendered Homeless and Scene of Wild Excitement Ensues.

The famous "Green Row," which is to East Liberty what "Yellow Row" was to the down town section of the city, was gutted by fire last night. Eight families are rendered homeless, their goods being either burned or drenched with water, and one woman lost a sock containing $68 which had been saved to purchase a home in a less crowded locality.

The fire was discovered at 10:30 o'clock by Policeman Elmer Taylor, who turned in an alarm, and then aroused the sleeping families, some of whom were overcome by smoke. The occupants were all colored, save one, an Italian family. The building, a two-story frame, is owned by W. Gallagher and is built against a stone cliff which extends along the left side of Negley's run. The families rendered homeless are:

Hubert Mason and four boarders; Mrs. Georgie Salsberry, three children and two boarders; John Baker, wife and child; Henry Rankin, wife and one boarder; Mrs. Ellen Speaks and five children; Antone Sparto, Italian, wife and four children; Robert Johnston, wife and three children, two of whom are at present sick in a hospital; James Bradley, wife and two children.

The fire evidently started in Henry Rankin's kitchen. It had crept along the row of kitchens and had eaten well into the main body of the houses when the flames on the upper end were seen. The sleepers were terrified when awakened and ran into the muddy road clad only in their night clothes. Some began removing their household effects and soon a motley collection of beds, chairs, beer kegs and clothing lined the bank opposite. Other residents of the run opened their homes to the refugees.

Mrs. John Baker, during the excitement forgot a sock in which was her carefully hoarded wealth. Suddenly, as the firemen and police were running a line of hose to the top of the building, the air was rent with shriek after shriek. All started at the sound, fearing some one was imprisoned within the burning building. In a moment, however, it was found that Mrs. Baker had remembered she had stuffed her money beneath the bed clothes and the conviction had seized her that she would never again see it. A thorough search failed to reveal the sock.

The building was damaged to the amount of about $2,000.

CHIEF IS EXONERATED.

Charges Against Homestead Official, Growing Out of Election, May Go to the District Attorney.

Homestead's police committee last night exonerated Chief of Police John Lamb of charges which grew out of the election. He was accused on four specific counts of conduct unbecoming an officer and of interfering with the election in the Fourth ward, where he had tried to send Policeman Brown, colored, a Republican watcher, from the polls. Brown was suspended by the chief and his case has not yet been settled. The charges against Lamb were made by Attorney L. L. Davis, a Republican.

Attorney Davis last night referred briefly to the charges against Lamb, and then declared he would not go into the case further because he was certain Lamb "would be whitewashed, anyway." After he had withdrawn the committee exonerated the chief.

There is talk of laying the case before the district attorney. Lamb belongs to the Citizens party, as do a majority of the police committee.

BOOM STEWART FOR GOVERNOR

COMPLIMENTS THE VOLUNTEER

An enthusiastic boom for Adjt.-Gen. Thomas J. Stewart for the next governor of the state was the striking feature of the military banquet held at the Hotel Schenley last night at the close of the annual convention of the National Guard Association of Pennsylvania. Frequent calls were heard for Gen. Stewart during the dinner, and when he rose to respond to a toast three tremendous cheers and a prolonged tiger followed the shout that he would be the Keystone state's next chief magistrate. Gen. Stewart took the honors modestly and rewarded his demonstrative brother officers with an eloquent tribute to Pennsylvania's citizen soldiery.

The Stewart gubernatorial boost, of course, was one of the impromptu features of the big gathering of guardsmen—the largest assemblage of military officers ever held in Pittsburgh. The National Guard has been virtually pledged to support legislation preventing the promiscuous wearing of the regulation uniform by unauthorized organizations, and to use its influence in the next legislature to secure still larger appropriations for state armories.

Next Meeting in Franklin.

The next meeting of the association will be held next fall at Franklin and it is probable the sessions will cover two days. The ultimate outcome will be a stronger state militia in its numerical strength, as well as efforts to increase the efficiency of its units. Col. Albert J. Logan was re-elected president of the association.

The meeting was attended by nearly 200 delegates from the guard and by prominent officers from the regular army. The morning was devoted to a routine session and the re-election of the old officers. In the afternoon papers on military topics were read by officers detailed from the United States war department, but at the banquet in Gen. Stewart's speech was contained a symposium of the purposes of the organization and its patriotic motives. A more eloquent tribute never was paid to a Pennsylvania soldier than was heard in the ringing words of the adjutant general. He said in part:

The supreme reliance of this republic has been upon its citizen soldiers, who were called from their homes and mustered as volunteers. We always remember the deeds of our regulars and of the magnificent showing of the standing armies of the old world, but no story is more glorious than that which history hands down to us in the annals of the American volunteer. Washington crossed the Delaware with scarcely more men than you have in the Second brigade. At Valley Forge, Washington commanded a starving army that numbered less than the force of Gen. Charles Miller's command. Gen. Scott marched into the City of Mexico with a little band not as large as that which we encamped upon the slopes of Mt. Gretna.

Feats of the American Volunteer.

The American volunteer put down the greatest modern war—the rebellion. In a still later war—and there are many of you around this board tonight who played a part in that remarkable military drama—we found the soldiers of Pennsylvania on battlefields 12,000 miles apart. They stood on the mountains of Porto Rico and away there beyond the Pacific in the treacherous marshes of the Philippines.

If we should open the alabaster gates of our temples of immortals and call forth those warriors who upheld the honor of our flag and the glory of our country, we should see Meade and Hancock and Reynolds and Hawkins. I could name thousands of lesser rank, but who were no less courageous. Those men are our saints. Nobody knows what the morrow may bring. There may be many here tonight who may be called upon to shoulder arms and march forth in that great war which our brainiest men have prophesied shall come to this country. I do not believe the day of universal peace is near at hand. The citizen soldier is our supreme reliance and he is the best citizen who prepares for that momentous struggle which may come to us like the thunder of destiny.

Gen. Stewart was frequently interrupted by applause and cheers. He had been introduced by Gen. John A. Wiley, of the Second brigade, who was the toastmaster, and who had a witty remark for each speaker's introduction. The officers of the brigade showed their loyalty for Gen. Wiley by greeting him with a song when he rose to speak. About the same time the orchestra struck up "The Star-Spangled Banner" and a silk flag was unfurled fro ma bank of palms on the stage opposite the speaker's table.

Credit Given to Officers.

Gen. Wiley said the credit for anything which had been accomplished by the Pennsylvania guard was due to the efforts of the colonels and the captains.

Gen. Miller paid a compliment to the soldiers, but sat down too soon. The toastmaster had left the room and Col. John P. Penney came to the rescue by filling the office pro tempore until Gen. Wiley returned. Maj. Chauncey B. Baker, Capt. Jordan, and other officers of the regulars paid compliments to the guard and Col. Logan spoke of the work of the association. Capt. Brewster of the Ninth regulars, who commanded the "Legation Guard" at Pekin, told of his observations in the orient and said that unqualifiedly the best soldiers he had seen among the foreigners were the Japanese.

At the afternoon session Maj. Baker of the quartermaster's department and Maj. William H. Hart of the commissary department of the regular army read papers describing the work of their respective departments. Col. Charles M. Clement of the Twelfth regiment, N. G. P., read a paper on the "Administration of a Regiment," and Col. W. J. Price, Jr., spoke on his observations at the regular army maneuvers. All the discussions dealt with the military aspects of the subjects and are valuable additions to the archives of the association.

W. N. MURRAY IS BADLY HURT

IS IN WEST PENN HOSPITAL

In an automobile accident in the Grant boulevard at Thirty-third street, at 5:30 last evening, William N. Murray, a well-known club man, and president of the Standard Automobile Company, Baum street, was badly injured and his two assistants were cut and bruised. The machine collided with the carriage of Mrs. George Morgan Dilworth of Ridge avenue, injuring one of the horses so badly that it had to be shot. The carriage and machine were wrecked. Mrs. Dilworth escaped uninjured.

THE INJURED.

WILLIAM N. MURRAY, 209 Braddock avenue, two ribs broken, face crushed and injured internally. Was removed to the West Penn hospital. Condition serious.

J. J. KEARNS, 1823 Tustin street, shoulder dislocated and badly cut about the face and body. Was removed to the West Penn hospital.

JONAS McCLINTOCK, Hotel Lamont, cut about the face and body. Was taken to his hotel.

Murray and his assistants were operating a new Packard car, 30 horse-power, which was received at the garage on Wednesday. The car is valued at $4,500. Murray was at the wheel and the car was going at the rate of 30 miles an hour when it turned Thirty-third street. The party was returning from the city to the garage. Murray was on the right side of the boulevard and Mrs. Dilworth was being driven by her coachman, William Dime, to the city from the East End.

As the machine turned the Thirty-third street curve it "skidded," because of the wet roadway. Although the wheels were equipped with the chains Murray was unable to control it. The machine slid across the roadway. Dime saw the machine headed toward his horses and pulled out to the center of the roadway. The machine struck the near horse cutting him down like a weed. The animal's side was torn open and his foreleg was broken.

The carriage was wrecked. The impact did not check the headway of the machine. It caromed from the carriage and struck a wagon loaded with sawdust, driven by Isaiah Woods of 3018 Grant boulevard. This impact knocked the machine to the side of the boulevard, throwing Murray and his assistants out.

When the machine plunged into Mrs. Dilworth's carriage the uninjured horse ran away. Coachman Dime was jolted from his seat into the roadway. Mrs. Dilworth was shocked, but remained quiet and climbed out of her broken vehicle unaided.

A passing automobile took Murray and Kearns to the West Penn hospital. McClintock, although badly cut, remained with his friends until they were taken to the hospital, when he returned to the hotel. Mrs. Dilworth was taken to the street car line and went to her home. The accident attracted a number of people and while they were assisting the injured the horse which had run away came dashing back to the scene of the accident and was caught by Dime.

His mate lay groaning on the roadway and Robt. Cuthbal of Ridge street shot the animal. It required three bullets to end the animal's misery. The wrecked automobile was loaded on a truck and taken to the garage.

Mrs. Murray was notified of the accident and hurried to the hospital. It is thought Murray has sustained serious injuries. His front teeth were knocked out and when he was thrown from the machine he struck his side against the curbing, breaking two ribs.

BRANCH'S BODY WILL BE EXHUMED AND EXAMINED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Nov. 24.—Surprises marked today's session of the Meriwether courtmartial. The first came just before adjournment for lunch when at the request of Lieut.-Commander Robison, the court ordered the body of Midshipman James R. Branch, Jr., disinterred and an autopsy performed. The second followed the recess when, upon Surgeon Byrnes finishing correcting his testimony, Judge Advocate Marix arose and addressed the court.

"Before we proceed," said he, "it becomes my duty to challenge the right of Rear Admiral McCormick to sit any longer in this case. I have good reason to know that the challenged has consulted an outside authority in regard to testimony given in this room. I refer to Medical Director Walton."

The challenge was not sustained and Rear Admiral McCormick resumed his place.

The defense opened this afternoon with the introduction of testimony by Midshipman Lebbhardt, of the third class, as to specific instances wherein Branch had run Meriwether.

Midshipman Norman M. Smith followed Lebbhardt. The witness said that there had been many cases in which a participant in a fight was carried to the hospital and that from there the authorities must have known that there had been a fight.

At the close of the morning session the court granted a request of the counsel for the accused that the body of Midshipman Branch be exhumed and an autopsy held.

ENDS LIFE BY SUICIDE.

Is Found Hanging to Door—Victims of Street Cars Die.

Mrs. William Smith of Brackenridge, committed suicide yesterday morning by hanging herself to a door. The body was not discovered for several hours.

John Bash, aged 25, was killed at McKeesport yesterday morning. He was loading lumber on a wagon, when he slipped and fell under another passing vehicle, the wheels of which passed over his chest.

Mrs. Margaret Liston, wife of Michael Liston, died of injuries received last Monday. She was struck by a street car on Carson street. Her skull was fractured and she was internally injured.

Harry N. Day, aged 9, of 814 Main street, Allegheny, died early yesterday at Allegheny General hospital. He was injured Tuesday by a car on the Ninth street bridge.

Sullivan Gets the Decision.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—Mike (Twin) Sullivan tonight got the decision over Jimmy Gardner in the 20th round of a fight at Woodward's pavilion. Gardner was favorite at 6 to 10. The fight was at catch weights.

Horse's Kick Damages Boy.

Peter Way, the 10-year-old son of Robert Way of Boston, near McKeesport, was kicked by a horse yesterday, receiving a broken jaw, broken nose and severe bruises about the face.

GREAT THRONG TO TAKE COMMUNION

OTHER RELIGIOUS EVENTS

The climax of the simultaneous campaign which has been conducted by the Christian church, in Allegheny county for some weeks, will be the monster communion service tomorrow afternoon in the Nixon theater, when it is expected 6,000 persons will partake of communion. The entire lower floor of the theater has been reserved for the 1,564 converts who have been received into the Christian church since the beginning of the revival.

The last of the noon meetings was held yesterday at the old Third Presbyterian church, when the Rev. Dr. J. H. Garrison of St. Louis, spoke. This church will again be utilized to accommodate the overflow crowds and the First United Evangelical Protestant church will also be used, if necessary. The 80 deacons from the 43 churches assisting in the revival will serve the Lord's Supper, and the entire service, it is promised, will be one of the most remarkable ever held in Pittsburgh. The Rev. W. R. Warren, secretary of the central committee, will preside at the meeting, and the Rev. Dr. J. H. Garrison, editor of the "Christian Evangelist," will be the speaker at the theater.

The Rev. J. P. E. Kumler, D. D., of Washington, D. C., a former pastor of the East Liberty Presbyterian church, will conduct the morning service there at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

The fourth lecture in the present course of Sunday services, held under the auspices of the Reform Congregation Rodeph Shalom, will be given in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, at 10:30 tomorrow morning. The address will be delivered by Rabbi J. Leonard Levy, D. D., who will speak on "The American Jew." The service will be in the nature of a commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the settlement of the Jews in the United States.

Great Missionary Meeting.

Baptists of Pittsburgh are looking forward with interest to the missionary rally to be held tomorrow. The Rev. Dr. Henry C. Mabie of Boston, home secretary of the American Baptist Missionary union, will give an address in the morning, at the Fourth Avenue Baptist church on "A Task Worth While." In the evening a union mass meeting of the workers from the Shady Avenue Baptist church, the Oakland Baptist church, the Union Baptist church and the Sandusky Street church, Allegheny, will be held in the Fourth Avenue church. Dr. Mabie will again deliver an address on "The Missionary Significance of the Portsmouth Treaty," and the Rev. William Ashmore, D. D., who for 55 years has been engaged in missionary work in China, will give an address on "Foreign Missions."

With the church decorated with fruits, vegetables, grains, etc., and the rendition of an elaborate musical program, a Harvest Home service will be celebrated tomorrow evening in the new Second Presbyterian church, Eighth street. Tali Esen Morgan will have charge of the church chorus, which will be assisted by Soprano Gertrude Clark. "Tears, Toil and Reaping" will be the subject of the sermon by the pastor, the Rev. S. Edward Young. The Alvin theater service at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon will have for its chief feature the rendition of sacred music by the Braddock Library band, and the reproduction of "Ben Hur" by stereopticon. The Rev. S. Edward Young will preach on "Man Made Over."

Dr. Patton's Lectures.

The Rev. Francis L. Patton, D. D., LL.D., president of Princeton university, who comes here to deliver a course of lectures next week, on "The Foundations of Morality," will occupy the pulpit Sunday morning, at the Third Presbyterian church, Fifth and South Negley avenues. The lectures are to be given in the church, and the subjects are, as follows: Monday, 8 p. m., "The Psychological Basis of Moral Obligation;" Tuesday, "The Meaning of Moral Obligation;" Wednesday, "The Relation of Moral Obligation to Human Freedom;" Thanksgiving day, at 11, "The Moral Idea;" Friday, at 8, "The Norm of Conduct."

The annual Harvest Home service and festival of the Pacific Avenue Methodist Episcopal church will be held Sunday and Monday evenings. Autumnal decorations will be used, and there will be special music. The festival on Monday night will have as its features a short entertainment entitled, "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party." The Rev. Dr. W. H. W. Rees, pastor of the Smithfield Street church, will deliver an address.

Observance of the 31st anniversary of the founding of the East Liberty branch of the Young Men's Christian association will be made Sunday, in the East Liberty Presbyterian church, Penn and Highland avenues, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate, New York, will deliver the principal address. Special music will be given. James W. Brown will preside, and John L. Moore, chairman of the committee of management, will present an interesting report.

"The Fundamentals of Faith."

Beginning next Sunday a special course of sermons under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be given by the Rev. T. Jefferson Danner, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Main and Butler streets, on "The Fundamentals of Faith." The subject for the sermon tomorrow at 7:30 is "God."

At Trinity Episcopal church special sermons appropriate to the Sunday before Advent, will be preached by the rector, the Rev. Dr. A. W. Arundel. During the past week considerable progress has been made on the handsome new parish house, and it is expected it will be ready for occupancy within two weeks.

Miss Lucie Dunn of the Young Women's Christian association in Jerusalem, Palestine, will speak at the gospel meeting at the South Side branch of the Y. W. C. C., 1703 Carson street, tomorrow afternoon at 3:45. Mrs. Schminke will sing, and a feature of the meeting will be special music.

Contributions for Hospitals.

In all of the Protestant churches of Allegheny county tomorrow "Hospital Sunday" will be observed, when all of the collections taken up will be for the benefit of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday association. A year ago the association was able on Christmas day to distribute $2,200 among the associated hospitals, and this year an effort will be made to raise the amount to $5,000. The church report of the association for the year ending in October was completed yesterday. It shows the following receipts: United Presbyterian church, $423.31; Episcopal, $412.23; Methodist Episcopal, $157.67; German Evangelical, $118.46; Baptist, $105.24; Presbyterian, $91.11; United Hebrews, $50; Reformed Presbyterian, $25; Congregational, $19.09; Methodist Protestant, $5.01; Union contributions, $292.41; total, $1,719.63.

On account of failing health, the Rev. J. L. Smith, D. D., for the past 14 years pastor of Christ Lutheran church, Sheridan avenue, East End, has been compelled to give up his charge and he will preach his closing sermon at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Dr. Smith expects to remain in the city for the present, at least.

Under the auspices of the Carmelite Fathers of Niagara Falls, one week's mission will be held, beginning Sunday, November 26, and ending December 3, at St. Alphonsus' church, McDonald, Father Paul Ryan in charge.

"A Day With a Slum Missionary" will be the subject of an address by the Rev. George N. Spencer, formerly of Milwaukee, the new pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, McKeesport, before the Baptist Young People's union, Sunday evening.

For the new church to be built at Rippey street and North Highland avenue by the Emory Methodist Episcopal congregation, the pastor, the Rev. W. R. Wedderspoon, has appointed as building committee, Messrs. R. B. Ward, Samuel Hamilton, H. Ebberts and Samuel Feltyberger.

The Eleventh United Presbyterian congregation, Allegheny, the Rev. C. F. Wishart, pastor, has taken steps toward the erection of a new church building in the near future. A site fronting 160 feet in Termon avenue has been donated by Messrs. James M. Young, George T. McDonald and A. V. Purnell.

CITY PAYS BILL, NOT RAILROAD

B. & O. Released from Cost of Printing Ordinances—Bigelow Explains Changes.

MILLIONS WILL BE SPENT

Mayor Hays was an interested spectator at the meetings of both the survey and corporations committees yesterday, and his presence caused some surprise, as he has not been known to attend council committee meetings except on very rare occasions. A member of both committees explained the mayor's presence by saying the mayor was extremely anxious to have the Baltimore & Ohio railroad bills go through in order to make passgetting easier for the administration, which is said to be greatly hampered now because of the very limited supply being furnished.

By action taken in both committees the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company was released from the payment of about $2,000, the cost of printing 20 ordinances providing for the vacation of streets to carry out the agreement between the railroad and the city for the exchange of the Pittsburgh Junction railroad and Boundary street through Junction hollow, Schenley park.

The law and the rules of councils provide that all ordinances for the benefit of a corporation or private parties shall be printed at their expense for the use of councils. Ordinances purely for the benefit of the city shall be paid for by the city. Motions were made and carried yesterday providing that the ordinances should be treated by the two standing committees of councils exactly as if they were not intended for the benefit of private parties.

These were followed by a motion in each committee that the city and not the railroad company should bear the expense of the printing. No explanation was given.

Protests from Property Owners.

An ordinance was approved by the corporations committee carrying into effect the agreement between the city and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company. Nineteen ordinances were approved by the surveys committee, vacating as many streets, to put into effect the provisions of the agreement between the railroad and the city, which Director Bigelow was present at both committee meetings to defend.

Property owners were present to protest against the vacation of Boundary street. R. J. Dougherty, representing his own interest, consisting of a lease on coal yards and 400 feet frontage in Boundary street, and A. M. Thompson, representing the Little estate owning 40 lots in Boundary street, made known their claims and objected to the approval of the agreement or of the 19 vacation ordinances until the railroad company had made some arrangement with them.

Mr. Dougherty said the vacation of Boundary street would shut off communication to his property and make it entirely unaccessible. The same claim regarding the Little property was made by Mr. Thompson, who said the vacation of Boundary street and Moreland street would bar access to the property and destroy its marketable value which might be considered later if the railroad company sought to purchase it or acquire it by condemnation proceedings. He said the owners were willing to sell at a fair price, but the railroad should make an offer for it or begin negotiation proceedings in advance of the passage of ordinances vacating those streets that made a thoroughfare to the property and which, when closed, shut it off entirely from any street or highway.

Work Will Cost Millions.

Director Bigelow answered the objections by stating that it was the intention of the railroad company to purchase both properties mentioned. Mr. Bigelow explained the nature of the proposed railroad improvement in Junction hollow.

"It is to swap Boundary street for the Pittsburgh Junction tracks in Junction hollow and to regrade both," said he, "from Fifth avenue to Second avenue. Boundary street is only a paper street. It was located in 1840. The railroad has bought all the property in the hollow or will buy all the property there. It wants to extend its own property and to lower the grade of its track 32 feet at the upper end of Boundary street and to open a new tunnel.

"It will cost the company millions of dollars to make these improvements. To do this the railroad will have to transfer its tracks to the other side of Boundary street and the railroad will give its right-of-way for the new Boundary street and regrade it from Second avenue."

STEINER AGAIN PLAYS.

Pittsburgh Organist Gives Another Pair of Free Recitals.

The 724th and the 725th in the series of free organ recitals at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall, will be given this evening and tomorrow afternoon. W. K. Steiner, who gave the second pair of recitals this season, will be the organist. The program for this evening contains an interesting list of compositions, four out of the six numbers being entirely new at these recitals. The list in full is as follows:

Sortie (new)	J. Guy Ropartz
Meditation, op 16	Franz Aloys Klein
Canon, op. 21, No. 3 (new)	Th. Salome
Passacaglia (new)	G. M. Dethier
Pedal study in D major, op. 47, No. 2 (new)	H. W. Nicholl

McKeesport Eagles to Build Aerie.

McKeesport Eagles are about to purchase ground on which to erect a permanent aerie. They now occupy the former quarters of the McKeesport Elks. Several sites are under consideration, and the special committee will decide on a site early next week. A building costing about $50,000 will be erected.

We are having the busiest days we ever knew at this season—men, women and children are being provided with apparel in better manner than ever before, hence they are coming in greater numbers.

Our Jewelry Store is prepared as never before to display its Gems, its Watches, its Silverware—magnificent stocks, each piece selected with expert care and yet priced to save a handsome percentage for holiday shoppers below the prices that rule elsewhere where qualities are equally incontestable.

The Art Ware Section of the third floor holds what is probably the most elaborate and comprehensive collection of Vases and other Bric-a-Brac, Bronzes, Marble Statuary and other art wares ever shown in Pittsburg.

The East Basement Toy Store is a broader and brighter Fairyland than we have ever provided for little folks in the past. Ready earlier than usual this year so that the young folks may come and enjoy it ahead of the scurrying crowds. Better for parents, too, if part of the Christmas buying is done before the hustle-bustle time.

The Book Store is ready, complete, as you expect it to be—all standard and recent literature, many in sumptuous gift bindings. Books for young folks, Calendars and Christmas Cards, all ready now for comfortable selection.

Horne Liveries.

All the style-correctness, all the sterling qualities of fabrics, all the superior tailoring that has gone to make the reputation of Horne's Clothing are likewise characteristic of Horne Ready-Made Liveries.

Our stock is comprehensive of all clothing required for private, club or hotel servants.

Driving livery for coachman, groom and stableman.

Livery Coats, in heavy weight, blue, green and claret, $30.00.

Trousers to match, $8.50.

Trousers to match at $11.00.

Trousers to match at $15.00.

Whipcord Suits in cutaway frocks, of silver gray, oxford mix and tan at $36.50—made with breeches. Same in Sack Suits at $28.00.

Topcoats of same goods, heavily lined, $30.00.

Sale of Women's Walking Skirts.

$12.00 instead of $15.00 to $18.00.

At this time of the year new walking skirts at a saving of from $3.00 to $6.00 each will indeed prove a piece of welcome news.

The separate skirt has become an important factor in women's dress—a necessary factor. It has become indispensable as an article of dress for wear in the house. In nine cases out of ten the street skirt for bad weather is a separate skirt.

This special group of skirts is made up for the most part from the ones and twos left from our best selling numbers, and also includes a number of fine sample skirts from the foremost skirt maker in this country.

The best styles for this Fall and Winter, including all kinds of circular and pleated models, are to be found among the lot of fine worsteds and different weight materials in all the fashionable colors, with plenty of pretty grays, mixtures and solid black.

For the coming Winter, with its days of rain and sleet and snow and slush, these skirts may be depended upon to stand the test of hard and steady wear.

Women's Very Handsome Fur Hats for $7.50.

Were you to see these hats and asked to guess the price you would not say less than $25.00. They look for all the world like a $20.00 or $25.00 creation and as a matter of fact the workmanship alone in such a hat generally costs $4.00.

Fur hats are being worn more this season than for many years past, and mink is the favorite. These hats at $7.50 are Mink Hats not genuine mink, we state this frankly, but they are genuine fur and of a beautiful mink-like shade. Indeed, it is very hard to realize the difference between the real mink hats and these replicas.

Ready today in Millinery Department, third floor, West.

Two and Three Yards of Ribbon for the Price of One Yard.

If this is true, then you stand to get three yards of 50c ribbon for 50c—2 yards of 25c ribbon for 25c—2 yards of $1.00 ribbon for $1.00—3 yards of $2.50 ribbon for $2.50.

The widths of the ribbon are from 2 to 12 inches, they are mostly short lengths just such lengths as can be advantageously worked up into pretty Christmas favors.

Finest kind of ribbons, such as Satin Taffeta, French Taffetas, Mousseline, Faille, Warp Prints, Plaids, Roman Stripes and Fancies.

Today an Exhibition of Children's Umbrellas.

As this is an exhibit of children's umbrellas we think it only fair that the little folks should be brought in to see for themselves. We venture to say there will be heard exclamations of youthful delight. Such a gift is both novel and practical for a Christmas remembrance.

For Girls—

For girls 5 to 10 years old, black gloria, 75c and $1.00—natural handles.

Black or colored union taffeta, or all silk serge, small horn, Dresden, or silver trimmed natural handles, $1.35, $1.50, $2.00.

For Young Ladies—

SPECIAL—Pretty bright red umbrellas, $5.00 quality for $2.75.

For Boys—

Gloria Umbrellas, natural or doghead handles, 75c, $1.00, $1.50.

For older boys, say 12 to 16 years, good gloria umbrellas, with natural handles, at $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 each.

Women's $15.00 and $18.00 Raincoats $11.50.

Raincoats Make Practical Gifts.

These are new and exceedingly pretty. The balance of an order we told you about before. A broad assortment of styles and materials, and every size you are likely to want.

They could not have come to us at a more opportune time, for the heavy selling of this particular line has reduced their numbers and left their ranks badly broken in sizes.

For the gift practical a raincoat would be most appropriate, and the special price offered for today makes it possible to get a much handsomer coat for the money than would otherwise be possible.

Good Things at the Candy Counter.

Last week a lady discovered a treasure in our Candy Department in the shape of some old-fashioned sweets. She bought a heap of them and took them home—no, not to her children, but to her grandmother. She said she was confident they would form a pleasant surprise.

Old-fashioned Stick Candy, 25c pound.
Special Marshmallows, 25c box.
Chocolate and Vanilla Mallow'eens, 40c pound.
Burnt Almonds, 50c pound.
Glace Nuts, 50c pound.
Chocolates, very special, 30c pound.
Thanksgiving favors of every description at 10c each and up to 60c.

Saturday, November 25, 1905.

The mutiny of convicts at the Jefferson City, Mo., penitentiary yesterday, who shot and killed two guards and then exploded dynamite under the prison gate, prompts inquiry as to the kind of discipline which renders such an occurrence possible. The prisoners concerned in the plot appear to have been well armed, for they put up a desperate fight when overtaken by officers. Ordinary watchfulness on the part of guards, unless there was official connivance in the plot, would have prevented the smuggling in of weapons and the fatal result.

They certainly go to extremes in Massachusetts. It is reported that the chief of police of Somerville, has notified the grocers of that town that cider is intoxicating and its sale is forbidden under penalty of the law. As Thanksgiving is close at hand and the mince meat is ready for fermentation, what is going to happen in New England if the leaven of cider is left out? What would a mince pie be without cider? How will the Puritans be able properly to celebrate the feast of feasts? The rest of the country may well ask: What is New England coming to?

Publication of the names of students who have speculated in tickets to the games is threatened by the football association of an eastern university. Offenders are to be barred from future ticket subscription privileges. Proof of the activity of the movement against speculation is found in the demand for the resignation of a class president who is accused of dealing in tickets. At the big games speculators have succeeded in running up the prices to an unreasonable height. Outsiders have been generally blamed for the evil, and it is not edifying to find students their abettors.

The news that the government-built battleship Connecticut will be ready to go into commission sooner than the Louisiana, which is being constructed under contract by private enterprise, will please those who favor the building of warships at government yards. Work on the Louisiana was commenced a month earlier than on the Connecticut, and her launching took place correspondingly earlier, but since then work on the vessel at the New York navy yard has progressed more rapidly. Navy department officials are reported gratified at this demonstration of the government's ability to do its own shipbuilding.

The decision of a Nebraska judge that a public school teacher may confiscate and destroy worthless works of fiction found in the possession of a pupil during school hours may impose a new moral responsibility on our instructors of youth. The books in question were not exactly immoral in tone, but of the kind denominated "trashy," worthless as literature and embodying false ideas of life. As to the teacher's right to confiscate, temporarily, books not needed in the school room, there can be little doubt, but the propriety of destroying them is open to question. A note to the parents would be the wiser course, notwithstanding the legal rights guaranteed by the court's decision.

If the eagerly-anticipated meeting between Yale and Harvard today furnishes as clean and sportsmanlike an exhibition of football as did the Yale-Princeton game, it will do much toward removing the popular prejudice, of recent growth, against the college pastime. Spectators of the Yale-Princeton contest were highly pleased with the good feeling which prevailed between members of the opposing teams, both before and after the game, and the absence of serious injuries certainly shows that football is not necessarily so dangerous to life and limb as has been asserted. President Eliot, it is said, will witness today's game, and the manner in which it is played will have much influence on his reported policy to do away with football at Harvard.

The substantial prosperity of the country is shown convincingly by the records of our exports and imports. According to the latest report of the treasury department the exports for the ten months of the present year shown an increase of $108,953,422 over the corresponding period last year. This, of itself, however, would not be so indicative of general employment of labor and good times, but the value of the imports has increased $135,815,561, or $26,562,139 more than the exports. The great bulk of the imports consist of raw material for our manufactures, constituting a tribute to our industrial wealth. Of course, the total of our exports continue to dominate over our imports. When we can afford the importation of luxuries, however, as we do now, the industrial and business condition of the country may be considered most gratifying.

Life-Saving Dollars.

The Gazette yesterday turned over $2,000 to the local society for the relief of the Russian sufferers in addition to the $1,500 previously collected by this newspaper for this purpose. A gratifying number of contributions of varying amounts were received during the day, many of them accompanied by regrets that the donors could not give more and expressing their appreciation of The Gazette's endeavors in the deserving cause. A full realization of the fact that the gift of a few dollars will save a life would result in a general outpouring from the pocketbooks of Pittsburgh. An Odessa correspondent says the arrival of real winter weather will inaugurate a reign of suffering of which we in America can have no adequate conception. Even with the generous measures of relief which have been initiated in this country and in England, thousands will die from hunger and cold. England, which has already subscribed liberally for the relief of the Russian Jews, is herself facing the serious problem of caring for an army of her own starving poor. Prosperous America and the rich Pittsburgh region, with no such problem, must do their share.

This suggestion was made yesterday by The Gazette: Why not give 10 per cent of the money you've set aside for Christmas gifts to the suffering in Russia? The suggestion may be modified to include the tithing of other funds. Suppose we give a definite proportion of the "housekeeping money" or "cigar money" to save a life? Every dollar will be put promptly to the noblest use. No contribution is too small to be welcomed. Every cent counts. Let this last day of the week be a banner one, providing a long honor roll of contributions of life-saving dollars.

White House Hospitality.

The issuing of the program for the social season at the White House, from which the customary reception to the general public is omitted, has been followed by a few wails from the persons who never are satisfied with any action of the administration, anyway, and whom it is no use trying to please. There are to be but four receptions this season: to the diplomatic corps, the supreme court, congress and the army and navy. Dissatisfied persons, of the kind who are always harping on "the rights of the plain people" and "the danger of establishing a royal court at Washington," profess to discover in the abandonment of the reception to the general public a tending toward the establishing of an aristocracy in this country and a drifting away from the democratic ideas of the founders of the republic.

Probably a good deal of this nonsense will be found, for the next few weeks, in anti-administration newspapers. The fact is, our presidents have always been overburdened with social duties expected of them by an exacting public. The handshaking and exertion due to standing for two or three hours at a stretch in a crowded room have proved a decided drain upon the President's energy, which is needed for more important matters. The four receptions, to the representatives of other nations, the members of the highest tribunal in the land, members of the nation's legislature and to our defenders on land and sea, would seem to be necessary and proper. As for the reception to the general public, it is not necessary. President Roosevelt is always accessible to any citizen who really has business with him, and to many who have not, but merely wish to "pay their respects." He is far more accessible to the public than are most presidents of big corporations. No president has been more truly the people's president. Anyone who imagines President Roosevelt desires to hold himself aloof from the public does him serious injustice.

Official Ohio Returns.

So much has been said about the Ohio election and the causes that contributed to the defeat of Gov. Herrick that an analysis of the official returns may give the best answer to many doubts and questions. In the presidential year the total vote cast in the state was 1,026,229. In the election the early part of this month it dwindled to 961,505, or 54,724 less. This is a very good showing for what is called an "off year," but there is no telling what the result might have been had the odd 50,000 expressed their opinions at the polls. However, we must take the 42,647 plurality given Mr. Pattison, the Democratic nominee for governor, as a fair expression of the temper of the people of the Buckeye state. Gov. Herrick suffered from various causes, the main one being his supposed deference to the wishes of George B. Cox, which was denied and disproved, but not accepted by people who were determined to hit the Cincinnati boss over Herrick's shoulder. The other elements that entered into the campaign of slander are too well known to require mention.

The claim that the result in Ohio was of national importance will not be seriously entertained by any rational person when the result on the rest of the Republican ticket is known. All were elected except Herrick, and all of them but one had pluralities exceeding that given Pattison, the highest, 46,549, being given to Kirtley, for member of the board of public works. The official count, or the known result before it was completed, most effectually destroys any contention as to the Democratic leanings of Ohio. In this election the Republicanism of Ohio stands out clearer than ever, though one innocent man had to suffer for sins arbitrarily assigned to him. The official declaration of the vote does not leave the faintest hope for the Ohio Democracy. Nationally Ohio is as securely Republican as is Pennsylvania.

The Business Situation.

The movements in the speculative markets attracted more attention this week than that in general business. The latter is moving along steadily in a mighty volume never before equaled, and is almost entirely free from the eddies and cross-currents often witnessed in former years. The present seems to be one of those exceptional eras when one line of trade is not prosperous at the expense of others; when all sections of the country with their special interests are enjoying an unusual degree of activity.

Under these conditions it is not strange that the stock market should display buoyancy, but incidents developed in connection with the speculation this week which suggested that the professional manipulators were overdoing matters. There are two classes in the stock market—the farsighted and courageous who make a business of studying financial and commercial conditions and act promptly upon their conclusions, and the shortsighted and timid, embracing the great majority of the public. The former class aims at discounting the future, and when expectations are realized the members of this class employ all the arts of speculation to arouse enthusiasm among investors. It was very evident that the masters of manipulation were engaged this week encouraging the timid public to enter the market. It was hardly possibe to exaggerate the favorable factors in the situation. The production of copper is the largest on record and the price of the metal has advanced to the highest in five years. The production of pig iron is at the maximum, and the efforts of producers are directed toward averting a runaway market. An unprecedented tonnage is being moved by the railroads, and the facilities of the latter are unequal to the task of meeting the requirements of shippers. The only danger seems to be that overconfidence will lead to over-speculation and inevitable reaction.

In the commodity markets there was also an increase in activity and more or less excitement. Wheat declined, but cotton advanced sharply, the rise in one day exceeding $5 a bale. The strength was due to surmises based upon the government "ginning report," indicating a short crop. However, when the estimates of unofficial experts vary from a crop of less than 10,500,000 bales to a crop of nearly 13,000,000 bales, the impossibility of reaching accuracy is apparent, and a situation is produced highly favorable for speculation.

There has been a return to almost normal conditions in the money market. The rates for call loans to stock exchange borrowers, which two weeks ago reached a maximum of 25 per cent, this week averaged less than 6 per cent. The legal reserve requirements of the associated banks of New York were restored last Saturday, and there was some relaxation in the tension in foreign money markets. Still, the unsettled state of affairs in Russia, which has had a directly unfavorable effect upon German trade, and the possibility remaining of a serious fall in Russia's credit, which has had a direct effect upon financial circles in Paris, are factors in the situation which call for caution until the outlook abroad becomes clearer.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

Girls and Boys Must Have Their Innings and Their Outings, Too.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Boys will be boys and girls will be girls and that is all there is about it.

No, not all, for after awhile they become larger grown and are known as men and women. But their larger growth does not greatly change their tastes, dispositions or characters.

The period between boyhood and manhood is the most important in the whole period of life, for it is the period in which the character of the man is formed, and more or less firmly established.

And so with girls. The tastes and habits formed while growing into womanhood are most certain to follow them through life, even to its final close.

* * *

Boys and girls have tastes in common while yet infants, but these soon begin to differentiate so that you can tell which is which from their toys, their plays and their tastes.

These differences increase as they grow until finally they become distinct creatures, real men and women.

At first they have no special affection one for the other, but in due time they begin to recognize a difference, then they become shy and diffident until well grown, when a new sort of affection begins to develop.

They may not understand it, nor know the why and wherefor, but they should be so instructed by parents and teachers that they may understand, for lack of this knowledge thousands go to the bad every year. Better to learn from parents and friends than from those who are unfit to instruct.

* * *

Mr. Quiet Observer:—I noticed in your column recently an article from three Waynesburg girls, giving their opinion of the Waynesburg boys, their unfitness for husbands, etc.

I think it our turn to say why we do not desire them for wives.

They do not stay at home long enough to wash the dishes let alone to sweep, make beds and tidy up the house.

When a young man takes them to a dance or out driving they afterward tell their girl friends how easy he was, and make all sorts of fun of him, and say, "Oh, I don't care for him; I only wanted to go to the dance, or go for a drive."

When a new boy, or young drummer visits the town these model young ladies proceed to walk the streets, trying to flirt with him, while their mothers are at home attending to the duties of the household and wondering where their daughters are.

Not long since a bunch of these girls followed a drummer to the depot trying to flirt with him, but he sized them up and paid no attention to them. These drummers often ask the proprietors of business houses here what kind of girls these are.

Now, Mr. Quiet Observer, what kind of housewives do you think these young ladies would make?

We could cite you to many other freaky things these girls do, but we do not deem it advisable just at present.

TOM, RICHARD AND HAROLD.

Thus it goes. First the girls cry out against the boys who loaf on the corners, talk loud and act boisterously on the streets.

Then the boys cry out against the girls who walk up and down the streets apparently for no other purpose than to see these boys and to be seen by them.

No doubt but some of both are well pleased. If they were not they would not continue such a course of conduct.

It is well for all concerned that these should have a place in a great newspaper in which to say just what they think of each other, and to tell what sort of girls and boys they are, and what sort of men and women they hope to be.

The mere fact of their taking a lively interest in each other, and of wanting to criticise each other, is a most hopeful sign.

Besides, it gives each a chance of seeing themselves as others see them, which is always helpful to sensible people. Fools can't see themselves that way.

* * *

No doubt but every sensible young woman hopes to marry sometime, sooner or later. And it is a fair presumption that if she knew what sort of women sensible young men want for wives she would try to become one of that sort.

And it is equally fair to assume that sensible, reasonable, practical young men will try to fit themselves to be worthy of the girls whose ideal husbands are fully up to the average successful men.

It is important, therefore, that they come out and say what they want so that others may fit themselves to meet the demands.

After all, it isn't a matter of dress, or of style, or of step, that counts in a happy, successful marriage, but a matter of character, training and fitness to fill the high and important office of husband or wife.

It isn't merely for the fun of the thing that young people are permitted to air their views in this column, but for the practical good there is in it.

* * *

Mr. Quiet Observer:—I do not think you understand women.

You say that not a few leave their homes for outside work because they have no taste for home work.

You do not know the woman heart at all.

I know personally several girls who are employed in offices and many teachers, and I have made girls in stores a study, in a casual way, and I have never found one who left her home from choice.

One girl who looked as if she were much out of place behind the counter said to me in answer to my question why she was there: "Oh, there were two girls of us at home. My sister would not work while I was there, and we had no money, so I decided to try clerking."

"Do you like it?" I said. "Oh, no, but it is better than staying at home the way it was." She didn't say what was probably true, that her father was unable or refused to furnish his daughters support.

The office girls whom I know are home lovers, delicate, refined, shrinking from publicity. Their contact with men in business each day is increasingly distasteful, but as I think of it, in all of these cases there are two sisters, one must work at home, the other is pushed out by the necessities of the family.

God made women home lovers, and nothing will ever change their natures.

If men would not deplete themselves by the cigaret, tobacco and other bad habits, these girls could find good husbands. But what refined girl wants to give up a certain salary and her own home for the sort of men she meets in society?

She is more courageous in such a venture than when she steps out of her home into the office or shop.

The trouble is with the men generally. If the fathers had less expensive habits their daughters could remain at home. If the bulk of the young men were as abstemious, as moral, as self-denying, as ambitious, as economical as the girls then the shops and offices would not be filled with girls who you think will make questionable wives. They would have homes of their own as they should have and as they desire.

EXPERIENCED.

Conditions of the Millennium.

Publicity will cleanse the insurance business of much, if not all, the graft that has disgraced it, but the millennium will not arrive until the people get into the habit of electing legislatures too honest to steal and too intelligent to confiscate.—Washington Post.

TENEMENT DWELLERS ARE GIVEN PRIZES

Those Who Keep Best Boxes of Flowers in Windows Are Rewarded By Guild.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Prizes for the best boxes of flowers displayed during the past year in the windows of tenement houses were distributed by the National Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild, which has started a movement by which much sunshine is brought into the lives of the poor. Through the society, the headquarters of which are at 70 Fifth avenue, 205 boxes were placed in tenement windows during May and June, a visitor following to instruct the recipient in the care of them. Several other visits were made up to last month, when the best boxes were inspected for the prizes. Many of the boxes were so good that there was great difficulty in deciding who were the winners. The boxes contained for the most part geraniums and English ivy. In several streets a number of boxes were placed in adjoining houses or on opposite sides of the street, so that the effect was charming and the neighborhood transformed. The guild is highly pleased with the experiment, and hopes next season to place a thousand or more boxes.

The tenement house commissioner has approved the plan for leaving unpaved plots in tenement house yards for the making of permanent gardens to be stocked with shrubs and hardy perennials which will be a pleasure year after year. The care given the window boxes and plants shows that such gardens are possible, and that the tenement dweller can be counted on to help make his part of the city beautiful. Ten thousand bunches of flowers distributed weekly during the summer months through the guild do not fill the demand. Hospitals, insane and orphan asylums, homes, missions, settlements and neighborhoods are begging for more.

Nephew of Diaz Races With Death.

When the congressional limited left for Washington this afternoon it had on board one passenger at least to whom the speed of the train will seem none too fast. His name is Carlos Diaz-Gutierrez, a nephew of President Diaz of Mexico, who is on his way from Berlin to the bedside of his dying sister in San Luis Potosi. When Gutierrez reaches the border a special train will be in readiness at Laredo to rush him over the Mexican National railway to San Luis Potosi. As the National is a government owned road, a word from President Diaz will do all that is necessary, and the fastest locomotive on the road will be attached to the train, which is expected to make the 400 miles in record time.

Watch Records Hour of Death.

The police fixed the time of a drowning this morning by a watch found in the pocket of the victim. The hands of the nickel timepiece had stopped at 9:40 o'clock, and when it was taken out of the dead man's clothing it started to tick again as energetically as ever. It is thought that it stopped at that hour last night. From the man's clothing the police think he had, perhaps, been the captain of a lighter. He wore a pilot coat, congress gaiters, blue trousers and black waistcoat. He was about 60 years old.

Fairy Opera Is Now Ready.

Several hundred guests of Manager Conried sat in the Metropolitan opera house from 11 to 1:30 o'clock today watching the final rehearsal of "Hansel and Gretel," whose premiere at this theater is set for tomorrow afternoon. Engelbert Humperdinck of Berlin, the composer of this German fairy opera, was there with his wife, and expressed his delight at the capital staging. One of the most attentive listeners was Miss Maud Adams. After the rehearsal the orchestra gave a "tusch" of fanfare, in honor of Humperdinck.

Blames It All on Cupid.

"What can a fellow do when he is in love?" was Alfred Mohimont's reply today when asked in the Tombs police court why he had married two women without bothering about the trifling formality of a divorce. Mohimont is only 26 years old. He says he is an artist. He waived examination and was held in $1,000 bail for the grand jury. Mohimont carelessly went to the same minister with both women, telling him his first wife was dead. Then the minister met No. 1 on the street.

New York Is "Smoking Up."

The smoky haze which hung over New York city and vicinity today was caused by one of the fiercest forest fires which ever swept the face of the palisades. For several days there had been a number of fires in the dry leaves and underbrush along the palisades, but they had either died out of themselves or had been extinguished without much loss. The fires this year have been large because of the long drought. There has been no rain in several weeks, and the dead underbrush ignites quickly. So far no buildings have been in the path of the flames and little damage has been done.

Policemen Receive Neat Reward.

Acting Captain McCauley and Detective Sergeant Woolridge received today $500 apiece from the National City bank as a reward for the services rendered by them in securing the arrest of Harry Leonard, the young broker who obtained from the City bank the securities pledged for a large loan by presenting a forged check. The gifts were enclosed in a letter to Commissioner McAdoo, asking permission to express the bank's appreciation in a substantial manner.

The Electric Journal.

The November number of the Electric Journal is a distinct compliment to this city, where it is published. It is the most interesting issue in the history of the magazine. It is almost wholly a Pittsburgh product, the work of members of the Electric club, nine-tenths of whose membership is composed of men connected with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Practically all of the material is original, written specially for the Journal. The data and articles selected after this fashion have proved acceptable to men in all positions of electrical and mechanical work. The Journal has everywhere been recognized by progressive electrical men as one of the indispensable aids to effective engineering work.

GET GOOD RESULTS FROM FOOD CRUSADE

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, Nov. 24.—Dairy and Food Commissioner B. H. Warren, in his annual report issued today, presents a gratifying showing of the results of the crusade waged by the state administration through his department against adulterated and bogus food products in Pennsylvania. The commissioner says that "the food commodities of Pennsylvania have been greatly improved," and that "a new era of better food and drink is at hand." He attributes this partly to the fact that the citizens of Pennsylvania have "generally indorsed and supported the efforts" of the authorities, and the commissioner states further that "the public press was also an important factor in the work."

Tells of Adulterations.

The report tells in detail of the various forms of food adulterations uncovered by the state agents. Canned goods have been preserved with various acids, fruit syrups have been imposed upon the soda drinking public without containing a particle of the fruit whose name they bear, and the same has been true of various brands of jellies and preserves. Candies and other confections have been largely made up of coal tar products and commercial glucose.

The commissioner devotes considerable attention to the complaints of merchants that they have been made to pay fines and undergo disastrous publicity for adulterations for which the manufacturers were wholly responsible, and that while the retailers have been made to suffer the guilty manufacturers have gone free.

Need National Pure Food Law.

The commissioner suggests that in such cases a national pure food law would remove the bars of interstate commerce and grant the home merchant relief. "Merchants, however, who take the precaution to buy goods from non-resident manufacturers or wholesalers under guaranties of purity should be able, if they are defrauded," says the commissioner, "to obtain redress by prosecuting those who sold them the adulterated goods by misrepresentation." The commissioner calls attention to the fact that under the Grout bill the sales of oleomargarine in the United States have decreased from 126,316,472 pounds in 1902 to 48,671,480 pounds in 1904. In this connection he says:

United States Senators' Aid.

"A most satisfactory and encouraging condition is made manifest in the public declaration that our United States senators, the Hon. Boies Penrose and the Hon. P. C. Knox, oppose the attempt to repeal the Grout bill, and their voice, vote and work is largely seconded by their Pennsylvania colleagues in the lower house of congress. As views upon economical problems often differ, this noted and spontaneous support of the dairymen and farmers' interest is especially praiseworthy. His excellency, Gov. Pennypacker, has also expressed himself as being strongly opposed to any interference with the Grout bill as it now stands on the statutes. The position of Pennsylvania, therefore, is not uncertain."

Perhaps the most important recommendation of the dairy and food commissioner is in behalf of better legislation against the adulteration of alcoholic drinks. He says:

"The investigations made have demonstrated the fact that so-called 'pure rye whisky' is almost a myth, as raw alcohol, prune juice and caramel constitute the main ingredients of many of the compounded or blended 'pure rye brands.'" The commissioner also recommends more stringent legislation relative to the manufacture and sale of drugs and chemicals.

Sam Weller as a Standard.

President Roosevelt now calls for a resolute effort to secure brevity in correspondence and the elimination of all useless letter writing. This is something truly Napoleonic. It was the opinion of the distinguished Frenchman of Destiny that nine-tenths of all the letters that are written answer themselves, and that the remaining tenth are not worth answering. In this way Napoleon contrived to relieve himself of the trouble of writing letters. Perhaps the best rule ever promulgated on the subject of epistolary correspondence was that of Sam Weller in the matter of writing love letters. Always regulate the length of your letter so as to make the recipient wish there was more.—Boston Herald.

As True as Gospel.

All infractions of love and equity in our social relations are speedily punished. They are punished by fear. Whilst I stand in simple relation to my fellowman, I have no displeasure in meeting him. We meet as water meets water, or as two currents of air mix, with perfect diffusion and interpenetration of nature. But as soon as there is any departure from simplicity, and attempt at halfness, or good for me that is not good for him, my neighbor feels the wrong; he shrinks from me as far as I have shrunk from him; his eyes no longer seek mine; there is war between us; there is hate in him and fear in me.—Emerson.

An Unconvincing Comet.

A small comet which appeared near the pole star last week and has since been moving southward rapidly, has given the astronomers a fresh object to watch; but their reports of its movements from day to day create no popular excitement. It is too faint to be seen without a telescope, and it is said to have no tail. A comet without a tail can never hope to convince the uninitiated of its genuineness.—New York Tribune.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

Kindergarten stunts in hotel work were indulged in pretty interestingly last night at the Hotel Henry by 12 students of the medical school of the Western University of Pennsylvania. The young men were being inducted into the mysteries of the Nu Sigma Nu fraternity, so as to claim the right to membership in the Delta chapter, whose chapter house is in Brereton avenue. About 60 members of the chapter were present to see that the initiation was properly conducted, Robert Hinchman serving as chief director of the initiatory exercises. One of the stunts was that of one of the new members sweeping the floor of the hotel lobby with a child's broom. Another was one fellow sitting under guard with a cold, wet cloth on his head. A third was said to have been one of the men waiting at the bar, that is, waiting on the customers in the grill room with such drinks as they desired. All were in happy mood.

The Nu Sigma Nu fraternity is among the oldest of the Greek letter societies, having been organized in 1846.

Old Members Hold Reunion.

A reunion of the Bayard Taylor Literary association was held last night at the Ft. Pitt hotel. About 30 members attended, among whom were several who live outside the city. Robert Thompson presided and Postmaster John Francies of Allegheny was toastmaster. Addresses were made by Drs. Joseph Woodburn and Campbell Taggart. Letters of regret were read from ex-Judge Elliott Rodgers, Judge William P. Potter and others. The association was organized in Allegheny in the early '80s and met in that city for 16 years.

The association will hold an old-time literary society meeting some time after the holidays, which promises to be a unique event.

Hotels and Stations on Light Turn.

Travel from the Pittsburgh stations was comparatively light last night. The eastbound trains carried fewer than the usual number of passengers, while the west-bound trains were about normal. The hotel registry was smaller than usual, also. What the cause of the sudden slump was no one seemed to know, although it is expected that there will be a revival again early next week.

Going to Canada for Flags.

S. Y. Baldwin, F. A. Butterworth, A. D. Duff, Robert Hunter and R. A. Shaw, representing the Canadian society of Pittsburgh, left for Toronto, Ont., yesterday, where they will receive three flags, which are to be presented by the school teachers of Toronto who recently visited Pittsburgh, and who wish to show their appreciation of the hospitable manner in which they were entertained while here. The annual meeting of the society will be held in the rooms, Bessemer building, on Friday evening, December 8, when the election of officers for the coming year will be held.

Be Vigilant, but Fair.

Just now there is a strong tendency to overdo the crusade against all forms of grafting and crookedness by making it appear that the official and business life of the country is rotten to the core. Unsupported statements are accepted as indisputable facts and suspicion is aroused where none is justified. Discussing this feature of the reform wave which is sweeping over the country the Washington Post suggests that we run to extremes in everything we do. Whatever absorbs our attention for the moment is about the only thing in the world worth thinking about; if we take sides in any controversy, we are sure to overdo it, as we did in our Japanese partisanship during the late war, and if we are against anybody, they immediately become the offscouring of the earth.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

HIS PARENT'S OPINION.

He's never been to college and has little use for books,
He's not a fluent talker, though you'd think it from his looks,
  But pretty soon we think that he'll begin.
We don't know how he learned so much.
  You'd be surprised to see
  What marvelous intelligence he shows.
It's just a source of never failing wonder, sir, to me,
  The heaps of things our little baby knows.

  And do a number of them fairly well.
One dances to perfection and another plays or sings,
  Or in some other manner may excel—
But not at two years, often. They're comparatively old.
  Our little skeezicks now is barely two.
You hardly would believe me, I imagine, if I told you half the things our little one can do.

I've heard of other babies that their parents brag about.
  They're prodigies, you'd naturally think.
  But I just smile and turn my head and wink;
I'm not disposed to blame them for their foolishness a bit.
  They've got to make the most of what they've got.
But if you saw our youngster you would cheerfully admit
  The cunning little rascal beats the lot.

Books and Book Men

By George Seibel

MOST of the important books of the season have now made their appearance, publishers realizing that in many cases the early worm catches the fish, but there are many interesting things still to come from the presses. This week saw the publication of E. V. Lucas' "Life of Charles Lamb," issued by G. P. Putnam's Sons. Mr. Lucas' edition of Lamb won its way to favor at once, and this biography will be welcomed by all lovers of the gentle Elia. Another notable biographical work in the religious field is the life of Balthasar Huebmaier, by Henry C. Vedder, also published by the Putnams, in their Heroes of the Reformation series.

Two new works of fiction will have special interest for certain circles. "Captains All," by W. W. Jacobs, the English nautical humorist, will please the lovers of fresh and salt humor—it is published by Charles Scribner's Sons. "Zal," by Rupert Hughes, is a musical novel of somewhat more tenuous texture than George Moore's—the Century Company is the publisher.

"On Life's Stairway," by the late Frederic Lawrence Knowles, is an exceptional volume of verse just issued by Dana Estes & Co.

ROMANCE IN INDIANA.

The House of a Thousand Candles. By Meredith Nicholson. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 382 pages. Price, $1.50.

If James Whitcomb Riley were to turn about and write a blank-verse tragedy a la Stephen Phillips, or if Mr. Swinburne should produce some coon songs like Paul Laurence Dunbar's, it should not surprise us more than Mr. Nicholson's departure in "The House of a Thousand Candles." His first book, "The Main Chance," was a masterpiece of photographic realism, and quite the best book of the season in which it appeared; his second book, "Zelda Dameron," displayed in addition a gift of humorous characterization reminiscent of Dickens, though the work as a whole was not as strong and convincing as its predecessor. "The House of a Thousand Candles" is utterly unlike either of the other books. It is an excursion into the realm of pure romance; the spirit of Dumas hovers nigh—"great Alexander, dead and turned to clay." Or, rather, not an excursion into the realm of romance, whither excursion trains run daily, crowded with scribblers; Mr. Nicholson has accomplished the far more difficult task of transporting the realm of romance and the age of adventure hither and now. Fancy "The Castle of Otranto" carried intact across space and time and set down on the fair margin of an Indiana lake; fancy assassins, spooks, underground passages and hidden treasure in a region hitherto noted only for its pumpkins and its poets.

There is no other book that Mr. Nicholson's delightful new romance could be compared to more aptly. It is a "Castle of Otranto" in a comedy key. There are no falling helmets, no sighing portraits, no statues that bleed at the nose; modern enlightenment has frowned upon marvels that cannot be explained, and in a mansion so well illuminated there would naturally linger no shadow of medieval superstition. Every mystery in the book is ultimately referable to natural causation, and though Mr. Nicholson should tell us that the dead come to life again, we should have to believe it, so reasonable would he make the miracle to appear.

Old John Marshall Glenarm was a sort of Horace Walpole himself. "The House of the Thousand Candles" seems to be a creation of the architect of Strawberry Hill, and its proprietor had the same collector's mania. His mysterious and magnificent mansion in the Indiana forest was still unfinished when his grandson and heir was called from abroad to take possession after the old man's death. There was a queer will—that he should remain in the house for one year or forfeit the estate, and that if he should marry a certain Marian Devereux, the alternative heir, both should forfeit it. In addition to the queer will, there was an inexplicable shrinkage in the inheritance; though old John Marshall Glenarm was reputed a millionaire, he left only a handful of money—nothing but the big unfinished house and an enigmatic sphinx of a serving man, the impenetrable and imperturbable Bates.

The executor of the will—whom we know for a villain at once, his youth has been so blameless—is as much in the dark about the treasure's hiding place as anyone else. But he has reasons of his own for wishing to find it, and reasons of his own for wishing to eliminate the rightful heir. So, no sooner does the grandson of John Marshall Glenarm settle down in an easy-chair in the library of his castle amid the solitude, than a bullet crashes through the window and whistles above his head. And at every turn he comes upon intruders who are tapping wainscot and walls with hammers, searching for the hidden treasure. Add to these diversions the appearance of a girl in a red tam-o'-shanter—a girl who ought to sue Howard Chandler Christy for libeling her in two of his pictures—a girl who has the merry heart and mocking tone of Shakespeare's Rosalind, who chases rabbits and plays Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," and naught is wanting to enhance the atmosphere of romance and mystery.

The book would be notable if only for three characters—the volatile, jaunty, tantalizing Olivia Gladys Armstrong, one of the most charming avatars of the eternal feminine in fiction, a Di Vernon with a saucy twinkle in blue eyes; the inscrutable Bates, deep rogue or what, unaccountable from first to last, rare actor and impeccable chef; and the gleeful, irrepressible Larry Donovan, he of the sudden shillalah, a Quixote of the Old Sod, who manages to arrive just in time for any scrimmage. But there is another thing that makes the book notable, and that is the breezy freshness of the plot, which has a denouement the most blase of novel readers will not foresee. It would discount the reader's pleasure to proclaim it, and that most reprehensible of all readers, he (or she) who turns to the last chapter first to find out how it's going to end, a breach of book etiquette as serious as gobbling the sherbet before the roast beef, will be duly punished in this case by being cheated out of one of the most delicious surprises.

MEREDITH NICHOLSON,
Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles."

The facetious reviewer might call "The House of a Thousand Candles" light literature, after the two elaborate and ambitious books Mr. Nicholson has previously written. But the reader who is surfeited with strenuous masterpieces, who sees the great American novel under a new title every other week, will be glad to hear that this is not the great American novel—simply a jolly and enjoyable picnic in the realm of romance. It is the most delightful book that has appeared since Herman Knickerbocker Viele's "Inn of the Silver Moon;" it has the same vivacity, esprit, entertaining qualities—it is a book to read and enjoy.

HISTORY OF PACIFIC SLOPE.

The History of North America. Volume X. "The Pacific Slope and Alaska." By Joseph Schafer. Philadelphia: George Barrie & Sons. 442 pages, octavo, illustrated. Price, $6.00.

The west still awaits its Parkman, for with all his industry and ability the voluminous Hubert Howe Bancroft lacked the essential gift of the great historian. His huge octavos, of which he projected 39, are blocks for future builders, a quarry of invaluable material, but not history as Gibbon wrote it, nor even as Macaulay would have it written. And outside of these ponderous tomes, inaccessible and well-nigh indigestible, the history of the Pacific slope has been almost neglected. It has been as heroic and dramatic as the great conflict pictured by Parkman and Fiske, but it has not yet found its Herodotus, its Homer. So we are under a profound debt of gratitude alike to Dr. Lee, the editor of the series, and to Prof. Schafer, the writer of this volume, for a concise, connected, yet exhaustive and critical treatment of the subject. Dr. Lee's words well describe the scope of the book:

> The history of this land concerns itself with three widely differing sections populated by antagonistic peoples. For to California the Spanish first came; English-speaking people settled the Oregon country; subjects of the Muscovite came to the land north of "fifty-four-forty." The story of the beginnings of each of these sections is full of romance. Its interest puts that of modern novels to blush. Naught can take away from the glamour that tradition and history have thrown around those Spanish adventurers and devoted mission priests who first came to the "isle of delight," as the Spaniard called California. Neither can aught dim the light of romance that surrounds the stalwart trappers and explorers who first brought to the banks of the lordly Oregon the message of eastern civilization. Nor can Norse saga rival the tales of the Russian fur traders and their despotic masters, whose deeds in the early days of Alaskan colonization were as barbarous as they were brave.

The fact that the Bancroft collection is "housed behind barred doors" at San Francisco must have made research doubly difficult to Prof. Schafer, and therefore the completeness of his record is deserving of all the more praise. The exceptionally rich illustrative materials, ranging from Moll's map of 1709, showing California as an island, to present-day scenes in the Klondike region, indicate the industry of Dr. Schafer and the scope of his book. His presentation of the several boundary disputes is able and thorough, nor is he wanting in dramatic power when he has to narrate some stirring episode like Whitman's ride or the conquest of California. His style is devoid of the literary graces except clearness; at the same time his work must remain a standard authority upon this subject until the Parkman of that region shall make his appearance.

CAPITAL AND LABOR AGAIN.

The Grapple. By Grace MacGowan Cooke. Boston: L. C. Page & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Waldin & Co. 415 pages. Price, $1.50.

The capital-and-labor novel is tolerably familiar to all readers by now, and its great strike leading to disorder, usually ending with a dynamite explosion, is as inevitable as the stereotyped arguments for and against unionism that are put into the mouths of workmen and bosses. "Captains of the World," "The Walking Delegate," "The Ancient Grudge," and "The Man of the Hour," nearly all of them resemble each other in certain details, and at the opportune moment a howling mob turns up as punctually as if they were supernumeraries in a Hall Caine drama. Mrs. Cooke's novel has the vices and virtues of its kind; it is more a social preachment than a story, and the plot runs along pretty much in the well-worn rut. But the character of Mark Strong is one really worth getting acquainted with, while his philosophy has a deep lesson both for employers and employes. The book will promote a better understanding between capital and labor, as it presents the old contention in a new light—a light that falls from both sides. The book is different, too, in its love-story, which is not the hackneyed and perfunctory sort of patchwork usually basted on all manner of tales.

OPTIMISTIC, BUT UNPRACTICAL

The City: The Hope of Democracy. By Frederic C. Howe. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 319 pages. Price, $1.50.

With an enthusiasm born of a naive optimism Mr. Howe, after describing the ills which the body municipal is heir to, proposes two measures which seem fatuous viewed separately, and incompatible viewed together. His first remedy is municipal ownership of practically everything—this, he thinks, would stop franchise grabbing and consequent corruption, the root of all political evils. His second remedy is a land tax similar to Henry George's, which, he fancies would yield revenue sufficient, enhancing continually, to pave the streets with gold in the long run. Like all visionaries, Mr. Howe's vision is narrowed to one thing. He cannot see that to make all franchises civic property would only turn the grafters to another tack; they would go for fat administrative jobs with slender duties, and the hugely augmented host of city employes would make the machine so strong that no ballot revolution could overwhelm it, while immunity from discharge or from the necessity of declaring dividends would make the service more wretched and less progressive that it is under private ownership. He forgets that a tax placed on land would tend to depress its value and discourage real estate investment, just as a tax on flour would increase the consumption of potatoes. Notwithstanding its fundamental fallacies, the book is a very valuable contribution to the most complex and seemingly hopeless problem of our democracy.

THE AUTHOR OF "JANE EYRE."

Charlotte Bronte. By Clement K. Shorter. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. 240 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.00.

Clement K. Shorter has always been the most devout apostle of Charlotte Bronte, an apostolate which every one would approve had Mr. Shorter not felt called upon to decry George Eliot's genius in order to exalt the author of "John Eyre." Now Mr. Shorter has written a book about his divinity, published in the Literary Lives series of Charles Scribner's Sons, and containing much matter that was not accessible when Mrs. Gaskell wrote her life. Of course Mr. Shorter is under the "glamour" of the Brontes; he uses the word himself repeatedly, and devotes one chapter to analysing the "glamour," and hence his book is eulogistic and appreciative, rather than critical. But it is a thoroughly well-written and companionable volume by one who knows the subject better than any other living man.

Most people, I suppose, will be chiefly interested in the chapter given to Charlotte's marriage. The Rev. Arthur Bell Nicholls, to whom she gave her hand and heart, was still living a few years ago, and may still be living, though Charlotte Bronte died in 1855, 50 years ago (and, by the way, Mr. Shorter counts it 50 years from 1855 to 1895). About this marriage, dissolved by death before a year, many erroneous impressions have got abroad, due partly perhaps to the Rev. Patrick Bronte's opposition, partly to the bridegroom's insignificance, and because he belonged to the race of curates Charlotte had portrayed so unflatteringly in her books. Indeed, Mr. Nicholls himself figures in "Shirley" as Mr. Macarthey, whom "the circumstance of finding himself invited to tea with a Dissenter would unhinge for a week." And in a letter to a friend, repudiating the idea that she was going to marry Mr. Nicholls, she said: "He and his fellow curates regard me as an old maid, and I regard them, one and all, as highly uninteresting, narrow and unattractive specimens of the coarser sex."

Mr. Shorter is able to declare, however, without qualification, that the few months of Charlotte's married life were "quite the happiest of her life." He records her last words to her husband, as pathetic as any in the whole range of literary biography—"I am not going to die, am I? He will not separate us, we have been so happy."

The book will be read with keen interest by every admirer of "Jane Eyre" and "Wuthering Heights," even though he be not moved to contemn George Eliot to show his admiration more effectively.

METAPHYSICAL ASTRONOMY.

Finite and Infinite. By Thomas Curran Ryan. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company. 351 pages. Price, $1.50.

Mr. Ryan delves into a fascinating field of astronomical speculation. Is the universe finite or infinite? He argues that it must be finite, and that the blue sky is "the impregnable will of the sidereal city." At first this position appears absurd, and sounds very much like the metaphysics of the middle ages, but when it is understood that Mr. Ryan means only the sidereal universe, the system of stars constituting our Milky Way, of which our solar system is a component part, the doctrine becomes acceptable. Of course Mr. Ryan cannot prove that some of the nebulae and star-clusters may not be galaxies beyond the boundaries of our finite universe; and he does not attempt to question the infinite diffusion of matter. He makes no effort, moreover, as geometers and astronomers have done, to show that Euclid's twelfth axiom may be at fault, or that the three angles of a triangle may not be quite equal to two right angles—in which event (and the axiom has never been demonstrated) a straight line prolonged far enough would return to the point where it began, and space were conceivably limited in extent. But Mr. Ryan does not attempt this: for him the blue sky is the infinite reservoir of matter, awaiting the creative fiat to condense into nebulae, suns, planets. And so he still leaves us with the problem "Is the universe finite or infinite?"

HAGGARD'S NEW ROMANCE.

Ayesha. By H. Rider Haggard. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 359 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

It is very difficult to kill a popular hero or heroine of fiction. Conan Doyle tried to put Sherlock Holmes out of the way, but he climbed up out of the Reichenbach chasm to collect further royalties. When Rider Haggard took the gift of immortal youth from She-who-must-be-obeyed, and She shriveled up before our eyes like a mummified body that crumbles to dust, it looked as if "She" were done for. But Mr. Haggard coolly gets her reincarnated for the purposes of a new romance. Ayesha is She that was. Her new abode is Tibet, which Col. Younghusband has made more fashionable than the caves of Kor. Thither Leo Vincey and his friends journey to seek her among the glaciers and lamas. Two thousand years ago they had been lovers, and Cupid laughs at Father Time. After running along for some time like "Kim," translated into the melodramatic, the story drops into the old Haggard vein—full of mysteries, marvels, signs and wonders. Vincey and Ayesha see and love each other, and at last she yields to his ardent wooing. The climax is sufficiently startling, though not as gruesome and thrilling as in "She." The couple will probably reincarnate in Patagonia about 1909. By that time, readers will have recovered from the thrills and gasps superinduced by this weird romance.

THE MATUTINAL MEAL.

What to Have for Breakfast. By Olive Green. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. 283 pages. Price, 90 cents.

Besides hundreds of good recipes and valuable suggestions, this book contains much philosophy and fun on the subject of the matutinal meal. The Kitchen Rubaiyat are very amusing; the chapters on fruits, cereals, salt fish, breakfast meats, substitutes for meat, eggs, etc., are full of sage hints; and the 365 menus for every day in the year will be appreciated by housewives. It is a book both appetizing and satisfying.

SATIRE IN ALL AGES.

A Satire Anthology. Collected by Carolyn Wells. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 369 pages. Price, $1.25.

The definition of satire adopted by Miss Wells is apparently quite elastic, for it includes Shelley's "Ozymandias" and a poem from Punch. Every clime and every age are represented; there is Aristophanes from Hellas and Eugene Ware from Kansas. There are Horace and Harry B. Smith; Francois Villon walks arm in arm with Richard Watson Gilder, and William Shakespeare with Sam Walter Foss. The collection as a whole is less satisfactory than Miss Wells' nonsense and parody anthologies, perhaps because of the much greater field to be gleaned. It would have been better to exclude all foreigners than to include only Yriarte, Beranger, Rueckert and Claudius, not one of whom has done anything to entitle him to rank as a satirist. But where are Voltaire and Boileau; where, oh where, is Heinrich Heine; and among the English satirists, where is Bishop Hall, not to speak of modern worthies?

SISTER TO NANCY.

Concerning Belinda. By Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 193 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

The humorous side of boarding school life is exploited by the author of "Nancy" in delightful fashion. Belinda is a teacher, young and charming, who came out of the west to teach the pupils of the Misses Ryder "such sections and fragments of the English branches as might be introduced into their heads without resort to surgery." Of course the Misses Ryder are old maids of the prunes-and-prisms variety; between them and her pupils the career of Belinda Carewe is filled with dire contingencies and amusing extrications. From Amelia Bowers to Kitty Dayton, the girls are full of fun and pleasantness, fads and romantic notions, and while the book does not present the young person's point of view as deliciously as the "May Iverson" stories do, it overflows with jollity and good nature. Belinda is worthy to be Nancy's sister.

THE GOLDEN RULE MAYOR.

Letters of Labor and Love. By Samuel M. Jones. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Company. Pittsburgh: Kaufmann Brothers. 248 pages.

The Golden Rule Mayor of Toledo wrote these letters to the workmen in his machine shop, and they were enclosed in their weekly pay envelopes. They embody the rough-shod philosophy of life which endeared Jones to the common people and made him civic head of his community despite all political opposition. It may not be sound business philosophy, and it has a self-righteous ring to it, but Samuel Jones certainly made it pay him in every way. The student of labor problems, the advocate of the eight-hour day, the believers in profit-sharing, the apostles of Christian socialism will read these letters with great gusto. Others may smile at their erratic and visionary tenor, but all should remember that they are the utterances of a man who lived up to his best ideals. Brand Whitlock, the novelist, who succeeds Mr. Jones as mayor, contributes an introductory.

A ROUTINE ROMANCE.

The Flight of Georgiana. By Robert Neilson Stephens. Boston: L. C. Page & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 339 pages. Price, $1.50.

Mr. Stephens' new romance of Jacobite conspiracy is sprinkled with expletives like "damme" and "dod," and has all the other earmarks of its tribe. Georgiana is fair, the hero is brave; she is to be coerced into an unwelcome marriage by a man who holds an incriminating document over her guardian, and the hero is in constant peril by reason of his devotion to Bonnie Prince Charlie. Clashing swords and clattering hoofs are heard all through the story, with intervals of kissing and cooing. There is little novelty about the plot, and little distinction to the style. It all shows the facility of routine. Mr. Stephens has done and can do much better.

DIO LEWIS REDIVIVUS.

Nature Cure. By Wilhelmine H. Kuepper. Philadelphia: John C. Winston Company. 254 pages, illustrated. Price, $2.00.

Years ago Dr. Dio Lewis won fame and fortune with his Water Cure. The fundamental principle was that soda crackers, well masticated, and aqua pura, absorbed in enormous quantities, made a man healthy, wealthy and wise. Mrs. Kuepper has elaborated somewhat upon Dr. Lewis' regimen and expanded its therapeutic value. Washing, external and internal, is the principal curative measure prescribed for most disorders. There is much sense in the volume, as there is in most of the nature cures, but it must be taken with a grain of caution.

NATURAL HISTORY MARVELS.

The Romance of Insect Life. By Edmund Selous. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company. 352 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

No romance could be more astonishing and even thrilling than Mr. Selous' book. Ants, bees, wasps, spiders, locusts, glowworms and other minute creatures are his heroes, whose adventures and exploits rival the wonders of the Arabian Nights. He makes natural history as charming as a fairy tale and as interesting as a detective story.

GOMPERS' TEA SET IS "TAINTED"

Present to A. F. of L. President Does Not Bear Label of Jewelry Workers.

LAST DAY OF CONVENTION

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has a "tainted" tea set. The one presented him by the local committee in charge of the arrangements of the convention does not bear the union label of the jewelry workers. Neither do any of the numerous charm emblems presented by the committee to the vice presidents of the federation.

This information was brought out yesterday afternoon during the report of the committee on labels. George E. Brady, representing the Providence (R. I.) Central Trades and Labor union, in advocating the indorsement by the convention of the label of the jewelry workers, brought out the fact that Gompers' new tea set was "tainted." No one disputed his statement except that, in a half-hearted way, it was stated that it is almost impossible to buy union label shirts, collars, cuffs or wearing apparel of any kind. The old argument that jewelry is a luxury, was also brought up. One delegate asked President Gompers if a watch was a luxury or a necessity. Gompers replied:

Depends Upon Where You Are.

"That depends upon where you are. If you are in America it is a necessity. If in Zululand it is not."

The delegate insisted he was in America.

"Then it is a necessity," answered Gompers.

The label was approved.

During the day the convention also reaffirmed its position favoring woman's suffrage. A resolution was also adopted for a committee to investigate trade conditions in a number of schools in cities. Technical school graduates were touched upon during the discussion, and the resolution was amended to include their status with regard to organized labor. The convention also decided during the morning that a stogie maker is a cigar maker, and refused a charter for an international union of the stogie makers. Delegate Rosenberg illustrated his argument against the stogie makers by exhibiting a toby and what he said was a 15-cent cigar. There was no difference in appearance and, as both are made of tobacco, he argued that the stogie maker should join the union of his 15-cent brother. The charter was refused.

The convention remained in session continuously from 9 o'clock yesterday morning until 3 in the afternoon.

Election of Officers Today.

The election of officers is special business for 10 o'clock this morning. The law committee has a short report to make but it will be over by the hour set for the election of officers.

Concealed somewhere among the papers of the federation is believed to be the reply of the Western Federation of miners to the speech of President Gompers. It was sent by special delivery from Denver and should have reached here Thursday. Nothing has been said about it, and it may be forgotten. The delegates are anxious to get home, and after election of officers and selection of the next place of meeting, they will probably adjourn in a hurry and start for trains. In this rush some things will be left undone by the convention.

President John Mitchell of the Mine Workers, and Secretary Wilson yesterday denied a story sent out from this city that they had declared that the miners were preparing for a strike April 1.

Tomorrow the United Workers of the World will hold a meeting at Odd Fellows hall, Eighteenth and Sarah streets, South Side, when they will answer the charges that they are in the hire of capitalists to disrupt organized labor. E. R. Markley will preside and addresses will be made by others. The Workers challenge President O'Connell of the machinists, to debate the questions of issue between the two bodies.

COUNSEL FOR MADDEN.

East Brady Citizens Look After Townsman Accused of Murder.

Roscoe V. Madden, in jail on a charge of having caused the death of an unknown foreigner by kicking him from a street car, will be defended by Attorney Frank I. Gosser. Yesterday a delegation of East Brady citizens, where Madden was born and raised, engaged counsel for him. In the delegation was Edwin W. Dewey, president of the Allegheny River Improvement association. He called at the jail with Attorney Gosser and talked with Madden.

Although hundreds have called at the morgue to identify the unknown, there is not the slightest clue to his identity. The morgue attaches believe he belonged to the floating population living in the Woods Run district, and had no friends. The body will be kept for a few days longer. The inquest will begin next Tuesday.

DOES NOT WANT HIS WIFE.

Moncusco More Concerned About Razor and $35 in Cash.

Antonio Moncusco of Anandale, near Franklin, last night identified Joseph Petrie at Central station, as one of two men who robbed him of his wife and child, a razor, watch, and $35 in cash. Petrie was found at an express office yesterday by Detective Leff, who arrested him. Petrie being charged with larceny.

Moncusco says he is not concerned about the loss of his wife, but he would like to recover the child, razor, watch and money.

Are Married in Buffalo.

Attorney John E. McVey.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—John E. McVey, aged 47, of the well-known law firm of Arrel, McVey, Rowland & Harrington, died last night of acute gastritis. Mr. McVey was born near Lowellville, this county, and had been a resident of Youngstown since beginning the study of law in the office of Attorney R. B. Murray, being admitted to the bar 22 years ago. His first partnership was formed with the late Judge L. W. King, out of which firm sprung that of which he was a member at the time of his death. He was president of the Cleveland & New Castle Railway Company, which was planned in opposition to the Pittsburgh & Western. He secured the foreclosure of the mortgage on the old Pittsburgh & Western and engineered the purchase of the road for the Baltimore & Ohio interests. He had been attorney for and secretary of the Mahoning Valley Railway Company and was one of Murry Verner's chief advisers. For the latter he went to Russia, where he secured valuable railway franchises. He is given the credit for engineering the recent consolidation of the Youngstown & Sharon Street Railway Company and controlled lines, with the Mahoning Valley system, which merger represents $10,000,000. Surviving are his widow, who was Miss Lelia W. Hopkins of Sharpsville, Pa., and two children, Annabelle and John Hopkins. The funeral will be held Sunday.

O. T. Holloway Is Buried.

LISBON, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Funeral services over the remains of the late O. T. Holloway, superintendent of the Fifth division railway mail service, were conducted at Columbiana this afternoon by the Rev. Dr. J. M. Carr, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Columbiana, where Mr. Holloway spent most of his life. Salem commandery, Knights Templar, formed an escort to the grave. About 200 mail clerks from the four states of the Fifth division, were present. Among the prominent officials of the service in attendance was Alexander Grant, assistant general superintendent, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Annie Hamilton Boyd.

Mrs. Annie Hamilton Boyd, aged 65, widow of Adam Boyd, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. L. Rhea, in Hawley avenue, Bellevue. Mrs. Boyd was born in New Castle, Pa. She lived there for more than 30 years, when she removed to Allegheny with her husband. Mrs. Boyd had lived in Allegheny for 30 years and had lived with her daughter in Bellevue for the last four years. She was a member of the Avalon Presbyterian church, and is survived by three daughters—Mrs. J. A. Walter of Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. F. I. Euwer of Allegheny, and Mrs. M. L. Rhea of Bellevue.

Mrs. Mary Grier Rimer.

CLARION, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mary Rimer, aged 73, widow of Mayor D. A. Rimer, is dead at Rimersburg. Mrs. Rimer's maiden name was Patton. She is survived by these children: Dr. J. T. Rimer and Attorney H. M. Rimer of Clarion; Mrs. A. J. Patton and Mrs. Margaret Grubels of Rimersburg; David E. Rimer of Newport, Mrs. Elizabeth, wife of the Rev. Dr. A. Fleming of Brooklyn, and Dr. Edward Rimer of Bellevue hospital, New York.

Funeral of Mrs. S. C. T. Dodd.

FRANKLIN, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The funeral of Mrs. Melvina Dodd, wife of S. C. T. Dodd, former attorney and counselor for the Standard Oil Company, will be held in this city Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Dodd was a Presbyterian and was one of the most ardent supporters of the organization known as "The Little Mothers." Besides her husband, she leaves one son and one daughter.

Mrs. Henry A. Hostler.

Mrs. Kate Louisa Hostler, aged 39, wife of Henry A. Hostler, died yesterday from consumption at her home in Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg. She was born in the Isle of Wight, England, and came to this country with her husband 10 years ago. She was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church. Her husband and one son survive.

John Knierien.

John Knierien, aged 60, died yesterday at the Pittsburgh hospital after a short illness. He had been caretaker at the residence of M. O. Woodworth at Fifth and Aiken avenues. He was born in Germany and had been in this country many years. So far as is known he had no relatives.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. Leah Steiner Bair, aged 74, wife of Philip S. Bair, died yesterday at her home at Carbon, Pa., of congestion of the lungs. She is survived by her husband and the following children: H. J. Bair, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Amos Bierer, Adena, O.; W. T. S. Bair, Mercer; the Rev. John F. Bair, Mrs. James C. Wentsell and D. W. Bair, Greensburg.

WINDSTORM RAGES IN PITTSBURGH STREETS

Pittsburgh was visited by a severe windstorm yesterday. At 1 p. m. the wind had reached a velocity of 42 miles an hour, but to those who happened to be on the street it appeared to be about 60 miles an hour. Persons who have seen the antics caused by the wind at the famous Flatiron building in New York were reminded of them by the scenes which took place at the Farmers bank building, at Wood street and Fifth avenue, and at the Park building, at Smithfield street and Fifth avenue. The wind seemed doubly strong at these two points, hats were scattered about the streets in all directions and walking was a hard task for women.

The temperature for Pittsburgh and vicinity was also peculiar during the day. The coldest time from Thursday midnight was at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when the thermometer showed 38 degrees. At 11 a. m. a temperature of 68 degrees was reached. It dropped then until 1 p. m., when it started to rise again, until last evening, just previous to the rainfall, a temperature of 58 degrees had again been reached.

The wind here was probably caused by a storm which is raging on the great lakes. At Buffalo the wind reached a velocity of 56 miles an hour, and the highest speed at Cleveland was 46 miles. Throughout the west it was generally clear during the day, with the exception of Marquette and Devils Lake, where snowstorms occurred. The coldest point in the United States was at St. Paul, where a temperature of 24 degress was reached. New Orleans had a temperature of 70 during the day. No severe cold weather is anticipated by the local weather bureau for several days.

Will Collect $100 Subscriptions.

The board of managers of the Braddock General hospital has called for subscriptions of $100 to the hospital fund. Already there have been eight responses. It is the intention to secure 100 such contributions. The committee in charge of subscriptions consists of Lea A. Katz, George W. Kutscher, George Moore and George Hogg. At a meeting yesterday the board appointed Dr. James A. Miller, Leo A. Katz and George Moore a building committee to look after repairs on the hospital property.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

The following marriage licenses were issued yesterday:

Ernest Strasburg, Ellen Ryan, Pittsburg.
J. Howard Wood, Hattie C. N. Kelly, Allegheny.
William H. Hostetter, Lillian T. Rhea, Wilmerding.
Haven Chappell, Louise Ederm, Oakdale.
Matthew W. Jackson, Maria Young, McKeesport.

Salt Water Baths.
Visit Canada's health resort during the long winter and prolong your lease of life by bathing in the healing waters of the "St. Catharines Well," a clear, sparkling, mineral saline spring, considerably denser than sea water. As a tonic for tired humanity it is invaluable, and as a cure for rheumatic and nervous trobles or in skin diseases it is well known. Consult any good standard medical work on therapeutics for its analysis. Why undertake a long, trying journey when this Mecca for health-seekers is at your door, on the main line of the Grand Trunk railway system. Write G. T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk railway system, Montreal, for full particulars.

MANY ARE POISONED AT HOSPITAL SUPPER

Chicken Served by Women's Aid Society Causes Illness in Beaver Valley.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROCHESTER, PA., Nov. 24—Chicken served at a supper given by the Women's Aid association of the Beaver Valley General hospital last night at Junction park pavilion, caused the illness of 12 families in Rochester, including one physician, three ministers and nearly 500 other persons in the valley towns of New Brighton, Monaca, Beaver and Beaver Falls today. Physicians' offices were receiving an unusual number of patients all day.

Members of the Women's Aid association contributed eatables, many sending cooked chicken. There were receiving stations at different places in each town and nearly all of the chickens were placed together in large galvanized iron cans and taken to the park pavilion. It is thought that the acid used in soldering the cans poisoned the chickens which caused the illness among those who ate chicken last night.

The supper and bazar was attended by about 600 people. Several hundred dollars were added to the fund to be used in the building of a general hospital here.

SENTENCES THE FAMILY.

Benjamin Hodgson, Sr., Is Sent to Jail, While His Two Sons Get Terms in Penitentiary.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Benjamin Hodgson, Sr., and his two sons, Benjamin Hodgson, Jr., and William Hodgson, all of Washington, were this afternoon convicted of serious crimes. The elder Hodgson was sentenced nine months to jail, and fined $100. Benjamin Hodgson, Jr., was fined $25 and sent to the penitentiary for 10 years on one charge and eight years on another. The two sentences run concurrently. The other son was sentenced to two concurrent terms of eight years in the penitentiary.

The conviction followed a revolting trial. The victim of the three was 15-year-old Mary Jones, a niece of the elder Hodgson. After the arrest of the three men several months ago, they were released under bail, but the employes of the McClure tin mills refused to work with them and later they were remanded to jail without bail.

Two Automobilists Are Killed.

CANTON, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Two lives were crushed out by an electric car on the Canton & Akron lines this afternoon. John V. Everhart of Akron, and S. Fred Baskerville, a dealer in automobiles, were riding along a country road a few miles north of Canton and drove on the car tracks without seeing an approaching car. The spout of an oil can carried on the auto was forced through Everhart's brain, killing him instantly. Baskerville lived but a short time. Both were married.

To Locate Company at Greensburg.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Capt. John S. Groome of Harrisburg and Capt. John W. Borland of Grove City, today definitely decided to locate a company of the state constabulary in Greensburg. Two sites for barracks are under consideration: Mt. Odin park, the home of the late Dr. Frank Cowan, and a large livery barn. The force will patrol a radius of about 30 miles.

Perjury Case Dismissed.

WASHINGHTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The perjury case against Louis Zeit, Sr., a leading business man, was dismissed today by Judge Reppert of Fayette county, who declared that the commonwealth had failed to make a case sufficient. Zeit had been arrested following the primaries last February by the Taxpayers' league, on a charge that he had sworn falsely to the age of his son.

Girl Faces Court Without Blush.

COSHOCTON, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Lina Rine, aged 15, was bound over to probate court by Mayor Rinner today and will probably be sent to the reform farm. She dashed a dipper of scalding water into her mother's face to "scald her eyes out," as she unblushingly explained to the court. Her mother had corrected her. The mother's sight is probably destroyed.

Rope Rider Has Peculiar Mishap.

LATROBE, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—George Bennett met with a horrible accident at Crabtree yesterday. He is a rope rider, and in some manner was thrown from the trip. The rope wound around his neck, almost strangling him. The cars were thrown from the track and one struck him. His nose was smashed and all his teeth were knocked out. His condition is critical.

Young Woman Is Hurt in Runaway.

WEST NEWTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Miss Anna Kearns is lying perhaps fatally injured at her home near West Newton as the result of a runaway accident yesterday. She was thrown from a spring wagon and her clothing became entangled in the wheels. She was dragged 50 yards. Her jaw and two ribs were fractured and she sustained serious cuts and bruises.

SUGGESTS THAT TRUST OWN ALL FREIGHT CARS

T. S. Kirk's Proposition Meets With Opposition by Railway Club—Prall on Transportation Problem.

An immense car trust or pool, to own all of the freight cars of the country and to have a clearing house, with the consequent elimination of the necessity of returning empty cars to the road owning them, was the rather startling suggestion made last night at the November meeting of the Railway Club of Pittsburgh, held at the Monongahela house. The suggestion was made during a discussion of the transportation problem by T. S. Kirk, manager of the shipbuilding department of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company. W. H. Prall, commissioner of the Pittsburgh Car Service association, who presented the paper of the evening, entitled, "In Relation to the Transportation Problem," at once took exception to Mr. Kirk's suggestion, saying such a project would be too enormous to be considered for a moment.

There were a number of railroad men present from out-of-town to hear the paper by Mr. Prall, who is considered an authority on car service and everything pertaining to it. There were 27 new members elected, bringing the total enrollment up to 659. After the business session, the members and guests enjoyed a social hour, with luncheon served in the lecture room.

Mr. Prall dealt with the transportation problem from the side of the shipper and of the railroad. He said that these two must always work in harmony, one assisting the other, or the result would be fatal, as has been so often exemplified. Either one going wrong can easily "queer the game."

Among others who discussed the problem were General Agent W. A. Terry of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, D. E. Hurd, president of the Traffic Club of Pittsburgh, and general agent of the Lake Shore; Traveling Master Mechanic M. E. Wells of the Wabash, and Superintendent of Motive Power L. H. Turner of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.

INGRAM DONATES A SITE FOR A BOROUGH BUILDING

Thomas Ingram, whose father was the founder of Ingram, has presented the borough with a lot 100x100 feet at the corner of Sterling and Wheeling avenues for the erection of a municipal building. He also donated $1,000 in cash to be used toward defraying the expense of erecting the building. At a recent meeting of council these gifts were accepted.

WOMAN WHO INTERFERED WITH TEACHER WORSTED IN CONTEST

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

IRWIN, PA., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Michael McKay today caused the arrest of Prof. Morris Stier, principal of the Larimer public school, charging assault and battery. According to the woman's story she was pushed out of the building by the teacher and fell and was seriously injured.

Her boy had been kept in school at noon, and when she went to learn the reason she alleges the assault took place. As soon as McKay heard of it he and several men and women pursued the teacher, who, after seeking refuge in a store near the station, boarded a train for Irwin.

Prof. Stier gave bail for his appearance for a hearing next Wednesday evening before Justice Howell of Irwin.

CHOKE, STAB, SHOOT AND ROB YOUNG MAN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 24.—While on his way to Connellsville to attend a religious meeting last evening, Harry Joy, aged 18, of Connellsville township, was pounced upon by three highwaymen, choked, stabbed, shot and robbed. After fighting bravely the boy fainted.

When he regained consciousness he was lying on a grave in Hill Grove cemetery. All the money he had in his pockets, 50 cents, was gone. Joy came immediately to the police station, but the officers could not find the highwaymen.

The bullet holes and a rent in his coat proved his story of the holdup. The wounds are not of a serious nature.

FIRE IN CHILDREN'S HOME THREATENS DESTRUCTION

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 24.—The destruction of the Westmoreland county Children's home was threatened by fire this evening. Just after the 54 little inmates had gone upstairs to bed flames were discovered in the large playroom on the first floor. So quickly did the fire spread that before the arrival of the hose companies the entire end of the long two story building was ablaze. The nurses and attaches of the Westmoreland hospital were the first to arrive at the burning building and their efforts were successfully directed toward saving the children. The loss will be at least $2,500. The home is uninhabitable for the present and the children will be dependent on charity of Greensburg families for a week.

Dr. H. L. McMurray, resident physician at the hospital, was overcome in fighting his way through the smoke in the boys' dormitory, but revived later.

NEWS FROM NEARBY TOWNS.

CONNELLSVILLE—Altha Walters, aged 20, of Dunbar, died at the Cottage State hospital of injuries received while at work.

GAS EXPLODES AND INJURES TWO PEOPLE

Pearson Flats Are Badly Damaged by Fire and Force of Concussion.

Gas leaking into a vacant storeroom in the Pearson flats, Junilla and Halkett streets, exploded last evening, wrecking the storeroom and injuring two persons. The injured are:

MRS. HELEN GRINDLE, aged 22, of 22 Junilla street, burned about the head, face and hands.

The flats are three-story buildings, the first floor being occupied by storerooms. About a dozen families occupy the buildings. The storeroom at 22 Junilla street has been vacant for some time. All day yesterday the occupants of the flats smelled gas and notified the company.

At supper time Mrs. Grindle, who occupies the flat above the vacant room, was cooking the evening meal when the explosion occurred underneath. She ran for the street and was compelled to rush through a mass of flame. The entire front of the storeroom was blown out. Miller, who was passing the building, was cut by the flying glass. An alarm of fire was sent in, but the blaze had almost burned out when the department arrived. Then a second explosion occurred, which caused the firemen three hours' hard work. Employes of the gas company finally located the leak and stopped it. The building is damaged to the extent of $2,500.

New Pittsburgh Coffee Company.

A charter was issued at Charleston, W. Va., yesterday, to the United States Coffee Company, its principal office and chief works to be in Pittsburgh. The capital stock is $150,000. The incorporators are H. Fred Mercer, Reuben Mercer, William A. Crawford, Anna E. Mercer and Luther W. Mendenhall, all of Pittsburgh.

Alleged Thieves Go to Jail.

Walter Moore and William Mullery were sent to jail to await court trial yesterday by Magistrate Abernathey of Allegheny. They were charged by Acting Superintendent John Glenn with the larceny of some clothes. Fred Carroll of 804 Arch street, testified that the two had robbed several boarders in the Arch street house.

STATE COLLEGE OBSERVES "PENNSYLVANIA DAY"

Big Crowd of Visitors Attend the Celebration and Witness a Football Game.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BELLEFONTE, PA., Nov. 24.—More than 300 visitors witnessed the "Pennsylvania day" exercises at State College today. The only meeting was held in the auditorium this morning, when Dr. Atherton presided. Addresses were made by J. M. Huston, the state capitol architect of Philadelphia, and J. Horace McFarland, superintendent of the Mt. Pleasant Printery. Mr. Huston spoke on Pennsylvania in evolution and Mr. McFarland talked on Pennsylvania's relation to the art of printing. Dr. Atherton read letters of regret from Gov. Pennypacker, Andrew Carnegie and Charles M. Schwab, all of whom attended the Pennsylvania day celebration last year.

At noon a luncheon was served for the visitors at McAllister hall. This afternoon at 2 o'clock Maj. Gen. Charles Miller of Franklin reviewed the cadet battalion. Following the review the large crowd cheered State on to victory in her football game with the University of West Virginia.

Scores of Cattle Are Killed.

MEADVILLE, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—A costly freight wreck occurred on the Erie railroad at Saegertown this evening, when the Buffalo express, eastbond, was thrown from the track by spreading rails. Twelve cars filled with cattle, four cars loaded with automobiles and two cars filled with merchandise were smashed. Most of the cattle were either killed or fatally maimed. It will take until morning to clear the tracks. No trainmen were injured.

Fire Destroys Big Plant.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 24.—Fire early today practically destroyed the big plant of the T. H. Brooks Foundry Company, manufacturers of structural iron. The loss is estimated at $100,000. The plant of the Otis Steel Company, across the street from the Brooks buildings, caught fire and for a time was threatened with destruction. The flames were checked after causing a loss of $10,000.

Bank Robbers Fail at Job.

LIMA, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Another attempt at bank robbery occurred at Mendon early this morning, but the explosion failed to perform its work. The safe was so damaged as to make it impossible to get the doors open. The thieves stole two rigs and escaped.

Hunting a Missing Hunter.

CUMBERLAND, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Almost 100 men and boys are scouring the mountains at Ray Cove, in Bedford county, Pa., in search of Glen Ritchey, son of George Ritchey, who started on a hunting trip two weeks ago, and has not been seen since.

Raid on Slot Machines.

GREENVILLE, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The police raided 10 houses last night where slot machines were operated. Over 30 machines were found, and the proprietors were warned against operating them in the future.

WEDDINGS IN NEARBY TOWNS.

IRWIN—Mary T. J. Cothery and Charles Swanson were married at the Presbyterian manse by the Rev. J. A. Eby.

GREENSBURG—Miss Ellen H. Woodward and Wiley T. Wertz, secretary of the Monongahela Y. M. C. A., were married at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. Justus H. Pershing, D. D.

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY IN DOWNTOWN STREET

Young Man Is Knocked Down and Relieved of Valuable Watch and Money.

A young man who gave the name of Mackin, living in the East End, was assaulted and robbed of his watch and chain, valued at $150, and $45 in money at Hog and Cherry alleys, shortly after 7 o'clock last night. The assault was committed when the streets were well filled with people, in a section of the city that is traveled at all hours. The police have a description of the robber but have not made an arrest.

After the assault Mackin wandered to Grant street, where he was found by Policeman Larry Glenn. Mackin was dazed from a blow on the head and his clothes were covered with mud. He was able to give a good account of the assault. He said himself and a stranger started through Cherry alley and when at the intersection of Hog alley, the stranger struck him with some blunt instrument, knocking him down and rendering him partially unconscious. Mackin says his assailant was almost six feet tall, well dressed in dark clothes, and did not wear an overcoat.

TAKAHIRA TO LEAVE.

Intimated That Japanese Minister Will Be Relieved of Post at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The following statement was made tonight at the Japanese legation: "Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, expecting to leave for Japan early in December, and to be absent from Washington for the coming season, will give a small stag party on the evening of December 7, to say goodby to his friends. It is possible that he may return here next spring, but it is not at all certain that he will do so."

Capt. Brown Is Very Ill.

While it is admitted that Capt. Samuel S. Brown is a very sick man, it was stated from his residence on Squirrel Hill late last night that he had passed a comfortable day and was somewhat improved. The report that he went out driving yesterday afternoon was denied. He is able to take nourishment, but is not considered to be past the danger point.

Fast Mail Train Crashes Into Wreck of Freights and Five People Are Injured.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, Nov. 24.—One trainman was killed and five others injured in a wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad at Thompsontown today. The wreck was caused by a rear-end collision between two freight trains going west. The mail train leaving Harrisburg at 4:40 a. m. ran into the wreckage blocking four tracks and delaying traffic several hours.

E. G. Huntzberger of Harrisburg, a freight brakeman who had just been promoted to flagman, was killed in the collision. The injured are: William E. Moore and E. D. Dunn of Altoona, engineer and firemen of the freight train; David Johnson of Harrisburg, engineer of the mail train; G. W. Baker of Harrisburg, conductor of one of the freight trains, and Clarence Edmond, a Pullman porter. None is seriously injured.

All the coaches of the mail train were wrecked, but no damage was done to the mail. The wreck between the two freight trains is believed to have been caused by the failure of the engineer of one train to see the rear end of the other on account of the heavy fog.

Complete Telephone Link.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The last link in the long distance lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company from Pittsburgh to Grafton, W. Va., a distance of about 109 miles, has been completed. The line follows county roads all through Fayette county, coming from Pittsburgh by way of Perropolis. The local result of this line is that the Bell company in Fayette county gets privileges over the long distance poles.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Knowledge has been the stepping-stone to success of all great men. Opportunities for the advancement of young men are now as promising as ever before. Brains are in demand the world over. The struggling young men of today are bound to become the merchant princes and statesmen of the future. They must, however, apply themselves to learning, and then proceed strenuously along some definite lines of action.

The young man who wants to succeed should equip himself with the BEST reference work of the English language. For this purpose he should secure the New International Encyclopaedia. In the absence of collegiate education the "New International Encyclopaedia" will meet all shortcomings. It contains all subjects of human inquiry—in fact every idea and topic that has crossed the range of the mind of man from the beginning to the present period of time.

The Encyclopaedia Which the Bright People of Pittsburgh Are Now Buying.

The New International Encyclopaedia Pre-eminently the Best Reference Work.

It is the only Encyclopaedia that is written from the viewpoint of today—complete in 21 volumes of over 16,000 pages with 1,000 full-page illustrations and maps. Published by MAPE, DODDS, MEAD & CO., America's Oldest Publishers, who for generations have issued works of this nature, and edited by Daniel Coit Gilman, President Emeritus, Johns Hopkins University and President Carnegie Institute at Washington, D. C. (1901-1904), assisted by over four hundred of America's ablest scholars. The records of the publishers and the eminent standing of the Editor-in-Chief and his associates give positive assurance that the "NEW INTERNATIONAL" is the only Encyclopaedia worth having.

Leading Educators, Jurists, Doctors and Ministers from all over the land have indorsed it as the best and most accurate reference work issued.

TO THE YOUNG MAN WE SAY: DO IT NOW.

Lift yourself out of the rut. Begin doing something for yourself. We repeat—read, learn and reflect. Send us your name and address and we will advise you how to proceed toward improving your condition—toward pointing out a successful career and toward attaining for yourself the rewards of life that properly belong to you.

THE PHANTOM TORPEDO BOAT

By "A. V."

Copyright, 1905, by the Pearson Publishing Co.

I suspected that Lord Bedale was either sounding me, or else that he had not been taken into the full confidence of those for whom he was acting.

I responded evasively:

"There are two personages in Europe, neither of whom will leave one stone unturned in the effort to involve you in war with Russia."

"And they are?"

Even as he put the question, Lord Bedale, as though acting unconsciously, raised one hand to his mustache, and gave it a pronounced upward twirl.

"I see your lordship knows one of them," I remarked. "The other—"

He bent forward eagerly.

"Yes? The other?"

"The other is a woman."

"A woman?"

He fell back in his chair in sheer surprise.

"The other," I repeated in my most serious tone, "is a woman, perhaps the most formidable woman now living, not even excepting the dowager empress of China."

"And her name?"

"Her name would tell you nothing."

"Still—"

"If you really wish to hear it—"

"I more than wish. I urge you."

"Her name is the Princess Y——."

Scarcely had the name of this dangerous and desperate woman passed my lips than I regretted having uttered it.

Had I foreseen the perils to which I exposed myself by that single slip I might have hesitated in going on with my enterprise.

As it was I determined to tell the marquis of Bedale nothing more.

"This business is too urgent to admit of a moment's unnecessary delay," I declared, rising to my feet. "If your lordship has no further instructions to give me, I will leave you."

"One instant!" cried Lord Bedale. "On arriving in Petersburg you will go straight to report yourself to her majesty the Empress Dagmar."

I bowed my head to conceal the expression which might have told his lordship that I intended to do nothing of the kind.

"Your credentials," he added with a touch of theatricality, "will consist of a single word."

"And that word?" I inquired.

He handed me a sealed envelope.

"I do not myself know it. It is written on a piece of paper inside that envelope, and I have to ask you to open the envelope, read the word, and then destroy the paper in my presence."

I shrugged my shoulders as I proceeded to break the seal. But no sooner did my eyes fall on the word within, and above all on the handwriting in which that word was written, than I experienced a sensation of admiring pleasure.

"Tell the writer, if you please, my lord, that I am grateful for this mark of confidence, which I shall endeavor to deserve."

The Princess Y—'s Hint.

I never use the same stratagem more than once. It is to this rule that I attribute my success.

On previous missions to Russia I had assumed the disguises of a French banker of the private secretary to Prince Napoleon, of an emissary from an Indian maharaja, and of an Abyssinian maduga.

I now decided to go thither as an Englishman, or rather—for there is a distinction between the two—as a Little Englander.

It appeared to me that no character could be more calculated to gain me the confidence of the Anglophobes of the Russian court. I anticipated that they would smother me with attentions, and that from their hypocritical professions I should stand a good chance of learning what was actually in their minds.

No sooner had I taken this decision, which was while the brougham was being driven along the Mall, than I gave the order "—— house."

I was driven to the office of a well-known review conducted by a journalist of boundless philanthropy and credulity. Mr. Place—as I will call him—was within, and I at once came to business.

"I am a Peace Crusader," I announced. "I have devoted myself to the sacred cause of which you are the foremost champion. At present war is threatened in the far east. I am going to Russia to persuade the war party to abandon their designs. I have come here to ask you for your aid and countenance in this pious enterprise."

The editor gave me a doubtful glance.

"If it is a question of financial aid," he said not very encouragingly, "I must refer you to the treasurer of the World's Peace league. I am afraid our friends—"

"No, no," I interrupted him. "It is not a question of funds. I am a wealthy man, and if you need a subscription at any time you have only to apply to me. What I desire is your moral support, your valuable advice, and perhaps a few introductions to the friends of peace in the Russian capital."

The editor's face brightened.

"Of course!" he exclaimed in cordial tones. "I will support you with all my heart. I will write up your mission in the Review, and I will give you as many introductions as you need. What is your name, again?"

"Sterling. Mr. Melchisadek Sterling."

The philanthropist nodded and touched a bell on his table.

"I will give you a letter," he said, as his secretary came in and seated herself at the typewriter, "to the noblest creature I have ever met, a woman of high birth and immense fortune who has devoted herself to the cause."

And turning 'round in his chair he dictated to the attentive secretary:

"My dear Princess Y——"

It needed all that command over my features which it has taken me 20 years to acquire to conceal the emotion with which I heard this name. Less than half an hour had passed since I had warned Lord Bedale that the princess would be the most formidable enemy in my path, and now, on the very threshold of my enterprise, her name confronted me like an omen.

I need not repeat the highly colored phrases in which the unsuspecting philanthropist commended me to this artful and formidable woman as a fellow-worker in the holy cause of human brotherhood.

No content with this service, the editor wanted to arrange a meeting of his league or brotherhood, or whatever it was, to give me a public send-off. As I understood that the meeting would partake of a religious character I would not bring myself to accept the offer.

In addition to the letter to the princess Y——, he gave me another to a member of the staff of the Russian embassy in London, a M. Gudonov. He also urged me to call upon a member of parliament, a rising politician who is not unlikely to have a ministerial post in the next government, and who has made himself known as an apologist of the czar's. But as I had good reason to know that this gentleman was by no means a disinterested dupe, like Mr. Place, I prudently left him alone.

On going to the Russian embassy to have my passport vised I inquired for Mr. Gudonov.

The moment he entered the room I recognized him as one of the most unscrupulous of the notorious Third Section, one of the gang who drugged and kidnaped poor Alexander of Bulgaria. My own disguise, it is hardly necessary to say, was impenetrable.

This precious apostle of peace greeted me with unction on the editor's introduction.

"You are going to our country on a truly noble errand," he declared, with tears in his eyes. "We Russians have reason to feel grateful to worthy Englishmen like you, who can rise above national prejudices and do justice to the benevolent designs of the czar and his advisers."

"I hope that I may be instrumental in averting a great catastrophe," I said piously.

"Even if you fail in preventing war," the Russian replied, "you will be able to tell your countrymen when you return, that it was due to the insane ambition of the heathen Japanese. It is the 'Yellow Peril,' my friend, to which that good Emperor William has drawn attention, from which we are trying to save Europe."

I nodded my head as if well satisfied.

"Whatever you and your friends in Petersburg tell me, I shall believe," I assured him. "I am convinced of the good intention of your government."

The Russian fairly grinned at this simplicity.

"You cannot find a more trustworthy informant than the Princess Y——," he said gravely. "And just now she is in a position to know a very great deal."

"How so?" I asked naturally—not that I doubted the statement.

This was a serious blow. Knowing what I did of the past of Princess Y——, I felt that no ordinary pressure must have been brought to bear to secure her admission into the household of the czaritza. And with what motive? It was a question to which there could be only one answer. The war party had guessed or suspected that the czar's mother was opposed to them, and they had resolved to place a spy on her actions.

Inwardly thankful to Mr. Place for having been the means of procuring me this important information in advance, I received my passport and quitted the embassy with the heartfelt congratulations of the ex-kidnaper.

Forty-eight hours later I had crossed the Russian frontier, and my life was in the hands of the princess.

My first step on arriving in the capital of the north was to put up at the favorite hotel of English visitors. The coupons of a celebrated tourist agency were credentials in themselves, and I had not forgotten to provide myself with the three articles indispensable to the outfit of every traveling Briton—a guide book, a prayer book, and a bath sponge.

At the risk of incurring the suspicions of the police agent stationed in the hotel, I mingled some hot water in the bath which I took on the first morning after my arrival. Then, having made my toilet and eaten the heavy breakfast provided for English visitors, I set out, suffering sadly from indigestion, to present my letter of introduction to the princess.

As this woman, the most brilliant recruit ever received into the Russian secret service, and a foe of whom I am not ashamed to confess that I felt some fear, has never been heard of by the public of Great Britain, I shall say a word concerning her.

The princess, whose Christian name was Sophia, was the daughter of a boyar of Little Russia. Her extraordinary beauty, while she was still a very young girl, attracted the attention of the governor of the province, Prince Y——, who was one of the wealthiest nobles in the empire, and a widower. He made proposals for her hand, which were accepted by her father, without the girl herself being asked to express an opinion in the matter, and at the age when an English girl would be leaving home for a convent or "high-school," Sophia became the governor's wife.

Almost immediately the prince resigned his government and went to live in his splendid palace on the Nevsky prospect, in Petersburg. Before very long, society in the Russian capital was startled to hear of the sudden deaths in rapid succession of both the prince's children by his former wife, a son and a daughter. Then, after a brief interval, followed the tragic death of the prince himself, who was found in bed one morning by his valet, with his throat cut.

The almost satanic beauty and fascination of the youthful princess had made her from the very first one of the most conspicuous personages at the imperial court. These three deaths, following on the heels of one another, roused the most dreadful suspicions, and the Czar Alexander III. personally charged his minister of justice to see that the law was carried out.

Accordingly the police took possession of the palace while the corpse of its late owner still lay where it had been found. The most searching investigations were made, the servants were questioned and threatened, and it was rumored that the widow herself was for a short time under arrest.

Suddenly a great change took place. The police withdrew, professing themselves satisfied that no crime had been committed. The deaths of the son and daughter were put down to natural causes, and that of the prince was pronounced a suicide, due to grief at the loss of his children. Some of the servants disappeared—it was said into Siberia—and in due course the princess resumed her place in society and at court, as though nothing were amiss.

Nevertheless, from that hour, as I have every reason to know, her life was really that of a slave to the head of the secret police. She appeared to go about unfettered, and to revel in the enjoyment of every luxury; but her time, her actions, and the vast wealth bequeathed to her by her husband, were all at the disposal of her tyrant.

Time after time, in half the capitals of Europe, but more especially, of course, in that of Russia, I had come on traces of this terrible woman, not less terrible if it were true that she was herself the most miserable victim of the system of which she formed a part.

But sincerely enough, though I had heard so much of the princess, I had never actually found myself pitted against her. And, more singularly still, I had never met her.

From this it will be gathered that I experienced a sensation of more than ordinary curiosity and even apprehension as I presented myself at the house in the Nevsky prospect, and asked to be admitted to the presence of its mistress.

"Her highness is on duty at the palace today," I was told by the chamberlain who received me in the inner hall. "Her carriage is just ordered to take her there. However, I will take up your letter, and inquire when her highness can see you."

I sat down in the hall, outwardly a calm, stolid Briton, but inwardly a wrestler, wound up to the highest pitch of excitement and impatient for the sight of his antagonist.

To pass the time suitably, I took my guide-book out of my pocket and began to read. The book opened at Herr Baedaker's description of the gloomy fortress of the Schlusselburg, the dreaded prison of the foes of the czar.

The description did not tend to soothe my nerves, conscious as I was that the woman I was about to meet could consign me to the most noisome dungeon in the fortress by merely lifting her little finger.

I was just closing the book with an involuntary shudder when I heard a light, almost girlish, laugh from above. I looked ghastly, and saw the woman I had come to measure myself against standing poised like a bird on the top of the grand staircase.

As I rose hurriedly to my feet, taking in every detail of her superb, yet delicate figure, her complexion like a blush-rose, her lustrous eyes—they were dark violet on a closer view—and the cloud of rippling gold that framed her brow, I was moved, yes, positively carried away for a moment, by a sentiment such as few women have been able to inspire in me.

Perceiving, no doubt, that she had produced the desired impression, the princess ran lightly down the stairs and came toward me holding out two tiny hands, the fingers of which were literally gloved in diamonds.

"My friend! My noble Englishman!" she exclaimed in the purest French. "And since when have you known that dear Monsieur Place?"

I checked myself on the point of replying, pretended to falter, and then muttered in the worst French I could devise on the spur of the moment:

"Parlez-vous Anglais, s'il vous plait, Madame?"

The princess shook her head reproachfully.

"You speak French too well not to understand it, I suspect," she retorted in the same language. Then dropping it for English, marred only by a slight Slavonic accent, she repeated:

"But tell me,—dear Mr. Place, he is a great friend of yours, I suppose?"

"I can hardly claim the honor of his personal friendship," I replied, rather lamely. "But I have always known and admired him as a public man."

MULTITUDE IS EXPECTED AT GAME

TOWN DECORATED GAILY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Boston and Cambridge tonight were tossing with impatience on the eve of the annual football battle between Harvard and Yale. It has been many years since interest in a game between the two universities has reached the pitch manifested tonight, and those who have followed Harvard and Yale through 30 years of football returns feel that conditions seldom have been better for a great exhibition.

The agitation over football as played at present, led by President Roosevelt and President Eliot of Harvard, as well as the possibility that the game may be prohibited at Harvard, Yale's unbroken record of victories this year, the forced withdrawal of Capt. Hurley of the Harvard team a few days before the game and the consequent determination of the team to fight all the harder out of regard for their leader, contributed to produce a situation not previously known in games here.

The sentiment seemed to be general among followers of the sport that much depended on the character of tomorrow's play, and among the student body at Harvard almost as much anxiety on this point was shown as on the final result.

The night before the game found Harvard hopeful and Yale confident, while Yale tonight was a strong favorite among the multitude which expected to witness tomorrow's play. The game tomorrow afternoon will be played in the stadium. By the construction of temporary stands, seating accommodations have been provided for 43,000 spectators, a crowd which, it is believed, has never been equaled at an athletic contest in this country.

Concerts by Glee Clubs.

The vanguard of spectators, composed mostly of the graduates of the two universities, reached Boston today, and all found amusement of some character. At Symphony hall there was a joint concert by the Harvard and Yale Glee clubs, which proved to be the principal feature of the evening. The hall was fairly jammed with cheering collegians, and it was late before the assembly broke up. The theaters were all crowded and there was scarcely a club that did not entertain lavishly. The most important function of this kind was at the University club on Beacon street, which kept open practically all night to accommodate arrivals.

The visitors found both Boston and Cambridge in gala array for the sport. Nearly every window on the principal streets was brilliantly decorated in crimson and blue.

In Cambridge every car arriving at Harvard square during the evening deposited Harvard graduates, who sought the clubs and chapter houses of their societies. There was a large gathering at the Harvard Union. Harvard square was one great flush of crimson decorations.

Both teams spent the night at some little distance from the scene of the struggle. The Harvard players remained at Marblehead on the North shore.

Both Teams Resting.

The Yale players, after an eventful day, which included a light signal practice and a long automobile trip, kept near their quarters at the Woodland Park hotel at Auburndale. Many of the older Yale coaches visited the hotel during the evening, and there was a short entertainment calculated to afford relaxation to the nerves of the players. The hotel, however, was very quiet after 10:30 o'clock.

The Harvard team was given a boat trip in Marblehead harbor and a stroll in the woods, and later in the day were sent through signals on one of the school grounds at Marblehead.

The two teams will arrive on Soldiers' field about 1 o'clock tomorrow. The probable lineup of the teams is as follows:

Mathew McClung of Lehigh will act as referee; Paul Dashiel of Annapolis as umpire, and Dr. A. E. Whiting of Cornell as head linesman. The game will begin at 2 o'clock and the usual 35-minute halves will be played.

"Capt. Hurley has had a comfortable day and his condition and symptoms remain unchanged since this morning. There are no urgent symptoms."

M'CRACKEN IS STAR.

Plays Great Game for Trinity Hall Against Allegheny High School.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Allegheny High school eleven was beaten by the Trinity Hall school team this afternoon, 44 to 0. The playing of Alex. McCracken of Trinity Hall was the bright feature. He carried the ball for long runs and frequently plunged into the line for big gains, sometimes having three and four players hanging on to him. The lineup:

Trinity Hall—44.		Allegheny H. S.—0.
Simpson	L.E.	Brown (Shmuker)
Young	L.T.	Moore
Sanders	L.G.	Aughenbauda
Wagner	C.	B. Young
Montgomery	R.G.	Harter (Fink)
Lenhart	R.T.	Campbell
Thompson	R.E.	Heid (Burns)
Sutter	Q.B.	Rosenberg
McCracken	L.H.	Boyd (Grays)
Jewell	R.H.	Buka
Brush	F.B.	McDonald

Homestead an Easy Winner.

The Homestead basketball team defeated the Olympics of McKeesport at Olympic hall, McKeesport, last night, 45 to 23. Crawford and Hager of the Young American team of Homestead strengthened the Olympics. Lineup:

Homestead—45.		Olympics—25.
Luppold	F.	Crawford
Speele	C.	Hassenfritz
Jones	G.	Mulholland
Parker	G.	Hager

Substitutes—Murray for Jones, Bertzges for Bowes, Criswell for Hassenfritz. Field goals—Dickson, Luppold 8, Speele 7, Jones, Parker, Murray 2, Bertzges, Criswell, Bowes 4, Hassenfritz 2, Hager. Foul goals—Dickson 5, Crawford, Mulholland 2. Referee—Riddle.

Will Elect Assistant Managers.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Washington and Jefferson College Athletic association this afternoon decided to elect assistant football and baseball managers who will, according to the new rule, hold over as managers of their respective teams next year without further action on the part of the association.

INDIANS STRONG FOR WASH.-JEFF.

LARGE CROWD IS EXPECTED

Indications point strongly to one of the largest crowds in the history of football in this section of the country when the Carlisle Indians and the Washington and Jefferson football teams line up this afternoon on Exposition field. The advance sale of seats has been unusually large and Manager Wicks of the Wash.-Jeff. team, who was in the city yesterday afternoon, says that Washington is going to send a big delegation of rooters.

The game will start promptly at 2:30, the gates being thrown open one hour earlier. A number of Washington and Jefferson students have been selected to act as ushers and they spent yesterday afternoon at the park familiarizing themselves with the numbers and location of the seats in the various sections of the stands and bleachers. The fences at either end of the open seats on the south side of the gridiron have been completed and every precaution will be taken to prevent persons from standing in front of these seats.

Almost the entire squad of Indian players spent yesterday afternoon in practice on Exposition field, and those who saw the wiry redskins chasing up and down the field were convinced that there is going to be some pretty lively football when the teams line up this afternoon.

"The rest our boys have received has done them a world of good," said Manager Thompson of the Carlisle team, "and we will be in excellent shape for the game with Washington and Jefferson. It is our intention to put the regular varsity eleven in action when the whistle blows, because we do not intend taking any chances of suffering another defeat on the present trip. The Indians do not feel any too good over having been defeated by Massillon and Canton, and they are determined to get even at the expense of Washington and Jefferson."

Word comes from Washington that the red and black combination of gridiron talent will enter the contest fully resolved to wrest victory from the Indians. The players are all in fine form for a grueling battle and Coach Piekarski is confident that his men will prove a big surprise to their dusky opponents.

CORNELL CHANGES LINEUP BEFORE THE PENN. GAME

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Cornell varsity was driven through another hard scrimmage against the scrubs tonight, perhaps the hardest of the most strenuous week of the year. There are at present too many weaknesses which cannot possibly be corrected before the Penn game. Then, too, there is an uncomfortably large number of cripples. Babcock, who had been counted upon to fill Martin's place at right half back, was added to this list tonight. The absence of Capt. Costello from right tackle, with no surety that he will be able to play next Thursday, leaves the right side of the line in poor condition. Polak is not in the best of condition physically, and consequently Newhall, with but three weeks' training, may have to play the whole game.

In the scrimmage tonight Schildmiller and Van Orman played the ends, Dann and Lyon tackles, Thompson and Furman guards, Hodge center; Newhall, quarter back; Walder and Gibson, half backs, and Jones full back.

W. U. P. TO PLAY GENEVA TODAY AT BEAVER FALLS

W. U. P. eleven goes to Beaver Falls today to play its annual game with Geneva college. The Geneva date has been a feature of the W. U. P. schedule for many years. The W. U. P. game has long been considered the big event on the Geneva list, and the whole valley will turn out enmasse this afternoon to cheer the Covenanter team. W. U. P. is confident of landing an easy victory. Especial interest centers in this game on account of the fact that several of the university players are athletes well known in the Beaver Valley, and who were formerly connected with Geneva. W. U. P. will line up in the following order: Swenson, left end; Waddill, left tackle; McKinney, left guard; Zieg, center; Yielding, right guard; Vitte, right tackle; Frye, right end; Boisseau, quarter back; Springer, left half back; Capwell, right half back; W. Banbury, full back.

W. AND J. CONFIDENT OF BEATING THE REDSKINS

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Washington and Jefferson football team went through the final practice of the week this evening, in preparation for the game tomorrow afternoon at Pittsburgh with the Carlisle Indian eleven. There was no scrubs on the field, the varsity going through nothing but signal and formation drill. The greatest confidence prevails here as to the outcome of the contest. It is thought here that W. and J. will stand a better chance on a wet ground, and indications point to a slippery field. The locals have several tricks which they expect to spring on the redskins. The team will leave here at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and will have a good rest in Pittsburgh before the game. The full squad will be taken, with strong substitutes. Every varsity man will be able to start and the lineup will be practically the same as that two weeks ago against W. U. P.

OWENS NOT ALLOWED TO PLAY WITH ROCHESTER

CINCINNATI, Nov. 24.—The sale of Thomas Owens by the Brooklyn National league club to the Rochester league club was set aside in a statement given out by the national ball commission today. The commission declares that the "player is a contract jumper pure and simple," and there should be no temporarizing in any case of this kind. He is ineligible to play with any national agreement club. Before going to Rochester Owens was reported by Brooklyn as having jumped his contract, but later in the season he was sold by Brooklyn to Rochester, although at the time he was playing with York, Pa., club, and he remained there until September 17, when he went to Rochester.

The action of the Brooklyn club is declared by the commission to be clearly in violation of the rules of the commission, and a repetition thereof will result in imposing a penalty upon that club.

Carnegie by Two Points.

The Trenton A. C. was beaten by the C. A. C. at Braddock last night, 16 to 14. The lineup:

C. A. C.—16.		Trenton A. C.—14.
McDevitt	F.	L. Rosser
Rosenbloom	F.	Owens
Gibney	C.	Rosser
Heiney	G.	Drum
Andrews (Rose)	G.	Meyers

Field goals—Rosenbloom 2, Gilney 4, Rose, L. Rosser 2, Owens 2, Rosser, Drum. Fouls—McDevitt, Gibney, Owens 2. Referee—Crall. Time—Two 20-minute halves.

CORNELL WINS BIG RUN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Cornell University distance runners again demonstrated their cross-country stamina by winning the intercollegiate team championship at Travers Island today, defeating Harvard, Yale, Massachusetts Technology, Pennsylvania, Columbia and Princeton.

In the scoring total each university was permitted to tally its first four men across the line, the total being obtained from the positions of the men at the finish. By this mode Cornell counted 29, Harvard 35, Yale 57, Technology 65, Pennsylvania 70, Columbia 85 and Princeton 111.

Incidental to the team honors, Yale, through the prowess of W. J. Hale, gained the individual championship by getting through the tape in 32 minutes 53 seconds, just one second outside of the record, which he could have broken beyond recognition had he been so disposed. Cornell's victory was the sixth of the seven races held for the title, only having been beaten when Yale was first in 1901.

Cornell	2 6 9 12	29
Harvard	5 7 10 13	35
Yale	1 11 15 30	57
Technology	14 16 17 18	65
Pennsylvania	4 8 26 32	70
Columbia	3 25 28 29	85

BIG FOOTBALL GAMES TODAY

This is the last Saturday of football for the big elevens, and as a finale Yale and Harvard will meet in their annual game at Cambridge. Pennsylvania will play Columbia at New York. These are the only big games in the east of much importance. Princeton has closed its season and Cornell will rest for the Quakers Thanksgiving. Syracuse will play at West Point and Annapolis will have the Virginia Poly. eleven at Annapolis.

Of course W. and J. and the Carlisle Indians will absorb the local interest. W. U. P. plays Geneva at Beaver Falls.

PIN KNIGHTS ARE ON THE ALLEYS

Ungers Take Three Games from the Friendships and the Independents Beat Sharpsburg.

MANY MATCHES ARE PLAYED

The Ungers and the Friendships met last night on the Friendship alleys for the first time this season. The Ungers took all three games by splendid bowling. In the first game they rolled up a score of 902. It was the seventh 900 score made by the Ungers and the fourteenth made in the Pittsburgh section. Hergenroeder of the losing team made high score of 193. The boss bowler was Joe Milfeit, who ran up an average of 189 1-3. Nickel did good work, as also did Dienstbier. Both teams rolled well except in the third game, when the Friendships took a sudden drop. Scores:

The Adams alleys on Mt. Oliver was opened last night in a blaze of glory and the hall was crowded to the doors by a crowd of enthusiastic spectators. The Unity team of the County league and the Werries of South Pittsburgh league were the contestants at the opening and some splendid games were rolled. The first balls rolled on the alleys were by Burgess Vallentine and the veteran, John Kalb. The burgess knocked down seven pins and Kalb followed suit with six pins salivated. After the preliminaries the two teams indulged in an exhibition game and all the players were encouraged to do their best by the many spectators. The Unity team put up a fine game, winning all three games and putting up the fine score of 938 in the second game. The star bowler of the evening was Sam Heimbuecher, having two 200 scores and the fine average of 199 2-3. DeVore was the second best bowler, having an average of 174 2-3. The evening was spent pleasantly with a fine orchestra in attendance, and after the games both teams were wined and dined by the popular proprietor, Mr. Adams. Scores:

FOWNES NEARLY LOST HIS MATCH

BROKAW HAD UPHILL ROAD

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 24.—W. C. Fownes, Jr., and George T. Brokaw, the two favorites for the chief cup of the fall golf tournament at Lakewood, had close calls in their matches in the second round today. The Pittsburgh amateur was pitted against J. G. Batterson of Fox Hills, and scrambled home by 2 up on the seventeenth green, while Mr. Brokaw was 3 down to W. J. Evans at the tenth hole.

J. G. Batterson, in his match against W. C. Fownes, Jr., missed the opportunity of his golfing career. He caught the Pittsburgh champion in a slack, unaggressive mood, and before the latter knew it he was 2 down, playing the ninth, even after laying the Fox Hills man in unplayable stymies at the fourth and fifth holes. Thanks to a magnificent brassie from Mr. Fownes going to the ninth, the tide turned as his opponent pressed with the inevitable result, and for two more holes he was helpless. Thus the Pittsburgh crack was 1 up, playing the twelfth, where, after a badly topped drive, he laid a full brassie within five feet of the cup and ran down in three.

In spite of this, however, the Fox Hills man was by no means done. After leaving the thirteenth he missed a two-foot put for the fourteenth, but won the sixteenth through better approaching, and was but 1 down with 2 to go. A badly topped drive to the seventeenth, however, cost him the hole and the match. The score by strokes:

Mr. Fownes	5	5	4	4	4	5	5	7	4—43
Mr. Batterson	6	4	3	5	5	4	4	4	5—40
Mr. Fownes	5	4	3	5	5	5	6	4	5—40—83
Mr. Batterson	6	6	5	5	5	5	5	5	5—47—87

Of the other matches for the chief cup, J. O'H. Denny defeated his Pittsburgh clubmate, H. C. Fownes, in the morning, and the veteran, Paul Waterman, in the afternoon. The summaries:

Chief cup, first round—J. G. Batterson, Fox Hills, beat E. E. Giles, Oakmont, 6 up and 4 to play; W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont, beat E. S. BASEBALL MEN GO BACK HOME

MACK FAVORS LONG SEASON

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—All the American league magnates have left the town after a love feast. On the resolution indorsing Ban Johnson, Charles Comiskey was the only speaker. There had been fears all along unexpressed, but none the less powerful, that no reconciliation could be patched up between the two leaders. The greatest efforts were brought to bear upon both Comiskey and Johnson to make up, shake hands and call everything off. Mr. Johnson took the stand that there was nothing for him to do in the matter except to abide by the decision of the league as to whether he had conducted its affairs to advantage or not. He refused to make any move toward Comiskey, maintaining that it was up to the magnates to stand by him with an indorsement. It was not for him to extend the glad hand to a man who had most unmercifully roasted him. The peacemakers, therefore, attacked Comiskey. It was a hard job to bring the Old Roman around, for he was and still is very bitter against the league chief. Frank Farrell and Charley Somers finally accomplished it, however, all for the good of the league. They succeeded in persuading Commy to sink his personal feeling out of sight for the welfare of the organization. The clever veteran rose to the occasion and the result was a unanimous indorsement of Mr. Johnson's administration. The reconciliation between the two leaders, however, is all on the surface. Personally they are as far apart as ever.

After the meeting Mr. Johnson made a bee line for his office and Commy retired as quickly to a remote corner of the hotel with a couple of friends. The breach between the two men is not healed and the evidence is strong that it never will be, except superficially. Commy has lost faith in Ban and Ban can never forgive the rude statements of Commy. The surface waters are placid, but there is a deep undercurrent of dislike and distrust running underneath.

Connie Mack of the champion Athletics is strongly opposed to the reduction of the playing schedule from 154 to 140 games. The stock argument of the would-be reducers is that the weather is likely to be bad at the beginning and end of the season, and that second division teams, which have no chance for honors, do not draw well toward the close. Mack says the weather may be bad at any time, and this for the other argument, tail-ender teams will not draw any better toward the close of a 140-game season than they do now, and they will have 14 less games to get receipts from. Mack has a lot of influence with his colleagues, and the shorter schedule may as well be considered a dead issue from now on, especially as the National will never agree to it, anyway.

SCHOOL LEAGUE MEETS AND SETTLES DIFFICULTIES

The executive committee of the Interscholastic league of Western Pennsylvania met in the Allegheny High school building yesterday to consider all matters connected with the closing of the football season. The representatives were: Three from the Allegheny Preparatory school, four from the Allegheny High and two from the Wilkinsburg High, the schools at present constituting the league. By the constitution of the league, this committee is a tribunal for settling all differences. It is certainly a good omen that all the differences and disputes were settled at the meeting yesterday in a large and friendly way; all merely personal matters were barred out as fully as possible; in contested games the vote prevailed unanimously to abide by the decision of the officials concerned. The question as to whether a game forfeited to another team should count in favor of the team to which the game was forfeited was settled by a liberal interpretation of the constitution of the league. The tie between the Allegheny Preparatory school and the Allegheny High school was sustained, and, in accordance with the constitution, each school is to have the trophy one-half of the year. The question as to which school shall hold the cup the second half of the year was determined by lot. The lot fell in favor of the Preparatory school.

As an outgrowth of the short life of the league, it became evident to the committee that in the future the league should have, if necessary, paid officials who should be thoroughly conversant with the games and in every way as impartial as possible.

Ticket Scalpers Arrested.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—H. H. Waterfall, who was arrested by the order of Mayor Dunne on the charge of speculating in tickets of the Chicago-Michigan football game, was arraigned in court today and after agreeing that he would sell no more of the tickets was discharged on the payment of the costs. Another arrest was made today by the police in connection with "scalping" of tickets for the Thanksgiving game, George Perry being arrested for selling four $1.50 tickets for $20.

REPLACING COSTLY SHOW ROOM WINDOWS

Work That Requires Great Care as Well as Strength.

BIG WINDOW SMASHED BY STONE FROM DITCH

The carelessness of workmen in the employ of the city has added another to the list of plate glass casualties in the McCreery building. Yesterday the efforts of workmen to replace one of the immense window panes in Wood street, near Oliver avenue, attracted a large crowd, for the task is one that is accomplished with the greatest difficulty owing to the size and weight of the glass. Last week a workman digging in the sewer in front of the big store accidentally tossed a small stone through one corner of the window, which made it necessary to replace the pane.

The McCreery building has been fated apparently in the matter of broken windows. The one replaced yesterday makes eight of the big panes which have been smashed since the great store was opened for business. Several of these have been broken in a manner similar to the last one by objects being thrown or glancing from the street. Most of the breakages were along Wood street, although one occurred near the rear door of the building in Oliver avenue and another on the Sixth avenue end. The most palpable of these accidents was the act of a brawny workman who while passing the store with an axe on his shoulder turned quickly, so that the axe crashed through the window.

The McCreery windows are probably the largest plate glass fronts in the city, each pane in the front measuring 143x232.5 inches. This gives a surface of over 230 square feet.

TO ENTER GREENE COUNTY.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Greene County Telephone Company, an independent concern, by the purchase of the Carmichaels Telephone Company, will enter the Greene county field and begin active competition with the Bell and other interests. The general manager of the new concern is T. B. Lee, formerly connected with the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Telephone Company at Pittsburgh.

The Carmichaels Telephone Company had franchises on the principal streets of Waynesburg and lines will be built into the Greene county capital at once. By working agreements with other lines the new concern will be able to reach Uniontown, Wheeling, Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Johnstown and as far east as Harrisburg, Philadelphia and Baltimore. It is stated that J. G. Splane, president of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Telephone Company; R. C. Hall and H. B. Beatty of Pittsburgh, are interested in the new concern.

MISSING HUSBAND FOUND.

ALBANY, Nov. 24.—John Hammond, the missing husband of the woman whose strangled and decomposing body was found here yesterday wedged in a trunk in their home, is said by the police to have confessed more than a week ago to his brother-in-law, a man named Margini, that he had killed his wife.

Margini was arrested at Cohoes today and admitted to the police, they say, that Hammond told him of the murder Tuesday, November 14. Margini says he accompanied Hammond to Rouse's Point, and there left him on his way to Canada. The Cohoes police declared this afternoon that they had definite information that Hammond was in or near Montreal.

A. OVERHOLT & COMPANY REWARD THE FIRE FIGHTERS

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The firm of A. Overholt & Company has distributed $1,100 in presents for services rendered at the fire which destroyed the bonded warehouse at Broadford last Sunday. The Connellsville fire department received a check for $600 today. The Uniontown fire department received $300, New Haven $100, and Adelaide $100. It is said the company also intends to furnish new tailor-made suits to all the firemen whose clothing was damaged at the fire.

SAYS BROTHER SECURED HER ESTATE BY FRAUD

REGULAR ARMY OFFICER BEFORE A COURT-MARTIAL

Charges of Being Drunk and Falling Off a Street Car Are Made Against Him—Makes a Strong Denial.

First Lieut. Kent Browning of Company I, First United States infantry, was tried by general courtmartial yesterday at the Butler street arsenal on charges of drunkenness and conduct unbecoming an officer. The trial lasted but a few hours, only four witnesses being examined. The charges were preferred by Second Lieut. R. W. Drury of the Ninth infantry, and were drawn by Col. Harvey C. Carbaugh, judge advocate general of the department of the east. The officers of the courtmartial were:

Lieut. Col. Charles L. Hodges, Twenty-third infantry, president; Capt. John K. Miller, Eighth infantry, judge advocate; Maj. Colville P. Terrett, Eighth infantry; Maj. George Bell, Jr., First Infantry; Capt. Andre W. Brewster, Ninth infantry; Capt. Samuel Seay, Jr., Twenty-third infantry; Capt. Howard L. Laubach, Twenty-third infantry; Capt. Houston V. Evans, Eighth infantry; Capt. Lambert W. Jordan, Jr., First infantry, and Capt. Frank Halstead, Twenty-third infantry.

Lieut. Drury was the first witness and testified that early on the morning of October 15, he was on a street car, on his way to the arsenal. Lieut. Browning was on the rear platform. The car stopped at the arsenal, and when Lieut. Drury got off the car he found Lieut. Browning lying in the street on his face. Lieut. Drury said Lieut. Browning was intoxicated and he, Lieut. Drury, was compelled to call the assistance of Private Lynch to assist him in taking Lieut. Browning to his quarters. Lieut. Drury testified that Lieut. Browning's face was cut by the fall and he was unable to aid himself.

Lieut. Col. Hodges examined Lieut. Drury regarding remarks made by the passengers on the street car. Lieut. Drury said he heard one of the passengers say:

Lieut. William R. Leonard, First infantry, followed Lieut. Drury on the stand. Dr. F. S. Macy, contract surgeon, and Private Lynch also testified to Lieut. Browning's condition.

Lieut. Browning took the stand in his own behalf. He denied he was drunk and said he fell off the car by accident and was stunned. This concluded the trial but the verdict will not be known until Judge Advocate General Carbaugh makes it public.

Lieut. Browning was appointed to the service after the Spanish-American war, and has an excellent record. He was in citizen's clothes when he fell off the street car.

WILL OF SULLIVAN'S BACKER PLACED ON FILE

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The will of "Charlie" Johnson, a noted sporting man and former backer of John L. Sullivan, pugilist, who died at his residence, No. 64 South Eliot Place, Brooklyn, was filed for probate today.

Mr. Johnson left an estate of $200,000. His widow is to receive the South Eliot Place residence and $30,000 in cash; $28,000 is to be placed in trust for his daughter, Annie, the income to be paid to her annually, and the principal to be divided among her children at her death; $60,000 is bequeathed to a nephew, Arthur, and $15,000 to a brother, Alexander.

The remainder of the estate is divided equally among the widow, brother, nephew and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Rowe. This will bring the widow's share of the estate up to about $48,000.

PRISONERS SEEK DEATH.

Three Try Suicide in Cell Rooms but All Are Denied Escape to Eternity.

Three prisoners who tried to kill themselves in police station cell rooms yesterday all failed in their purpose. Pater Andy of Strawberry alley, McKeesport, strung himself to a telegraph pole in that city yesterday morning, but before life had escaped him he was cut down and taken to police station where he made another attempt at self-destruction by strangulation. He was discovered just in time.

Peter Jackson, who was locked up in No. 2 police station on a charge of drunkenness, tried to kill himself by hanging from the cell room bars with his coat sleeve. He was taken to Passavant hospital, revived and then locked up again.

Mrs. Mary Miller of McKeesport tried to commit suicide while under arrest on a charge of drunkenness yesterday morning. She was found suspended from the bars of her cell by her underskirt, which she had torn into strips and knotted. She was cut down and revived and later renewed the attempt. She was finally handcuffed to the bars of her cell.

ARGUMENT IN BANK CASE HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Counsel for State and Enterprise Directors Will Go Into Hearing Next Tuesday.

Because several of the various attorneys interested in the pending legal battle between the state treasurer and the directors of the Enterprise bank of Allegheny, were engaged yesterday in other cases, a postponement was agreed upon and there was no argument, as had been arranged. The argument is to decide whether or not the judgments filed by State Treasurer Mathues against the bank directors shall be opened and they let into a defense. Next Tuesday morning has been set as a date for the hearing of the case. President Fred Gwinner of the wrecked bank came into court early and was immediately told of the postponement. He remained in the court room only a few minutes.

Special Examiner Moxey, who is working on the accounts of the bank, is of the opinion that the directors have established a poor defense, and that the state will ultimately win. Should this be the result the directors will be compelled to reimburse the state for the $1,030,000 state funds on deposit in the bank. Mr. Moxey said yesterday that the talk of a receiver being appointed for the Sante Fe Central railway is foolish as it has been found the railway company owes no money to the bank. For this reason, Mr. Moxey says, the federal government or Receiver Cunningham has no jurisdiction insofar as the Sante Fe is concerned.

Gardner W. Kimball, an expert accountant, has been sent from Washington to assist Examiner Moxey with the affairs of the bank. He started his work yesterday.

No action has been taken yet by the committee of the Enterprise bank depositors, who organized to institute a supplementary examination with the view to bringing criminal suits against those alleged to be responsible for the collapse of the bank. Treasurer George B. Bothwell says that they have been unable so far to raise the necessary $500 as a retaining fee for Attorneys John Marron and S. S. Mehard, who have been tentatively engaged by the depositors. Mr. Bothwell says many of the depositors are unable to contribute anything and that many refuse because they think others will give up the money, and that they will get the benefit. The percentage of those willing to lend financial aid to the proposed movement of the depositors, Mr. Bothwell says, is very small. He hopes to have enough money by next week to have some action taken.

Joseph Hunter, receiver of the National Cable and Wire Company, of which T. Lee Clark was president, filed an answer to the petition of the First National bank of McKees Rocks, for leave to sell certain bonds of the company, deposited as collateral for a $10,000 note. In the answer Hunter gives an account of the bonds issued by the company, and says he has as yet been unable to locate 58 pledged at the Enterprise National bank. Until these are found he says he cannot tell how much each bond is worth. He is preparing to petition the court for leave to sell the plant, and avers that to permit the bonds to be sold as prayed for only further entangles the affair unless all bonds held as collateral are sold.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure bad, foul stomach and constipation and so help to cure nearly every disease of mankind. They regulate, tone up and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge. the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

MISS SCHENLEY HAVING A VERY PLEASANT VISIT

Announces That She Is Delighted With Pittsburgh and Allegheny—Every Moment of Her Time Is Filled With Pleasure.

Miss Schenley is delighted with Pittsburgh and every thing in it. The rain yesterday morning brought the first unpleasant weather which Miss Schenley has experienced since arriving in this country, but the unpromising morning yesterday was forgotten when the afternoon brought sunshine. Miss Schenley spent the greater part of the day receiving callers in her apartments, which now suggest a debutante tea, so full are they of flowers sent to this most welcome of visitors. There was a constant stream of callers until late in the afternoon, when Miss Schenley was driven down town into the shopping district. She made a few purchases and was then driven to Allegheny, where she made one or two calls. She is most enthusiastic over everything she has seen, shops included, and is equally pleased with Pittsburgh's sister city across the river.

Miss Kate Cassatt MacKnight, Miss Schenley's cousin, gave a theater party at the Nixon last evening, her guests including Miss Schenley, Mr. and Mrs. Harmar Denny, John W. Herron, Henry MacKnight, Denny Brereton and Capt. Edward R. Harbard. Supper at the Duquesne club followed the play.

If the weather is favorable today Mr. Herron will escort Miss Schenley to her mother's old home, the Schenley mansion, out the Morningside road, and this afternoon she will attend the football game. She expects to attend church service both morning and evening on Sunday and will worship in an Episcopalian church at one service and in a Presbyterian at the other. Mrs. Herron's reception is the only event scheduled for Monday and on Tuesday Miss Schenley will attend the Kay-Ebbert wedding in company with her cousin, Miss MacKnight.

Miss Schenley has not yet decided when she will leave Pittsburgh, but she has planned to visit Niagara Falls and Washington, D. C., before sailing for England on December 16. Mr. Brereton, who came from New York with Miss Schenley and her nephew, Capt. Harbard, will conclude his visit in the Iron City some time next week.

SOCIETY

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

An interesting bridal party will attend Miss Louise Kay and George Singer Ebbert at their wedding next Tuesday afternoon. The marriage will be solemnized in the Shadyside Presbyterian church with the Rev. J. Shane Nicholls, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian church, as officiant. Five o'clock is the hour set for the ceremony, which is to be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James I. Kay in Forbes street, Squirrel Hill. Miss Kay has chosen Miss Gertrude Childs as her maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Louise Thatcher of New York and Miss Jean Reid of Yonkers, both of whom are guests of Miss Childs; Miss Adelaide Knox of New York and Miss Minnette Clark of Port Hope, Canada, who are Miss Kay's house guests; Miss Roumaine LeMoyne, also of Canada, who is with her sister, Mrs. Benjamin S. Page, and Miss Sallie Hill of this city. William Frew will serve as Mr. Ebbert's best man, and the duties of ushers will be performed by Clinton L. Childs, Donald Thompson, William Clark, Charles Foster, Thomas Atterbury McGinley and Augustus K. Oliver. The small twin nieces of the bride, little Miss Phyllis and Miss Louise Kay, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Kay, will take their places in the bridal procession as flower girls. After their wedding trip Mr. Ebbert and his bride will live with Mr. and Mrs. Kay until the completion of their own residence on the lot adjoining that on which the Kay home stands. The building will be begun immediately, and it is expected will be finished by fall. Of the social affairs which are to precede the wedding, there was Miss Kay's bridesmaids' dinner at her home last evening, with white roses as the decorations. At the same time Mr. Ebbert gave his bachelor dinner at the Pittsburgh golf club. Miss Hill will give a dinner for the entire bridal party at the golf club this evening, her sister, Mrs. William Speer Kuhn, chaperoning the young people. Miss Childs will be hostess at the rehearsal dinner on Monday evening.

Mrs. Horne's Theater Party.

Supper at the Duquesne club will follow the box party to be given at the Nixon by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Horne next Wednesday evening. Mrs. Horne is entertaining in honor of Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, one of the season's debutantes, and the guest list will include with one or two exceptions only the members of the debutante set. The guests will be Miss Hamilton, Miss Hester Singer, Miss Jean Oliver, Miss Marjorie Rea, Miss Paline Dilworth, Miss Margarita Frew, Miss Helen Willard Davis, Miss Evelyn Black, Miss Euphemia Bakewell, Miss Mary Whittier Shields, Miss Ruth Walker, Miss Marion Clapp, Miss Helen Witherow, Miss Margaret Hay, Miss Lyda MacKnight, Miss Elizabeth Irwin, Miss Martha Chambers, Miss Inez Warren, Miss Katherine Jennings, Miss Mary Jennings, Miss Helen G. Ayers, Miss Agate Brown, Miss Florence Gregg, Miss Harriet W. Balken, Miss Madeline F. Laughlin, Eben M. Byers, J. Frederic Byers, McCleane Brown, Donald Thompson, J. Alston Moorhead, Joseph Holmes, James Childs Rea, Arthur Scully, William Frew, James S. Blair, George S. Oliver, H. Wilfred DuPuy, Palmer Collins, F. Warren Kay, Moorhead Holland, Raymond Holland, McKee Graham, William Craig Chaplin, Charles G. Wood, Jr., Ralph Richards, John I. Scott, James S. Humbird, Jr., Dilworth Lupton, Christopher Magee Anderson, Henry Irwin, John C. Dilworth and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Robinson.

A Debutante Luncheon.

Nearly half a hundred girls in the debutante set will be the guests of Mrs. John R. Gregg at the luncheon which she will give next Saturday to introduce her daughter, Miss Florence McLeod Gregg, to society. Luncheon will be served at the Duquesne club, with a theater party afterward at the Belasco. The guest list includes Miss Gregg, Miss Helen Witherow, Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, Miss Hester Singer, Miss Ruth Walker, Miss Harriet W. Balken, Miss Helen G. Ayers, Miss Marion E. Clapp, Miss Agate Brown, Miss Mary Jennings, Miss Katherine Jennings, Miss Margaret Jennings, Miss Harriet Carroll, Miss Elizabeth Heron, Miss Edith D. Hay, Miss Sarah MacKnight, Miss Lyda MacKnight, Miss Mary Davidson, Miss Martha Chambers, Miss Inez Warren, Miss Euphemia Bakewell, Miss Louise McKinney, Miss Margaret L. Barr, Miss Marguerite Preston, Miss Grace Preston, Miss Marguerite Botsford, Miss Dorothy Shoemaker, Miss Rebekah J. Marshall, Miss Alyce Verner, Miss Catherine Verner and Miss Carrie Scott.

Reception for Recent Bride.

Mrs. Robert Walker Guthrie of Howe street, East End, received her friends from 3 until 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon to meet her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Brandon Guthrie, who was Miss Agnes D. Crookston, prior to her marriage in June. Mrs. Guthrie and her honor guest, receiving together, were assisted by Mrs. Joseph R. Woodwell, Mrs. James B. Hallmon, Mrs. Francis Sellers Guthrie, Mrs. Francis J. LeMoyne, Miss Sellers, Miss Minnie Sellers, Miss Sarah Sellers, Miss Marion Sellers Guthrie and Miss Alice Sellers Guthrie. It was a chrysanthemum tea, a color scheme of pink being carried out with these flowers in the drawing-room and dining-room, in both of which apartments the mantels were effectively banked with ferns and the doors and windows were draped with smilax. Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used to advantage in the hall.

Mrs. Dangerfield Is Hostess.

Mrs. Benjamin Dangerfield, Jr., was hostess at a prettily-appointed little luncheon yesterday afternoon. The honors of the affair were shared by Mrs. William Metcalf Parkin, a recent bride, and Miss Hazel Chapman of Bradford, who is visiting Miss Alice Parkin of North Negley avenue. The luncheon was a green and white affair, with a centerpiece of white carnations and foliage. Covers were laid for 12 guests. Mrs. Dangerfield, it will be remembered, was Miss Helen Dickson previous to her marriage in June. She is now making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dickson, in North Negley avenue, where yesterday's luncheon was given.

Morris-Byers Wedding Cards Out.

Cards were received yesterday for the marriage of Miss Caroline Morris and J. Frederic Byers, which will take place at noon on Wednesday, December 6, in the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr. A number of local people will go east for the wedding, among them being Miss Gertrude Childs, Dallas C. Byers, William Frew, Donald Thompson, Eben M. Byers and Alston Moorhead, all of whom will be in the bridal party; Mrs. Alexander M. Byers, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Denniston Lyon, brother-in-law and sister of Mr. Byers. After their wedding trip Mr. Byers will bring his bride to this city to make their home.

Mrs. Morton's Tea.

Mrs. Howard Morton will give a tea from 4 until 6 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon at her home, Fifth avenue and McPherson boulevard. The guests have been asked to meet Mrs. J. Bosworth McCready, a newcomer to Pittsburgh, and a bride of a couple of years. Mrs. Morton has asked a number of her friends to assist her, among them being Mrs. Edward Sullivan, Mrs. Walter Chess, Mrs. E. Hudson Young, Mrs. R. B. McKee, Miss Lillian Morris, Miss Anna Ousler, Miss Jean Stone, Mrs. Abram Garrison Holmes, Mrs. John Fremont Shafer and Mrs. Randall Morton, who will pour tea.

Bridge Honors Are Divided.

The honors of Miss Margaret Watson's bridge party yesterday afternoon were shared by three out-of-town girls, Miss Mary Matlack of Lewisburg, Pa., Miss Marion Lewis of Englewood, N. J., and Miss Dorothea Guthrie of Zanesville, O. Miss Matlack is the house guest of Miss Laura Partt of Wellesley avenue, Miss Lewis is with Miss Wardrop of Sewickley and Miss Guthrie is visiting Miss Ethel Griffin of Howe street. Seven tables were in play yesterday and the decorations were of red roses and chrysanthemums of various colors.

Miss Walker's Coming Out.

Mrs. Hay Walker, Jr., of Lincoln avenue, Allegheny, has chosen Wednesday, December 6, as the date on which she will introduce her debutante daughter, Miss Ruth Walker. Miss Walker will make her formal bow at a luncheon which her mother will give at her Lincoln avenue home on that day.

Will Be Married Monday.

Miss Alice Cavanaugh, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Cavanaugh of McKeesport, will be married next Monday afternoon to F. J. Steele of Glassport at St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, McKeesport. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Father C. A. McDermott.

A Pretty Home Affair.

Miss Hilda Grace Presy at a pretty at-home affair at her home, 6411 Howe street, East End, on Thursday evening introduced her sister, Miss Agnes Marie. The color decorations were white and pink. Euchre was a feature of the evening.

Notes of Society.

A bazar and euchre was held in Assembly hall last night by the women of St. James' Roman Catholic church of Wilkinsburg and a large crowd was present. The booths were handsomely decorated and did a rushing business. The euchre tables were crowded. The proceeds will be devoted to church purposes.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Avalon Presbyterian church held a supper and bazar in the Avalon borough hall last night.

THE CLUBS

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

New Superintendent Is Elected.

Miss Charlotte Aikens was elected superintendent of the new Columbia hospital at the meeting of the United Presbyterian Women's association yesterday afternoon in the United Presbyterian building, Ninth street. Miss Aikens is expected to come to Pittsburgh early in December and will be at the Memorial hospital in Allegheny until the new Columbia hospital in Wilkinsburg is ready for opening, which will be later than the women expected, and may not take place until the latter part of the winter. The new superintendent was highly recommended. She formerly held a similar position with the Iowa Methodist hospital in Des Moines, and in the Sibley hospital in Washington, D. C. The association yesterday decided to open the training school for nurses earlier than anticipated. It will probably be opened next month, that the nurses may be in readiness for work in the new hospital when that is finished. A large part of the time yesterday was devoted to determining the rules and regulations of the new hospital. The hospital staff is not yet completed and other details are still undecided. The association yesterday arranged to give a housewarming for the new wing to the United Presbyterian Home for the Aged, in Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, on Thursday, December 7. The reception will be conducted afternoon and evening and a special program of music and addresses will be carried out. The new wing has been erected at a cost of $20,000, and is similar in appearance to the wing erected about five years ago.

Club Women Attend Housewarming.

Mrs. Case A. Foster gave a reception yesterday afternoon at which her guests were the members of the Woman's club of Carnegie, of which she is president, and a number of outside friends, over 100 women being in attendance. The reception took the form of a housewarming, as Mrs. Foster has recently remodelled her home in Washington street, Carnegie. The house is large and commodious and admirably adapted for entertaining. Yesterday its handsome furnishings were enhanced by masses of white chrysanthemums and ferns, green and white being the colors of the Woman's club. Receiving with Mrs. Foster were other officers of the club, including Mrs. W. A. Johns and Mrs. W. H. H. Lea, the vice presidents. During the afternoon a program of music and readings was given, Miss Van Sickel of Oakdale giving several readings from James Whitcomb Riley's poems. Mrs. W. D. Wrenshall, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. W. W. Booth, Mrs. J. H. Sanford of Carnegie and Miss Louise Loy furnished the music. The hours were from 2:30 until 5. Following the reception Mrs. Foster gave a dinner for her assistants. Miss Romain Clark and Mrs. Zahn of Crafton and Mrs. John Hall of Washington, Pa., were house guests of the hostess.

Addition Is Nearly Completed.

In a couple of weeks the new gymnasium of Kingsley house will be finished and ready for use, and William H. Matthews, the head resident, is confident that the remainder of the extensive addition to the settlement house will be completed for use during Christmas week. The addition, which consists of two wings, each three stories in height, is erected at a cost of $20,000. On the left of the main entrance, which is in Fulton street, as before, is the wing containing the gymnasium, which is two stories in height, the wing on the right containing the assembly hall, which will be first used for the Christmas week celebrations. It is a very large apartment. Over it are clubrooms for the girls and apartments for the residents. In the basement are to be installed shower and plunge baths, while in the basement beneath the gymnasium will be locker-rooms. In a few days the new gymnastic apparatus ordered by E. P. Mellon will be installed.

Plan Benefit for Children's Hospital.

A club of 16 little girls in the East End announces a fair which will be given in the ball room of the Hotel Schenley on Saturday afternoon and evening, December 2, for the benefit of the Pittsburgh Hospital for Children. The little girls will have sales tables covered with Christmas articles, and in addition there will be music and dancing. The hours will be from 3 until 9:30, and tickets will be on sale at the ball room door.

Second Day of Art League Sale.

The Art Students' league will continue the sale of Christmas goods at the green studio in Emily street, near Craft avenue, Oakland, which was inaugurated last Saturday afternoon, and which will continue each Saturday until December 16. The sketches and art and crafts work display are the work of members of the league.

Bellevue Auxiliary Holds Sale.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Bellevue Young Men's Christian association has arranged for a sale of all kinds of home-made bread, pies and cakes to be conducted this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Will Lay the Corner Stone.

The corner stone of the new machine shop and pattern department of the National tube works at McKeesport will be laid today. The building is at Fourth avenue and Walnut street. There will be no ceremony, but a copper box containing local newspapers, records along with other articles usually placed in corner stones, will be deposited in the stone.

BUSY MAKING DOLLS TO GLADDEN POOR CHILDREN

In a vacant room at Sixth avenue and Grant street, Manager McGrath is doing the preliminary work of the Toy Mission, which opened a few days ago. Things are quiet at present, but soon telephones will be installed and business will go with a rush. Maj. R. W. A. Simmons is taking his usual active interest in the mission, and is looking after details.

Mr. McGrath is just now engaged in constructing dolls. Dozens of cast-off dolls have been received. Some are minus an arm, some have a foot or two off and quite a few have broken heads. Many have been scalped. From the odds and ends McGrath is constructing whole dolls. He secures an arm here and a leg there, and where a head has been broken, but the infant not scalped, he gets new wigs. It is something like a game of solitaire to pick out pieces to get whole dolls, but he is slowly getting there. In another week, after Thanksgiving, he will have help and things will go easier.

The mission makes its usual appeal for all kinds of toys. Some have already been received and requests that the wagon be sent out are numerous. Yesterday a letter was received from Salem, O., asking for directions how to send a box of toys.

PATENTING PARTY NAMES.

The movement to patent party names in Allegheny still goes on, and yesterday four applications for the exclusive right to party appellations were filed by the following citizens of the First ward:

E. W. Olsen, R. L. Smith, David Wilson, John Dickson and L. S. Obitz applied for the exclusive right for the Lincoln party name in the First ward, Pittsburgh.

Says Marena Kept Tickets.

Thomas Marena, a steamship agent of 7910 Frankstown avenue, was held in $500 bail for court at a hearing before Alderman McMasters yesterday, on a charge of larceny by bailee. The information was made by John N. Martin, a traveling passenger agent of the White Star Line Steamship Company, who alleges Marena was given charge of 19 steamship tickets to dispose of, and that he refused to surrender the tickets or make restitution to the steamship company.

Her Brother's Letters

Letter Number Three

In Which the Brother Talks to His Sister About Never Marrying a Man Until She's Got Another Man's Honest Opinion of Him.

"A girl should never marry a fellow until she's got another man's honest opinion of him. She can always get such an opinion, Kittens, even where she has no father or brother. There's always a straight chap somewhere around whom a girl can go to, and that sort of man will never refuse to be honest with such a girl if she will be honest with him—and if she will heed what he says when he puts the facts before her and not go off on that silly tangent of reforming a man after marriage! If a girl likes to play the rôle of a martyr—and that sort of thing seems to appeal to a lot of girls—it's about the surest way to a perfect hell on earth (forgive me, Sis, but that's the only word) that she can find!"

Even in Europe, where the corset (according to popular tradition) has reached its highest perfection, the superiority of W. B. Nuforms and W. B. Erect Forms is so great over French, German and English makes, that a special factory had to be built by us to supply the demand there. No other American corset has ever received such a tribute. Insist that you secure a W. B. Erect Form or W. B. Nuform. Both of these makes received the unqualified and only endorsement of the National Dressmakers' Conventions.

THREE GET BACK WHAT THEY GAVE

TRANSCRIBERS MAY FOLLOW

The commissioners of tax assessment and revision gave back yesterday what had been given them and the county commissioners accepted with alacrity what they themselves had given up. The deed registry department, with its employes, goes back into the county commissioners' hands, and the tax commissioners are only awaiting an opinion from a lawyer to decide whether they shall not also give up the transcribing room to the county commissioners.

For many years up to November 16 the county commissioners appointed the clerks in the deed registry and transcribing departments. It was very desirable patronage to have, for each department has a superintendent and both together employ 73 clerks, at an average monthly wage of $75. When Senator W. S. Woods introduced the bill authorizing the appointment of the tax commissioners, the county commissioners approved the measure, for it took much work off their hands, work which, they said, was foreign to their duties. They were willing to sacrifice the patronage of the deed registry and transcribing rooms, if only the work of tax assessment and hearing appeals was taken off their shoulders.

All Parties Were Willing.

After much delay and court proceedings the tax commissioners were appointed by the common pleas judges. They themselves were perfectly willing to take over the departments mentioned, if the management of those two rooms was part of their duties.

Now, if the county commissioners had had a different idea, they would, of course, it is pointed out, have refused to give up the patronage, but the fact that the tax commissioners took over the two departments and arrangements were made by which the county commissioners agreed to certify the payroll up to November 16, which from that date until November 30 the tax commissioners were to approve the payroll, is considered proof that the county commissioners did abandon the two departments. The county commissioners now say their minutes do not show they gave them up.

Since November 16 the question arose, as told in The Gazette yesterday, whether the tax commissioners really had the right to take over the two departments. The county commissioners decided the patronage belonged to them, according to an old act of 1861.

Awaiting a Legal Decision.

The tax commissioners were perfectly willing to abide by the law. They did decide they had no right to the deed registry department and are awaiting an opinion from Attorney T. C. Noble to decide whether or not the transcribing department ought to be given back to the commissioners' department.

To settle the question officially, this method was adopted: If the two departments belonged to the tax commissioners, it was their duty to ask the county salary board to fix the wages of the employes, therefore, Tax Commissioner E. Z. Smith asked for a meeting of the board. At that meeting yesterday the tax commissioners gave up the one department and announced that Mr. Noble's opinion, when given, would guide them as to the disposition of the other. Pending the decision the county commissioners and tax commissioners will both approve the payroll of the transcribing room for the month of November, without sacrificing whatever rights each body may have.

Incident to this meeting, another question was amicably settled, at least, for awhile. It was whether the tax commissioners can sit on the salary board. The act constituting the salary board provides that the board shall consist of the controller and county commissioners and any officers whose salaries are established by the same act, the prothonotary, register, recorder and other elective county officers.

Question to Be Decided.

The tax commissioners are appointive officers, and the question arises whether the act contemplates that county officers created in the future by the legislature shall be entitled to sit on the salary board. The controller and the county commissioners have not, for instance, ever consented to the claim of incumbents of the county engineer's office, an appointive officer, to be a member of the salary board.

The question came up, of course, when Tax Commissioner Smith asked for a meeting of the salary board yesterday. It was finally agreed that the tax commissioners would waive the question of right and by courtesy they should be asked to attend the meeting of the board. The regular salary board will take legal advice concerning the right of the tax commissioners to act on the salary board.

Mr. Smith, according to members of the salary board, was very fair in his statement. He is an attorney. He said the tax board had the right to sit on the salary board, but the three tax commissioners ought to have but one vote.

ICE SKATING STARTS.

The ice skating season was opened at Duquesne garden last night. It was the inauguration of the ninth season and over 3,100 persons paid admission to the garden. V. D. Nirella, conductor of the orchestra, had composed a new waltz, "The Duquesne Garden Girl," which was the first number on the program. Then there was a succession of popular numbers, the band playing five minutes and then resting for the same time. The ice was very fast, considering it was the first night. In addition to the new music there was an entire new corps of neatly uniformed skating instructors, in charge of W. G. Bratton, who for three years was chief skating instructor at the St. Nicholas rink in New York. Mr. Bratton is a fancy figure skater and will pay particular attention to this line. From now on public sessions will be held every week day afternoon and evening, with a special children's session Saturday mornings. There will also be private party skating sessions Tuesday and Thursday mornings by a society skating class of the East End.

A pretty souvenir program was presented every lady patron last night. The skates were numbered off and the names of the musical selections printed on the program. Souvenir programs are to be given every lady patron on Monday evenings throughout the season, that evening being "Popular Night," when the latest popular music and request pieces will be played.

Hockey will be on the garden list as usual. The first big hockey games will be played December 12, 14 and 16 between Pittsburgh and the American Soo of the International hockey league.

TO HOLD MEMORIAL BANQUET.

Pennsylvania School Masters' Club to Honor the Late Prof. Stephens.

The Pennsylvania School Masters' club will banquet at the Colonial hotel at 1 o'clock next Saturday afternoon. The affair will be in the nature of a tribute to the memory of the first president of the club, Prof. James P. Stephens.

Gilbert of New York city will deliver an address on "The Schoolmaster," Miss Ada Van Stone Harris of Rochester, N. Y., will talk on "The Growth of the Teacher," and Prof. William A. Davis, supervisor of music for the Allegheny city schools, will render several solos.

FRIENDS PAY HOMAGE TO REMARKABLE WOMAN

The ninetieth birthday of Mrs. William Frank, a resident of Pittsburgh since 1874, was celebrated last evening in the Concordia club. The celebration was tendered by her immediate family. Covers were also laid for a number of guests from Cincinnati, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Washington, and other cities. Mrs. Frank received from 8 until 10 o'clock. Amid flowers and music there arrived, also, many letters and telegrams, testifying to the esteem and veneration in which this grand old woman is held.

Mrs. William Frank.

Mrs. William Frank, whose maiden name was Pauline Wormser, was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, November 24, 1815. Her husband, who died in 1901, was one of Pittsburgh's pioneer glass manufacturers, and Frankstown derived its name from the location of his works. He was a charter member and first president of Reformed Congregation Rodeph Shalom, and it was a pleasant coincidence that the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, the pastor, should celebrate his natal day on the same date. He and Mrs. Levy were present at the dinner, and in his happiest vein Dr. Levy presented to each of Mrs. Frank's 19 grandchildren and great-grandchildren, a silver loving cup from her, suitably inscribed, in commemoration of her ninetieth year.

Coming to Pittsburgh in March, 1847, she has been an active and useful member of the community ever since. She was one of the moving spirits in the great sanitary fair, held during the civil war, a charitable project that in its magnitude, has never been equalled in this city. For 25 years she has been a manager of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, and to her no felicitations were more prized than those formally tendered by the board of that philanthropic institution. Strong herself in the faith of Judaism, she has always been a broad-minded, tolerant, progressive woman whose labors in behalf of distressed humanity have known neither creed nor color. Mrs. Frank maintains a lively and active interest in her household and is well informed daily of the world's happenings. Always an enthusiastic horticulturist, still a deft needle worker and possessing a keenness of mind that is amazing, she may still occasionally be seen in the downtown stores, quite unattended, engaged in her shopping duties. Her descendants are well known in the manufacturing, financial and commercial circles of this city.

Yesterday Mrs. Frank requested, in a letter written by herself, that the names of Roosevelt, Carnegie, Frick and Phipps be toasted during the celebration and this wish was carried out by the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 4.3 feet, and the river was stationary.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 24.—River 10.2 feet. Departures: Greenwood, Pomeroy. The sale of the Francis J. Torrance has given rise to a rumor that the Coney Island management has arranged to purchase a strip of land on the opposite side of the river on account of the stand which is supposed to be taken by the incoming governor. The stand is supposed to close all resorts on the Sabbath in the state of Ohio.

LOUISVILLE—River stationary; in canal, 4.3; on falls, 21.1; below the locks, 8.5.

POINT PLEASANT—River 5 feet 6 inches and falling. Up, Kanawha.

GREENSBORO—River 7 feet 1 inch and stationary. Columbia down. Hite up.

WHEELING—River 5 feet 3 inches and falling. Departed, Virginia for Pittsburgh.

STEUBENVILLE—River 4 feet 6 inches and falling. Up, Virginia. Down, Ben Hur.

PARKERSBURG—River 6.5 feet and falling.

GALLIPOLIS—River 6 feet 6 inches and falling. Up, Kanawha for Pittsburgh.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot 7 inches and stationary.

BUYS THE FRANCIS TORRANCE.

Well-Known Excursion Boat Passes Into Hands of Cincinnati People.

The steamer Francis J. Torrance was sold yesterday evening by Capt. John F. Klein through J. M. Davis, the steamboat broker, to Capt. Lee H. Brooks, president of the Coney Island Company of Cincinnati. The consideration is not divulged, but it is said Capt. Klein will net a handsome profit on the sale of the boat. It was purchased by him on October 4 to be used to carry passengers to his new "Coney Island park" on Neville Island, but he has decided to build a new stern wheel boat of lighter draught than the Torrance, so she will be capable of carrying large crowds. The Torrance will be towed to the Pittsburgh wharf this morning by the steamer John F. Klein, and preparation will be made to take the boat to Cincinnati immediately, there being sufficient water in the Ohio River at present. The Coney Island Company of Cincinnati will use the Torrance in carrying people to their place of amusement.

All of the boats which arrived yesterday report good trips. Those which came in were the Columbia, Greenland and Lorena. The Greenland left during the evening.

The Virginia from Cincinnati arrived late last night and will leave on her return trip this afternoon.

Capt. Charles Leezer of the steamer Cascade waived hearing before United States Commissioner Lindsey yesterday on the charge of committing a misdemeanor, and gave bail for his appearance at the May term of the United States district court. It is claimed Capt. Leezer failed to observe the signals of the lockmaster at Monongahela river lock No. 3 on November 1 and that the Cascade bumped into the Vulcan, which was there with a tow, holding up the lock 40 minutes and endangering the government's property.

Burglars Steal Money and Watch.

Jesse Curry of Merwin avenue, Sheraden, discovered yesterday morning that his home had been entered by burglars and that $65 in money and a gold watch, valued at $100, were missing.

The Jar of Coughing

Hammer blows, steadily applied, break the hardest rock. Coughing, day after day, jars and tears the throat and lungs until the healthy tissues give way. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops the hard coughing. Consult your doctor freely about this.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a remedy that should be in every home. I have used a great deal of it for hard coughs and colds, and I know what a splendid medicine it is. I cannot recommend it too highly."—MARK E. COHEN, Hyde Park, Mass.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Taxation Without Representation

That is what the Railroad Rate is. We fought England rather than pay an unjust tax. The Railroad Rate is more unjust, greater and more arbitrary than any tax levied by the state. What are we going to do? Read "The Railroad Rebate," by Ray Stannard Baker, in December McClure's, and learn how and why you pay this tax. McClure's, out today. 10 cents—$1.00 a year. All news stands.

LEGAL NOTICES.

GEORGE L. SUTTER AND M. C. ACHESON, Attorneys-at-Law, 524 Fourth ave., Pittsburgh, Pa. In the court of common pleas No. 2 of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania. Sitting in equity. No. —, January term, 1906. Sophia Kehrer, widow, Joseph F. Kehrer, Charles Kehrer, Elizabeth Kehrer, Emma Kehrer, devisees of Michael Kehrer, deceased, vs. Joseph G. Ormsby, the residuary devisees of Caroline Ormsby, deceased, their heirs and legal representatives; Hiram Langrehr and Amanda Langrehr, their heirs and legal representatives, and all other persons interested. To abovenamed defendants: Take notice that a bill in equity has been filed in above court at above number and term for the purpose of perpetuating the testimony of witnesses to prove that Michael "Care," who purchased a lot of ground on Sarah street near Phillips street, East Birmingham, now Twenty-third street, Twenty-fifth ward, Pittsburgh, Pa., from the executor and trustee of burgh, Pa., from the executor and trustee of Caroline Ormsby, by deed dated October 30, 1865, recorded in recorder's office of Allegheny county, Pa., in deed book vol. 191, page 157, and also two feet fronting on same street, adjoining the above, from Hiram Langrehr and Amanda Langrehr, his wife, by deed dated November 26, 1868, recorded in said office in deed book vol. 209, page 56, is one and the same person as Michael "Kehrer," who devised said lots of ground to the plaintiff herein by will registered in the office of the register of wills of said county in will book vol. 19, page 525, and that said Michael "Care" or "Kehrer" and the plaintiffs as his devisees have been in peaceable and hostile possession of said ground ever since the dates of the said deeds. You and each of you are further notified that on the 3d day of November, 1905, the said court made the following order: And now, November 3, 1905, the foregoing bill being presented in open court, the same is ordered to be filed, and it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed that notice shall be served upon Joseph G. Ormsby, as provided by rule, and that service be made upon all other parties interested, by publication once a week for four weeks, in The Pittsburgh Gazette, to appear in this court on the 9th day of December, 1905, at 9:30 a. m., to show cause, if any they have, why a commission should not issue to take testimony of witnesses in perpetuam rei memoriam, touching the matters set forth in this bill in accordance with the act of assembly of April 6, 1859, and the supplements thereto. By the Court. M. C. Acheson and George L. Sutter, attorneys-at-law.

STOCK MARKET REACTED, CLOSING AT THE LOWEST

Depression on Foreign Exchanges and the Desire to Cash in Profits the Basis of the Selling—Air Brake a Strong Local Feature.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock exchange was reactionary yesterday, and it finally closed at the lowest prices of the day. The volume of trading was smaller, although the total sales foot up 1,249,800 shares. Bonds were relatively less active than stocks, the transactions amounting to only $2,878,000.

The chief inducement to the selling was the depression prevailing on the foreign exchanges and the desire to take profit on the four days' advance. All the clique stocks, including Smelting common, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Reading, have advanced enormously since the 25 per cent call money shake-out of two weeks ago, and the temptation to turn paper profits in cash was very strong. Besides, the present bull market is evidently in the hands of masters of the game, and a reaction now and again produces what in the street is described as a "healthier" speculative situation.

One of the disappointments of the day was the absence of the Union Pacific annual report, which on Thursday, when this stock was booming and rolling up sales of 300,000 shares, it was reported would be given to the public Friday afternoon. Yesterday the rumor was that there had been a hitch or error or something which delayed the presentation of the figures. Union Pacific opened firm and after a slight reaction moved up the 137¾, but the subsequent reaction lopped off 2 per cent of this gain, and the stock closed at practically the lowest. Southern Pacific closed 1⅛ lower and St. Paul 1¼ lower. At one time during the day there was heavy buying of Atchison and that stock advanced to 86½, but it lost all the gain and closed ⅜ per cent lower.

One of the weakest of the railroad group was Rock Island, which broke to 26½, the lowest for weeks. The preferred broke to 67¾, but recovered slightly at the close. Missouri Pacific closed 1½ lower at 100, after selling at 101⅝. One of the explanations for the weakness in these stocks is that if J. J. Hill has acquired control of Missouri, Kansas & Texas in the interests of Burlington as reported, the roads running to the gulf will encounter a vigorous competitor. The Rock Island issues, however, have been the laggards in the bull movement for months, which has led Wall street to express suspicious as to the speculative position of insiders on the general stock market.

Baltimore & Ohio was one of the strongest of the railroads, and was one of the few stocks to close higher than on Thursday. The argument was that as a 5 per cent stock Baltimore & Ohio was too low if the other 4 and 5 per cent dividend-payers were worth the price at which they were quoted.

At one time it looked as if United States Steel preferred would score a new high price, the stock advancing to 105⅝ on what was called confident buying. The common stock was also firmer, advancing to 38½. Both issues, however, sold off in the late reaction and closed near the lowest of the day. Tennessee Coal & Iron resisted the reactionary tendency for a time and advanced from 104 to 106¾ while the rest of the market was declining. It finally closed at a loss of ⅛ per cent. The copper stocks were weak and closed lower in the face of another advance in the price of the metal. The whole market closed active and weak.

Call loans were if anything easier, large amounts of what was thought to be foreign funds being loaned early in the day at 5½ per cent, and the rate declining to 3½ per cent at the close. Estimates on today's bank statement foreshadow a favorable showing, provided there is no great expansion in loans.

Westinghouse Air Brake advanced $3 a share from 155 to 158 and closed at 158¾ bid, the highest price for more than two years. This was the strongest stock in the local market. Union Switch & Signal advanced from 84 to 85, closing with a net gain of 1½ points. Electric rallied to 87¼ and closed unchanged for the day. The principal activity in the remainder of the list was in the steel issues. United States Steel common and preferred advanced fractionally in sympathy with New York, but did not participate in the late reaction in the eastern market. Crucible Steel common sold at 13 and the preferred at 67½ to 67¾, closing unchanged. A small lot of Philadelphia Company preferred sold at 49½, a recovery of 2⅜ from the last previous sales. On the other hand, Consolidated Gas preferred made a new low record, being offered down to 25½ without finding a buyer. The market for the stock has been extremely narrow for months past, but the weakness is attracting attention because the semi-annual dividend was reduced last August and the quotation naturally raises doubts as to the maintenance of the reduced rate of dividend. Independent Brewing bonds recovered to 107, while Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville Railway 5s rallied another fraction to 104½. Five shares Equitable Trust changed hands at 150, a decline of 15 points from the last previous sale. Safe Deposit & Trust sold unchanged at 395.

Louisiana Bank Closes Doors.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The comptroller of the currency has been advised that by order of the board of directors the First National bank of Leesville, La., has closed its doors. No cause is assigned.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH

Switch & Signal also rallied, and Electric was steady.

Steel stocks were moderately active and closed steady.

Bonds were dull, but prices closed a little higher.

IN WALL STREET

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The estimates of the week's currency movement, based on statements from New York bankers, indicated a considerable gain in cash by the banks to be reflected in today's bank statement. There have been heavy receipts by express from various points of the interior. Thursday's transfer to San Francisco of $600,000 deposited at the sub-treasury turned the earlier gain by the banks from that institution into a loss of several hundred thousand dollars and an additional deposit yesterday of $300,000 for transfer to the same point promised to increase these figures, but the receipts by express were estimated to be sufficient to afford a net gain of at least $3,000,000. Discounts in London yielded to below the bank rate and foreign exchange in New York was weak. Some very large sums offered in the call loan market at the stock exchange were reported to be the proceeds of the sale of finance bills in the exchange market by foreign banking houses.

Numerous inquiries are coming into brokers' offices asking for an explanation of the decline in Consolidated Gas preferred, which was yesterday offered down to 25½ on the local board and closed without a bid. Inasmuch as the company is operated by the Philadelphia Company and makes no separate statement of earnings, no information is obtainable on that score. The date for declaring the next semi-annual dividend does not occur until January and the date of payment is February 1, 1906. While the break in the stock naturally arouses doubts as to the continuance of the dividend at the recently reduced rate, it seems a long look ahead for the market to be discounting any unfavorable action in this connection. It seems to be a case of a peremptory selling order coming into the market when there are no buyers. Of course, if confidence in a continuance of the reduced rate of dividend were strong, the stock would be snapped up at current prices. Insiders who ought to know what the prospects are, remain indifferent to the course of the stock, and outsiders who know nothing of present or prospective earnings evidently have little faith in the stock as an investment.

About $65,000 worth of Westinghouse Air Brake and Switch and Signal changed hands yesterday. Air Brake sold at the highest price in two years, and the buying was undoubtedly for investment. There is some expectation that the extra dividend to be declared next month will be increased.

All grades of copper were advanced ⅛c yesterday, bringing lake and electrolytic up to 17½@17½c and castings 16¾@17¼c. These are the highest prices in five years. The advance is making many bulls on the copper stocks.

The directors of the General Electric Company have decided to issue a little more than half of the $11,674,600 increased capital stock authorized at a meeting of stockholders on November 1 last. The amount to be issued is $6,033,600 and the stock will be offered to stockholders for subscription at par to the extent of 12½ per cent of present holdings. This would amount to about one share of new for every eight shares of the existing capital.

Controller Grout awarded $11,593,290 of the $12,500,000 New York city 3½ per cent semi-annual 50-year improvement bonds to Harvey Fisk & Sons at 100. The balance was allotted to the small bidders.

Robert C. Hall and Richard R. Quay have resigned as directors of the Tonopah Extension Mining Company. At a meeting of the directors of the company yesterday Charles M. Schwab and William Montgomery, cashier of the Allegheny National bank, were elected to take the places of Messrs. Hall and Quay.

For the first week in November gross earnings of 37 roads aggregated $8,128,184, an increase of $544,892 over last year, or 7.19 per cent for the second week of November. The gross of 29 roads aggregated $9,039,424, an increase of $977,557, or 12.12 per cent.

Lazard-Freres loaned $5,000,000 on call at 5½ per cent yesterday.

Vice President Hanna of the Canadian Northern railroad has ordered $2,000,000 rolling stock and motive power for delivery next spring.

Control of United Railways Investment, which owns the stock of the United railroads of San Francisco, having been acquired by the other interests, Brown Bros. & Co. and Arthur Holland will retire from the management of the United railroads of San Francisco by January 1.

IRREGULAR MARKET HAS A HEAVY CLOSE

Volume of Business Contrcted and Many Stocks Have a Drop.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The Herald this (Saturday) morning says:

Trading on the stock exchange yesterday was somewhat more orderly than on the preceding day, and the volume of business contracted materially. In numerous other particulars, however, the markets of the two days contained many points of similarity. There was pronounced irregularity in the market and a weak and heavy close. Some few issues retained generally slight fractional improvements, but by far the larger number of stocks showed marked recessions from high prices, and net losses of a point or two in the standard issues were numerous at the close. Speculative sentiment was much mixed. The pool and clique operators still express confidence and gave force to their opinions by continuing the manipulation of some issues, but this was conducted somewhat less aggressively and certainly with more decorum than on recently preceding days. On the other hand general commission brokers suspected wholesale liquidation in some issues, under cover of other advances, and were, in consequence, not eager buyers.

There was very little in the way of actual news bearing upon any of the market movements of yesterday. Numerous rumors and unfavorable conjectures were current in connection with the pronounced weakness in Rock Island issues, and, although nothing definite came out of the heaviness of Rock Island stocks and bonds, taken in connection with the floating gossip had more than anything else to do with the late weakness in the market. Foreign advices were not reassuring.

The cabinet troubles in Great Britain and the decision of the powers to make a naval demonstration in force against Turkey, depressed the London exchange and most continental bourses. Money market conditions were easier. The forecasts of today's bank statement was favorable, showing from the known movement of money a satisfactory increase in cash. This had no appreciable influence on the market, however.

MUSICIANS WELL RECEIVED.

Excellent Program Given for Second Number of Young Men's Christian Association Course.

An audience which tested the seating capacity of Old City hall greeted the Whitney Brothers' quartet and Carmen's Italian Boys, who gave the second concert of the season in the Young Men's Christian association course last evening. In addition to the musical numbers, Elbert Foland, a reader and impersonator, gave several selections.

The program consisted of both instrumental selections by the orchestra and quartet. The orchestra, which, as its name implies, is composed of Italian boys, is very well trained and the youngsters are excellent musicians. Carmen A. Fabrizzia, who is the leader, received an ovation when he gave his violin solo, the Berceuse from "Jocelyn." This is a very difficult piece and Master Carmen, by the manner in which he played it, showed the study he has put into his music.

The next entertainment to be given in the course will be on the evening of December 29, when the Dunbars and the Lulu Tyler Gates Company will be heard.

Hindu Girl Is Admitted.

Immigrant Inspector Robert D. Layton announced yesterday that he had been assured that Mootkie, the deaf mute Hindu girl to be adopted by Charles R. Myles of Natchez street, Mt. Washington, would not be deported. Mr. Myles has proven his ability to care for the Hindu lassie he wishes to adopt, and with the assurance that the girl will not become a public charge she was permitted to enter the country.

MERGER RUMOR AFLOAT.

Story That Steel Corporation Is After New Haven Concern Neither Affirmed Nor Denied.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—A visit by officers or representatives of the United States Steel Corporation to the mills of the National Steel & Wire Company in this city a few days ago has given rise to the surmise that the steel corporation is considering the absorption of the smaller company, the offices of which are in New York, where E. B. Webster, the president, resides.

The resident manager here will neither affirm nor deny the rumors. The National Steel & Wire Company has mills at Baymonne, N. J.; Kansas City, San Francisco and Dekalb, Ill., as well as here. Its authorized capital stock is $10,000,000, not all of which has been issued.

TWO GOOD SALES IN ALLEGHENY

EAST END SALE OF $23,000

Two good sales were announced from Allegheny yesterday, making a very creditable list of deals for the North Side this week. Charles Schwan, the realty broker, has bought from Anna M. McFerron 1923-1925 Beaver avenue, Sixth ward, for $20,000. The lot is 40x120 feet, facing on the west side of the avenue, near Adams street. Two three-story brick buildings are rented for business purposes for $120 a month. In part payment for this property Mr. Schwan tendered 700 feet of frontage in the Troy Hill road in Reserve township, which was valued at $5,000, and 80x135 feet at Chislett and Baywood streets, Eighteenth ward, which went in at $6,500. The Troy Hill frontage is 100 feet deep and adjoins the Allegheny city line. Some time ago Mr. Schwan intended to build an apartment house on the Morningside lot, but finally gave up the project.

The other sale was that of the old Robert E. Lee homestead in Pennsylvania avenue, which has been disposed of for $15,000. The new owner is Harry Williams, Jr., who gets the property from Robert E. Lee. It is one of the old-time fine houses of that once aristocratic part of Allegheny, being a 14-room brick residence on 60x175 feet, between Beaver avenue and Manhattan street. It is said the purchaser will occupy the place as a home.

East End House Goes to Merchant.

Through the office of S. H. Lloyd the residence of C. G. Mitchell in Jackson street, Nineteenth ward, has been sold to Clifton A. Verner, the shoe merchant, for about $23,000. The residence is a very handsome one, practically new, and stands on 58x88 feet. It contains 12 rooms and two tile bathrooms and will be occupied by the purchaser as a home.

A report was circulated yesterday that the Joseph Fleming property at the southeast corner of Market street and Diamond square was to be sold at auction. The lot has a frontage of 36 feet in Market street, a depth of 120 feet. Because of its advantageous position it is one of the most valuable holdings in that neighborhood. A half dozen brick buildings occupy the lot. No sale has been ordered, it was learned, and the partition proceedings for the property are not yet settled, according to information received.

James R. Rinard, superintendent of the converting mills of the Edgar Thomson steel works, has bought the residence of the late John Steinweg in Camp avenue, near Fourth street, Braddock, for $8,000. The house originally cost $12,000 to build, and stands on a 44-foot lot.

Cut to Three Per Cent for Renting.

The practice of scalping rent commissions is again being reported among certain brokerage firms. The last instance of note is that of an East End firm which went to the new owner of a business property there and offered to rent it for him for 3 per cent of the receipts, after another agent had secured his promise that he would have the exclusive renting agency at the regular rate, 5 per cent, and had started to advertise it. There are comparatively few brokers in the city who will rent properties for 3 per cent, unless they are exceptionally well located business properties downtown, where a full list of tenants is almost assured from the start. The endless annoyances and difficulties a broker has to endure in getting desirable tenants for either residence or business properties, especially the former, make the 5 per cent commission very small if he counts his own time and that of his working force at a fair value. In addition, the cost of advertising, which is often borne by the broker, is considerable. Most brokers claim that there is nothing to be made in the renting of residence property or even small business holdings except as it brings them in other business and adds to their list of prospects which may later develop into sales where they will receive good commissions. If the rent rates are cut to 2 and 3 per cent, there are very few brokers who would touch that part of the real estate business, unless it were absolutely necessary to hold their trade. This is another of the cases where the local realty brokers as a class are exposed to losses caused by some of their number cutting commissions to a ruinous level, which might be remedied if there was a strong organization with uniform rules for prices to be charged.

McKee Place Building Up Fast.

The Land Trust Company by its agent, J. W. Harger, sold to a local investor two plots of Oakland frontage for $11,500. Both lots adjoining are on the east side of McKee place, between Bates and Louisa streets, and have a combined frontage of 100 feet by 201 feet in depth. One belonged to Mrs. Mary I. McKee and the other to Mrs. Phoebe Dravo. The buyer will at once build two center-hall brick houses to cost $12,000 each. The sites are just below the $80,000 apartment house which Gault & Giffen are to build, and only 100 feet from the three apartment houses which George H. Shickler will build in the same street at a cost of $80,000 each.

Through the Samuel W. Black company Frederick Fichtel & Son have leased from the estate of Elizabeth Morrison the three-story brick building at 615 Liverty avenue for a term of years. The firm will occupy the place with a wholesale grocery house after making extensive repairs.

William P. Carter has bought from S. M. and P. A. Ament of Wilkinsburg 26 lots facing on the south side of Allison street, Thirty-third ward, for $15,000.

Mary O. Cunningham has bought from Jennie A. Hanna four plots of frontage in the Nineteenth and Twenty-third wards for $10,275. They are 80x84 feet in Fannel street, 150x90 feet in Nantasket street, 30x90 feet in Hoosac street and 100x100 feet in Coverdale street.

Peddled the Option for Months.

A striking instance of how real estate broker may almost but not quite make a big commission is seen in the recent sale to William L. Curry of 48 acres at Christy park, McKeesport, for $140,000, through the office of J. A. Young & Co. For two years D. G. Donovan of the firm of Donovan & Akin of McKeesport had an option on this property for $8,000 less than Mr. Curry paid for it. He represented the Merchants' association of McKeesport and they were extremely desirous of having the property sold to some manufacturing concern so that the Tube City would get another big plant. Every inducement was offered to a dozen or more prospective buyers, to whom the property was presented, but not of them could be induced to see its value or advantages. Only a few days after Mr. Donovan's option expired Mr. Curry began to negotiate for the two lots through his brokers, having decided that they formed a splendid site for a steel plant.

Since Mr. Curry has secured title to the property he has been offered $50,000, or over $1,000 an acre, for his bargain. It is reported that a bridge will be built across the Youghiogheny river at this point to Port Vue and a big tin plate mill erected on the site bought. It is known the United States Steel Corporation would like to have the property, but the prospective mill will be an independent plant.

Small Sales on North Side.

Through the office of Frank N. Young of Allegheny the following North Side deals have been made: To Mrs. Iona T. McAfee, the James B. Wallace property at Chestnut street and Florence avenue, Avalon, for $6,500; to J. Young, the property of Lillie M. Williams in Marie avenue, Avalon, for $4,600; for M. L. Cole to E. M. Sandys, a property in Marie avenue, Avalon, for $4,500; for R. H. Ray to Peter J. Hauft, a lot in Marie avenue for $550; for Mrs. Theresa Sauter to H. E. Louer, a lot in Dunbar avenue, Bellevue, for $1,000; for Mrs. A. E. Whitfield to Q. D. Johnson, a lot in Brighton avenue for $3,500; for J. M. Garver to E. B. and E. A. Haviland, a house in Orchard avenue, Ross township, for $3,000; for Iona McAfee to J. M. Wallace, seven lots in the Bellevue park plan for $4,000. The same broker has placed mortgages lately on Bellevue and Avalon property totaling $40,000.

Edgewood: C. G. Mitchell sold to T. Lysle a 10-room reception hall brick house on 36x100 feet on the east side of Dewey avenue, Edgewood, for $6,400, as a home.

BUYERS ARE HOLDING OFF UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Trade on Local Markets Was Light Yesterday—Turkeys Are Reduced.

That buyers are holding off until the first of the week to lay in their supplies for Thanksgiving was clearly shown on the markets yesterday by the small amount of trade which was done. Merchants say that for three days next week they will have to do two days' work in one. The lull of yesterday, however, gives the merchants an opportunity to store away the produce which is being received for the business of next week.

Rabbits are getting cheaper every day and yesterday were quoted at from 25 to 30 cents a pair, and very good stock for the price. Squirrels remain the same, with a fair supply, while the demand is medium.

Turkeys, both live stock and dressed, were reduced in price. With the large supply coming in and with the shipments expected on Monday there can be little doubt but that the price will be further lowered.

Canned tomatoes promise to be in very light supply this year and grocers predict a tight season. From information received from different parts of the country the output this year has been the lightest since 1901.

The butter and cheese markets are about the same, with few, if any, changes.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 22 cars hay, 6 cars feed, 11 cars corn, 10 cars oats, 1 car rye, 1 car husks. Baltimore & Ohio, 21 cars hay, 1 car corn, 1 car oats. Wabash, 1 car hay. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 3 cars hay, 1 car corn, 1 car oats.

There is a strong demand for everything with the exception of corn. The demand for straw is perhaps the heaviest on the local market. While the receipts were fair yesterday, all arrivals were picked up in a hurry. All oats were advanced in price during the day and hay was also given a boost.

Ritchie County Gives Promise of Developing New Territory

Ritchie county is attracting a little more attention at this time than any of the lower southwest producing counties. Several completions made public recently point with some encouragement to the probable development of some new producing territory. The wells are not large, but it is a shallow sand territory and for that reason operators are interested. One of the most important wells drilled in is located on Sheeps run, Grant district. It was drilled by the Mountain State Gas Company and a gasser was expected. Oil was developed in the salt sand and the well is estimated to be good for 10 or more barrels a day. Another important test, completed in the same district by the Southern Oil Company, located on the C. Templeton farm, helps confirm the belief that a new stretch of salt sand territory can be developed. The last named test is located on Goose creek and is good for 25 barrels a day.

On Silver run, in Grant district, the Stewart United Oil Company has completed its test on the F. C. Chancellor farm and has a show for a 15-barrel pumper. These three test wells are so located as to give assurance that a pool of considerable dimensions has been discovered. Operators holding leases within the range of developments are getting ready to start considerable new work. On Tribble run, Meade district, Marshall county, the Moundsville Oil and Gas Company has completed its test on the Wesley Bonar farm and has a duster in the Gordon. On Dobbs run, same district, the Venture Oil Company is due in the sand at a second test on the W. H. Dobbs farm. On Middle Bowman creek, the Wheeling Natural Gas Company is due in the sand at a test on the James A. Bonar farm.

Four miles west of Weston, Lewis county, the Reserve Gas Company has drilled its test on the S. D. Camden farm into the fifth sand and has a very large gasser. Some years ago there were some oil wells drilled in that locality and a good deal of excitement followed. The oil was developed in the salt sand, but the wells declined rapidly. At Downs station, Marion county, the Hope Natural Gas Company has drilled its test on the J. R. Bell farm into the 50-foot and has developed a nice gas pressure. Near Jane Lew, Lewis county, the same company has drilled its test on the A. L. West farm through the Gordon and fifth sands and has a light gasser in the Gordon. In the same locality the Hope company is due in the sand at a test on the D. G. McWhorter farm.

At Uniontown, Wetzel county, the Hope Natural Gas Company has given its test on the David Sole farm a shot and it responded by producing 75 barrels in the ensuing 16 hours. This location is southwest of the Littleton district. The Carter Oil Company owns the oil right on the farm and the well will be turned over to that company. In the Fairview district, Marion county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its test on the Corbley Anderson farm into the Big Injun sand and has developed a fair gas pressure. It is now drilling to the Gordon. In the Salem district, Harrison county, the same company is drilling its test on the B. J. Jones farm from the Big Injun to the Gordon. In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 32, an old well, from the Big Injun to the Gordon and at six feet in the lower formation has developed no oil or gas.

On the Ohio side the best producers are found in the Woodsfield district, in Monroe county. In that locality oil is found in three formations, the Big Injun, Keener and Berea grit. In the last named formation the best producers are located east of Woodsfield. In that development the Carter Oil Company has just drilled in its No. 5 on the H. M. Unershot farm and has a 70-barrel producer. In the Big Lime district the Unity Oil Company has completed its No. 3 on the B. T. Denbow farm and has a 75-barrel producer in the Big Lime formation. Near Jerusalem, same county, J. H. Kuhns & Co. have drilled their test on the J. B. Aiken farm through the Keener sand and have a fair producer at that level. Across the county line in Belmont county the Bellaire Oil and Gas Company has completed its test on the Z. Taylor farm and has a duster in the Cow Run sand.

In the Louisville district the Fisher Oil Company has drilled its test on the Emanuel Yoe farm through all sands and has a duster. In the same district the Pure Oil Company and F. P. Hue have completed No. 15 on the Daniel Baker heirs' farm and have a 5-barrel pumper in the Keener formation. In the Trail run district, same county, James W. Wilson & Co. have completed their test on the Albert Eichelberger farm and have a duster in the Big Injun.

In the Payne district, Washington county, the Gray Oil Company has drilled No. 7 on the Bergen farm through the first Cow Run sand and has a 5-barrel pumper. In the same district the J. B. BIG DEMAND FOR FLOUR IMPROVES THE MARKET

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The wheat market opened weak, initial quotation in May being off ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c, at 86⅝c to 86⅞c. The decline was due chiefly to weakness in the market at Liverpool. The failure of the English market to respond to yesterday's advance here seemed to local traders to indicate that foreigners did not entertain serious fears concerning the Argentine crop situation and consequently traders here were inclined to dismiss the idea that the Argentine crop had been severely damaged by frost. As a result the price of May declined to 86½@86⅝c. The fact that rain had last night fallen over the greater portion of the wheat growing territory of the United States was apparently ignored, early in the session. On the decline a leading bull became an active purchaser of May wheat. This created a general demand which resulted in a sharp upturn. Reports of large sales of flour at Minneapolis which came in about this time were an important factor in the situation. The strength of cash wheat at that grain center also stimulated the demand for wheat here. For May the highest point of the day was reached at 87⅝c. The market was steady during the latter part of the day. Final quotations in May were at 87⅛c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 183,000 bushels. Exports for the week as shown by Bradstreets were equal to 3,358,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,170,000 bushels, against 1,358,000 bushels one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 945 cars against 814 cars last week, and 1,142 cars one year ago.

Early in the day the corn market was inclined to heaviness because of selling by commission houses and pit traders. Later, however, the market became steady on fair demand from shorts. Wet weather throughout the corn belt was the main feature in steadying the market. The close was firm. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 43⅞@44c, sold off to 43½c and closed at 43⅞c. Local receipts were 356 cars with eight of contract grade.

Renewed liquidation in the December option was the feature in trading in oats. The May delivery was given good support by commission houses. The market held comparatively steady the entire session. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 31⅞@32c to 32c, sold off to 31¾c and closed at 31¾@31⅞c. Local receipts were 151 cars.

Despite a slight decline in the price of live hogs, provision market was firm throughout the day. Shorts were liberal purchasers and there was also an increased demand for investment account. Small packers and local longs were the principal sellers. At the close May pork was up a shade at $12 95. Lard was off somewhat at $7 05, ribs were 2½c higher at $6 82½@6 85.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Late advices from Copper Mount, Prince of Wales island, state that the Alaska Copper Company's smelter has been in continuous operation since blowing in the latter part of August, with the exception of a few days required to install larger settlers. The mine is developing extensive ore reserves and the leased property at Kassaan bay, on the east side of the island, has developed large ore bodies with increasing gold values. It is rumored that the company will declare a dividend after the annual meeting in January.

John G. Montgomery of Denver and New York has been appointed American general manager of the Venture Company of London. This is one of the largest mining corporations in the world.

Eastern interests connected with the Mohawk copper mine have recently made an inspection of their property. It is general expectation that the company will declare a dividend of $2 a share in January.

The Newton Copper Mining Company, operating a few miles west of Encampment, Wyo., has uncovered a deposit of low grade copper ore 30 feet in thickness. Across the entire 30 feet the rock carries 5 per cent of copper, while there is a five-foot streak carrying 10 per cent of copper and $12 in gold. The ore body was uncovered at a depth of 140 feet.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The London tin market was 5s lower, at £153 5s for spot, but futures were unchanged at £153. Locally, the market was reported firm, with spot quoted at $32 55@32 75. Copper was decidedly higher abroad, closing at £76 for spot and £75 5s for futures. The local market is strong. Electrolytic is said to be in better demand than lake, and sales have been made, it is said, around $17 62½, while it is believed that little if any business has been done in lake above $17 50. Generally speaking, quotations range as follows: Lake and electrolytic, $17 12½@17 62½, and castings at $16 75@17 25.

Lead was unchanged at £15 7s 6d in London, and at $5 25@5 75 in the local market. Spelter was also unchanged in both markets, closing at £28 12s 6d in London and at $6 10@6 20 in the local market.

Iron was higher abroad, with standard foundry quoted at 52s 6d and Cleveland warrants at 53s 6d. Locally, the market is reported firm at recent prices. No. 1 foundry, northern, is quoted at $18 75@19 35; No. 2 foundry, northern, at $18 25@18 85; No. 1 foundry, southern, at $18 50@18 75, and No. 2 foundry, southern, at $18 00@18 25.

WARM WEATHER HOLDS BACK SALES OF WOOLENS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

Fundamental conditions are unchanged, although higher temperature at many points again checked retail sales of heavyweight wearing apparel and other seasonable merchandise. Labor conditions in the building trades have not improved, and another serious struggle may occur, which would be most unfortunate in view of the large operations under way and contemplated. Otherwise the situation is satisfactory and the outlook bright, with mercantile collections steadily improving. Holiday trade gathers impetus as the season advances. Comparisons with last year's figures continue favorable, this week's gains being swelled by the holiday a year ago, but equilibrium in this respect will be restored next week. Leading industrial undertakings report little idle machinery and there is less complaint regarding car shortage, railway earnings thus far available for November exceeding last year's by 6.4 per cent. Foreign commerce at this port for the week showed a loss of $1,689,032 in exports and a gain of $53,177 in imports as compared with the same week last year. It is customary at this time of year to find a general quieting down in the iron and steel business, but normal conditions do not prevail this season. Although the leading interests have prevented any sensational inflation of prices, all divisions of the market have hardened sufficiently to accelerate the operations of consumers who believe that it is the part of wisdom to prepare for future requirements.

Activity continues at textile mills, but the primary markets for cotton goods were decidedly disturbed by the violent advance in raw material.

Quiet conditions continue in the market for packer hides, chiefly because orders cover deliveries so far into the future that sellers are indifferent regarding new business. Leather remains quiet because of the light offerings of such varieties as are wanted. New England footwear factories are hurrying contracts for delivery before the close of the year and also cutting the new season's goods.

Failures this week numbered 228 in the United States against 205 last year and 34 in Canada compared with 39 a year ago.

Wheat (including flour) exports for the week ending November 23 are 3,358,063 bushels, against 4,730,211 last week, 1,332,366 same week last year, 3,851,767 in 1903 and 4,179,685 in 1902. From July 1 to date the exports are 44,871,535 bushels, against 28,015,447 last year, 68,727,795 in 1903 and 109,437,009 in 1902. Corn exports for the week are 1,010,522 bushels, against 1,064,633 last week, 29,692 a year ago, 1,520,941 in 1903 and 255,174 in 1902. From July 1 to date the exports of corn are 21,802,979 bushels, against 16,959,576 in 1904, 23,503,544 in 1903 and 2,645,454 in 1902.

Dried Fruit Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Parties short of evaporated apples for November delivery seem to have secured the necessary supplies, and the market is comparatively quiet, though the tone continues firm. Common to good are quoted at 7c, nearly prime at 8½c, prime at 9@9¼c, choice at 10c and fancy at 11c. Prunes are less active, but prices are well held and spot quotations range from 4⅝ to 7½c, according to grade. Apricots are attracting a fair demand, though buyers seem to be satisfied with small lots, which are obtainable within the recent range. Choice are quoted at 8½@9c; extra choice at 9¼@9¾c; fancy at 10@11½c. Peaches are in a strong position, with extra choice quoted at 10c, fancy at 10½c, extra fancy at 11¼@12c. Raisins appear to be more or less unsettled by reselling slightly under association prices. Loose muscatel are quoted at 5¾@7¼c; seeded raisins at 5¼@9c; London layers, $1 60.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at an advance of 5 points in response to steady cables and light interior receipts at Brazilian points. There was continued nearby liquidation, but the switching was hardly as active as recently, which, with tomorrow, the first notice day for December, was considered a favorable factor and there was a little improvement in the general demand. The market closed steady at a net advance of 5@10 points, with sales reported of 144,750 bags, of which about 90,000 bags were switches. Sales included December at 6.50@6.60c; January at 6.65@6.70c; March at 6.90@6.95c; May at 7.05@7.15c; July at 7.25@7.40c; September at 7.45@7.50c, and October at 7.50c. Coffee—Spot Rio steady; No. 7 invoice, 8 5-16c; mild steady. Sugar—Raw firm; fair refining, 2 15-16@3c; centrifugal 96 test, 3½@3 9-16c; molasses sugar, 2 11-16@2¾c; refined steady.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The volume of business in the drygoods market today showed comparatively little enlargement, owing to buyers' conservatism regarding the future. The buyers were desirous of prompt deliveries, which were not obtainable, and they were not willing to operate very far ahead. Many lines were withdrawn and prices were uncertain.

NEW A. G. F. A. ON WABASH SYSTEM

Officer Will Be Appointed to Take Charge of Fast Freight Lines—B. & O. Election.

TURNER AND PECK IN WEST

The Wabash railroad will not abolish any of the fast freight lines in which it is interested, but will do away with separate managements and appoint an assistant general freight agent to take direct charge of this phase of the traffic department's business. This was the information given yesterday by General Traffic Manager D. O. Ives of the Wabash system. Mr. Ives and other officers of the traffic department spent the day in conference here. Among the other out-of-town men were Joseph H. Kerr, general manger of the American Refrigerator Transit company; Ralph Lawrence, general agent at Wheeling, and General Freight Agent H. J. Booth.

The Wabash is taking this means to reducing the expense of operating the freight department. In addition to abolishing separate managements for fast freight lines, it is said a number of individual agencies are to be abolished by the Wabash. Some of these men will be given service as Wabash traffic agents.

The selection of a man to take charge of the fast freight lines as assistant general freight agent has not been made, or, at least, has not been announced. It is probable that a man in the company's service will be selected for the position.

Differentials Are Unchanged.

The meeting of heads of the passenger departments of the trunk lines in New York early this week, which was secret, is said to have resulted in nothing but a maintenance of the present conditions of standard and differential fares. It was hoped the roads might get together on a new differential basis, but this was not done, each road not caring for the expense that a row among the roads would have caused.

Recently the Michigan roads were admitted to the Central Passenger association, but a number of them were not satisfied and withdrew, giving the required notice. Now the roads that remained are to be given, on December 15, a Michigan mileage book at a flat rate of $20, with the mileage good for reaching Chicago and Toledo from the Michigan lines. The roads that will use this book are the Michigan Central, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Grand Rapids & Indiana and Wabash.

Telautograph Works Well.

The telautograph instruments which were installed in the offices at the Union station terminal several months ago are giving excellent service. The originating instrument, on which the messages are written and sent out, is in "UF" tower, at Fifteenth street, where the situation of each train on the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania is noted. The receiving instruments are in the train dispatchers' and the station master's offices in the Union station. As soon as any word is received regarding a train, it is written on the receiving instrument, and this writing is noted by a mechanical contrivance writing the message in the same hand on the receiving instruments. The telautograph saves much time for the officers, who were formerly compelled to telephone to the tower to ascertain the situation of the trains or their arrival at the station.

O. G. Murray Begins Third Term.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24.—At the meeting of the board of directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company today, the present executive officers of the company were re-elected, namely: Oscar G. Murray, president; George F. Randolph, first vice president; Hugh L. Bond, Jr., second vice president and general attorney; George L. Potter, third vice president; J. V. McNeal, fourth vice president and treasurer, and C. W. Woolford, secretary. This is the beginning of Mr. Murray's third term as president of the company, having previously been one of the receivers and first vice president, in charge of traffic, successively, for nearly eight years. The annual report, issued last Monday, fully reflects the character of the management of the property.

Local Officers Ride on C. & N. W.

At the invitation of officers of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, Third Vice President J. J. Turner and General Manager G. L. Peck of the Pennsylvania lines west are spending a couple of days on an inspection trip over the properties of that road. They took a daylight ride from Chicago to Omaha yesterday in a special train. This route is 492 miles long, and in order to cover almost this entire distance in daylight some fast running had to be done. The visit of Messrs. Turner and Peck is simply a friendly one and has no significance beyond the courtesy of the Northwestern officers.

Shows "The Workshop of the World."

E. D. Smith, former assistant general passenger agent of the Baltimore & Ohio here for many years, is distributing to his many friends a booklet of great interest. It is entitled "A Glimpse of the Greater Pittsburgh, the Workshop of the World," and consists of a compilation of more than 600 facts in regard to this city and immediate district. The facts and statistics are up to date and are of considerable interest in view of the "Greater Pittsburgh" agitation now before the people. The facts and statistics were compiled by Percy F. Smith.

Holiday Rates Are Announced.

The Central Passenger association has issued notices to all of the roads in the organization that for the Christmas holidays the rate of one-third fare will obtain for tickets leaving on December 23 and returning until January 3, inclusive. These rates will apply over the entire association territory, including Wheeling, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, Buffalo and Pittsburgh. This is an unusually long duration for the tickets. Passenger officers expect heavy traffic.

Railroad Notes.

Circulars have been issued announcing the appointment of E. C. Bashaw as agent of the Baltimore & Ohio at Fitzhenry.

C. H. Newton has been appointed agent of the Wheeling & Lake Erie and Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal roads at Toledo.

Col. Samuel Moody, general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines west, and his chief clerk, Frank W. Conner, are expected home this morning from a visit to Indianapolis, Louisville and Cincinnati.

Commercial Agent F. A. Butterworth of the Great Central route is spending a couple of days in Philadelphia on business. Traveling Freight Agent J. W. Redmond of the same system has just returned from a business trip to Chicago.

Ticket Seller George F. Sellers of the Baltimore & Ohio's city office is entertaining at his home Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bryden of Grafton, W. Va. Mr. Bryden, who is Mr. Sellers' brother-in-law, is identified with the Davis-Bryden Coal Company.

PRICE ADVANCE OPPOSED.

United States Steel Corporation Objects to Demands Made by Eastern Plate Mills.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—At the recent meeting of the Steel Plate association, the eastern steel plate mills made a very strong argument for an advance in prices. An advance was strenuously opposed by the representatives of the United States Steel Corporation. They argued that conditions would not be improved by an official advance.

From the foregoing it is apparent that the United States Steel Corporation is keeping prices down by force. The eastern steel plate mills are doing a good business, but on future delivery the mills are getting no more than the official price of $1.60 Pittsburgh.

F. W. CUNNINGHAM TELLS HIS STORY

1,000 CASES IN LAST TERM

With the exception of a few minor witnesses who will be heard this morning, the trial of F. W. Cunningham, charged with involuntary manslaughter, growing out of the Harwick mine disaster, will end this morning. Inspector Cunningham was a witness in his own behalf, being on the stand nearly four hours and undergoing a rigid examination by Assistant District Attorney Grimes.

Inspector Thomas K. Adams stated that although proper ventilation might have prevented the explosion at the initial point, after it occurred such ventilation would spread its force. He explained this by saying the concussion and pressure produced by the first explosion would raise more dust if currents of air were being sent through other parts of the mine and the flame would thus be fed.

Inspector Cunningham stated he resided in Wilkinsburg and had been employed as a mine inspector since January, 1903. Previous to this he had worked as a mine superintendent, a mining engineer and as a miner, being connected with the mining industry since boyhood. He said there were 73 mines in the thirteenth bituminous district in which he is inspector, and it takes about four days on an average to properly inspect each mine. He was inspecting a mine in Westmoreland county the day the explosion at the Harwick mine occurred, and did not hear of it until about 12 hours after it had taken place.

Went at Once to Harwick.

Inspector Cunningham said he went at once to Harwick and was the first mine inspector to arrive on the scene and took charge of the rescue party. He said he had been informed that Mine Engineer Selwyn M. Taylor had gone into the mine with another man and had not returned. Cunningham stated that with a companion he made the decent of the shaft and found Taylor lying dead about 800 feet from the mouth of the shaft and brought the body to the surface.

Cunningham said the mine was full of afterdamp and gas and was in a dangerous condition when he entered it to secure Taylor's body. The afterdamp was what killed Taylor, he said. Cunningham stated the explosion in the mine was without doubt caused by a "blow out" shot, as an examination of the mine some time after the explosion led to the discovery of the hole in which the "shot" had been placed, but had blown out because of overdrilling. Cunningham explained this by saying that where a hole is overdrilled the force of the "shot," instead of going into the coal, went into the air. The burst of flame ignited the gas or dust and the explosion resulted. Cunningham said there were several other causes for explosions in mines. A match being lighted, a broken safety lamp or the explosion of a dynamite cap might cause an explosion, he said. He said if the mine foreman had made the proper examination for gas the explosion would not have resulted.

Advised Open Lamp Taken Out.

"Previous to the disaster," said Cunningham, "I advised that the open lamps be taken from the bottom of the shaft."

Cunningham said he had visited the Harwick mine within the three-month limit fixed by law, his last visit being on November 4. At that time the mine was in a safe condition, he said, and gas in dangerous quantities was not present. He said the air test was not made because it was not necessary, as the air in the mine was good. He denied having knowledge that compressed air was used to drive gas out of the mine and said he had warned the miners about this.

tI is thought the attorneys will conclude their addresses to the jury before noon and a verdict will likely be rendered today.

With the exception of the Cunningham case jury trials for the September term of the criminal court ended last evening. During the term over 1,000 cases were disposed of. Among these were 12 indictments for murder, the trial of A. G. Marshall, which lasted three weeks, and the graft cases against the Allegheny women charged with keeping disorderly houses.

John Coyle was acquitted on a charge of felonious assault. He was charged by Milton Rinehart of Lawrenceville with shooting him in the foot. Paul Woodzinski, for violating pure food laws, was fined $100 and costs.

Wife Was Not Present.

Thomas M. Park secured a divorce from Bertha S. Park for desertion. The wife asked a jury trial, but failed to attend. Her attorneys tried to show she left because Park had taken her to live at his father's house, instead of one of his own.

A new trial was granted in the case of Ernest Bisi against the Central National bank of Wilkinsburg, because the charge of the court was not sufficiently explicit.

May E. Scully and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Scully ask $10,000 damages from the Standard Automobile Company for injuries alleged to have been received by a vehicle striking Mrs. Scully and her daughter while standing at Center avenue and Craig street.

In the United States court the jury in the case of Henry and Sarah Goldsmith, who ask $20,000 for death of their son in the Duquesne Limited wreck, asked the court for additional instructions as to negligence and son's service.

In the case of the International Coal and Coke Company against the Pennsylvania Company and the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railroad for $40,000 damages, alleging the railroads did not get their cars of coal and coke into Chicago on time, a question of interstate commerce law is raised.

In the case of the Monongahela and Western Dredging Company vs. Jones & Laughlins, a sealed verdict was returned.

On petition of William McGeary, attorney for the prosecution, the trials of former Aldermen B. C. Barton and I. A. Levy, charged with conspiracy to defraud, were postponed until the December term of the criminal court.

Verdict Against Pension Fund.

In the suit of Anna M. Mackey, administratrix of C. S. Mackey, a former city policeman, against the Police Pension Fund association of Pittsburgh, a verdict for $1,000 was awarded the defendant, subject to a question of law reserved as to whether under all the evidence the decision should not be for the plaintiff. Mackey was a policeman for 15 years and was summarily dismissed by the administration, shortly before he died, for political reasons, so the plaintiff alleges, and under the by-laws of the association policemen were entitled to membership unless dismissed after a trial.

Judge Hawkins disallows the claim of Julius Hartman against the estate proper of his mother, Maria Hartman. In a former opinion Judge Hawkins had allowed this claim along with that of an interest in his beneficiary estate which the son had assigned to his wife for her support. Against this interest a note of Julius Hartman is now charged by the court.

Clara Livingston petitioned the court to open a judgment Menter & Rosenbloom entered against her. She denies she bought the merchandise they allege in their suit against her and alleges the judgment was prematurely entered.

The Gold Bullion Mining and Development Company and others, defendants in an equity action of Everson P. Cole over stock, filed a demurrer alleging the plaintiff's bill is not of the proper printed form and that he has an action at law.

The commissioners' reports in the divorce suits of Harry Black against Fannie Black and May Irvine against Claude A. Irvine have been filed. Desertion is alleged in each case. Subpoenas in divorce are: Pearl Wheeler vs. Bradley P. Wheeler, Sarah A. Means vs. Andrew J. E. Means.

RAW DEAL FOR CLARK.

Allegheny Architect Says Director Scandrett Took Contract Away and Kept Plans and Specifications.

Architect W. E. Clark of Allegheny was given $150 by the Allegheny public safety committee at its meeting Thursday night because of work Clark had done in drawing up plans and specifications for a new engine house in the Fourteenth ward. The money is a dead loss, for which Director Scandrett is blamed. Clark was about to enter suit against the city, but was persuaded not to do so by Controller Brown, who assured him the money would be paid. According to Clark Scandrett gave him a pretty raw deal.

Clark says he was given the contract to draw up the plans and specifications for the new engine house, which would involve an expenditure of about $16,000. In March he says he took the plans to Fire Chief John K. Hunter, who in turn gave them to Scandrett. Then, Clark says, he was told to go no further with the work as the contract was to be taken from him and given to a man named Reiger, who lives in the Fourteenth ward. He says Scandrett also refused to return the plans and specifications to him, and insists the director has admitted his plans have saved the city $3,000 or $4,000. After hearing his story the safety committee voted Clark the $150, and some wanted to make it $800 or 5 per cent of the estimated cost of the building.

Price Tells Where He Stands.

County Commissioner Price yesterday put a quietus on the reports contained in organs of the Citizens party, that he is in favor of a big bond issue for road improvements. Mr. Price is in favor of building roads, but will oppose a five-mill bond issue of $3,500,000 for that purpose. He said yesterday that the county commissioners could issue $750,000 bonds for roads, but instead of such a bond issue he favored a two-mill tax, by which $1,500,000 could be raised.
